Japs Plan to Carve China Into Five States

OFFER LONDON, PARIS, BERLIN SPECIAL RIGHTS

Would Allow Chiang to Rule Interior.

PEKING, July 1.—(AP)—A plan to end the Chinese-Japanese war, under which China would be carved into at least five autonomous units under separate governments, today was reported being drafted by Chinese members of the Peking provisional government and their Japanese advisers. The government officials and their advisers all are dominated by the Japanese army.

While the plan admittedly had little chance of early acceptance by the Chinese government of Gen. Chiang Kai-shek, it was believed to be an important indication of the basis on which Japan would be glad to end the conflict, now less than a week from its first anniversary.

Offer Europe a Slice.

As a bid for European acceptance of Japan's partial conquest of China, Japanese sources indicated the European powers would be offered spheres of influence. The scheme, therefore, was said to resemble the plans of imperialists of forty years ago, when the breakup of China appeared imminent.

The five autonomous states envisaged by the draft plan were said to be:

Japs Will Recognize Chiang.

It was said Japan would recognize Chiang Kai-shek as head of the Hankow régime if he would accept the scheme. Probably he would resign "to save his face" and then return, it was said.

Domei, the Japanese news agency, said that Italy and Germany would recognize the Peking provisional government soon as an extension of their anti-communist accord with Japan. Both already have recognized Manchukuo, the state Japan carved out of China's Manchurian provinces.

Other sources expressed belief the United States, Great Britain, and France would continue to recognize the Hankow régime as the legal government of all China, but would maintain de facto contact with the Peking régime through their branch embassies here.

The "Spheres of Influence."

Japan in North China and Inner Mongolia.

France in South China.

Observers said knowledge of the plan was not confined to the Japanese and their Chinese friends in Peking. They pointed to recent "enthusiastic, olive branch waving" editorials in the Peking and Tientsin Times, influential British owned paper published in Tientsin.

This paper in an editorial yesterday said both Hankow and Tokio were anxious to conclude peace, despite their declarations of determination to fight to the end. It said the way had been paved for peace discussions.

Predict Sixth State.

Some observers pointed out that the plan entirely neglected the problem of the Chinese communists, who control the northwestern provinces of Sinkiang, Kansu, Chinghai, and Shensi, and large portions of Shansi.

In that area it was predicted another autonomous régime would develop, probably under the influence of soviet Russia, and from which guerrilla warfare could be carried on indefinitly against the parts of China accepting the Japanese plan.

CUBS WIN NIGHT GAME FROM REDS, DERRINGER. 11-4

The Cubs defeated the Reds, 11 to 4, last night in their annual night game in Cincinnati before a crowd of 19,731. In scoring their victory the Cubs routed their old jinx, Paul Derringer. Score:

RAP INCREASING PROPAGANDA BY ADMINISTRATION

Press Agents Using Radio, Movies.

BY CHESLY MANLY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 1.—[Special.]—An exhaustive study of the propaganda machine of the Roosevelt administration, presented for the Congressional Record today by Representative Paul W. Shafer [R., Mich.] shows that more than 300 press agents are employed on "publicity and education" work and that the cost to the taxpayers is more than $1,500,000 a year.

The Roosevelt administration, Mr. Shafer declared, leads all democracies in the matter of propaganda. He compared it to the Nazi ministry of propaganda, saying:

"Our federal propaganda machine has not been unfairly likened to those of certain well known central European countries. Certainly, in point of effectiveness and articulation to its public, it need doff its hat to none."

Quotes Secretary Wallace.

"A steadfast national allegiance to any fixed course, international or intermediate, also requires a certain degree of regimented opinion," he quoted Wallace as saying.

As to the methods favored by the Roosevelt administration, Mr. Shafer cited the manual of publicity prepared by the Washington office of the Works Progress administration for distribution to state directors.

Editorialize in Speeches.

"A presentation by speech has one great advantage over the majority of methods of presentation by the printed word, especially in the case of newspapers and periodicals," the manual said. "The advantage is that in speeches before assemblies and speeches over the radio it is permissible, without violating any of the canons of good taste, to editorialize—express opinions—much more than is possible in articles for newspapers and other publications."

The Roosevelt administration, Mr. Shafer said, not only has continued the old standard machinery for interviews and handouts which constitute press relations but has resorted to the use of the motion pictures, the radio, and the photograph for its propaganda purposes.

Shafer Summarizes Cost.

Mr. Shafer said the best summary of the extent and cost of the administration's progaganda machine was found in a survey made by the Brookings institution for the reorganization committee headed by Senator Harry F. Byrd [D., Va.]. The Brooking institution found that 270 government employés were engaged in publicity work, and that their salaries cost the taxpayers $602,000 a year.

"Many government establishments gave only a partial report to the Brookings institution," Mr. Shafer said. "In fact most of these reports failed to include stenographic help, messengers, mimeograph operators, cost of mimeographing, printing, and photo-lithographing.

Wallace Employs Forty-six.

"It is interesting to note that the department of agriculture admitted it employed 46 persons in public relations activities and the Agricultural Adjustment administration employed 24. The Federal Home Loan Bank board confessed to employing 13; the Federal Housing administration, 23; the National Emergency council, 12; the Resettlement administration, 10—from an inspection of transcript of the pay roll of approximately Oct. 1, 1936, it appears that there are at least 42 persons engaged in publicity activities in the Resettlement administration—Social Security board, 21, and the war department, 8.

"Twenty-six persons employed in publicity work was receiving a salary of $5,000 or more, and twenty-one persons devoting at least part of their time received a similar salary. During the three month period ending Sept. 30, 1936, the federal government issued a total of 4,794 press releases. The total number of copies of these issued was in excess of 7,000,000."

Start Vesper Concerts in 5 Forest Areas

BY EDWARD BARRY.

In five of the forest preserves that fringe the city the hour of four tomorrow afternoon will be a bad one for the birds. These creatures will find at that time that their duties have been taken over by another type of biped.

For the men and women of various city choral organizations will begin a summerlong series of Sunday afternoon open air concerts. The programs have been arranged by THE TRIBUNE, in coöperation with the Cook county board of commissioners. Concerts begin at four and last one hour. The concerts are free.

Choose Hour Near Twilight.

In choosing this time of day the sponsors have been actuated by the knowledge that most of the men, women, and children who romp so eagerly into the woods in the morning are often hard put for something to do by late afternoon. Food and baseball and horseshoes lose at that hour much of their allure, and this new summertime feature of the forest preserves may provide a pleasant transition to evening activities.

Here is an opportunity to hear choral music, not amid the confining walls nor from the hard seats of church or theater, but in a tree ringed glade with the soft earth to lie or sit upon. And the incense provided by nature—the fragrance of flowers and grass—can be relied upon to excel immeasurably any other product that goes by that name.

Programs Light in Nature.

With the exception of a highly serious program in Harms Woods, the music is generally of a light, melodious order, admirably suited to an hour of relaxation at the end of the day. It is suited to everything except a driving rain. In that event the concerts will be adjourned.

In Harms Woods west of Evanston a choral organization made up of Max Krone's Northwestern university summer students is to sing. Wilson Mount, director of music in the Memphis, Tenn., public schools will direct. The choir of the Austin Methodist Episcopal church, with Rai Sturges conducting, will sing in the Caldwell reserve, near Milwaukee and Devon avenues.

In Thatcher woods, River Forest, Carl Craven's ladies' chorus is the attraction. The Palos Hills preserve, Mannheim road and 116th street, will be host to the Lake View High school a cappella choir, Naimo Sweet, director. The Metropolitan Community chorus, under J. Wesley Jones, sings in Dan Ryan woods, 87th street and Western avenue.

LOT OF BEAUTY GRACES AN INDEPENDENCE DAY FETE—BACK IN 1857

If you think there's anything of recent origin about beauty contests, listen to this. There was one in Illinois in 1857 as part of a Fourth of July celebration. Research workers for the Federal Writers' project of the Works Progress administration have learned that it was held near Ottawa in La Salle county that year. It was for Indian beauties only, and an old chief was chosen judge. After sufficient deliberation to impress the onlookers he stopped before one of the contestants. She was six feet tall, so the story runs, and weighed more than 400 pounds. The old chief placed a hand on her shoulder. "Prettiest squaw," he said, much in the manner of an umpire calling a close play. She was his wife.

We're in New Era! Wife Goes Home and Beats Mate

Buffalo, N. Y., July 1.—(AP)—City Judge Patrick J. Keeler breathed a sigh for "the good old days" and sentenced a woman to six months in jail for clouting her husband with a length of iron pipe.

"A husband used to go home and beat his wife, and that was a sad business," the judge said. "Now the wife goes home and beats her husband."

Show Gym Tricks to Duce; 4 Fascist Leaders Injured

ROME, July 1.—(AP)—Four Fascist party chiefs were injured today attempting to show Premier Mussolini their gymnastic ability. Two federal secretaries fell on the points of bayonets over which they were trying to jump from a springboard. Another was scorched leaping through a ring of fire. A party inspector landed on top of a tank and injured his chest.

Albuquerque, N. M., July 1.—[Special.] — The body of John Medill McCormick, great-grandson of Joseph Medill, founder of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, was recovered this afternoon from a ledge high on a peak of Sandia mountain and was brought to a mortuary here.

McCormick, who was 21 years old, plunged to his death on a mountain climbing expedition June 22. His body was found by a party of Sandia Indians last night on almost the opposite side of the mountain from the place where the body of his companion, Richard Whitmer, was found a week ago.

Mother Formerly in Congress.

Young McCormick was the son of the late United States Senator Medill McCormick, former publisher of THE TRIBUNE, and of the present Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick Simms, wife of Albert G. Simms, an Albuquerque attorney. Mrs. Simms was congresswoman-at-large from Illinois from 1929 to 1931. Mr. Simms also is a former member of congress.

The youth was a nephew of Col. Robert R. McCormick, present editor and publisher of THE TRIBUNE, and had he lived to enter a newspaper career as he had planned he would have been a fourth generation member of the family associated with the Chicago newspaper.

Funeral to Be Today.

Funeral services will be conducted at 5 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at La Quinta guest hall at the Simms ranch, and burial will be in Fairview cemetery in Albuquerque. The Rev. James McClane of Manitou, Colo., a friend of the McCormick family, will officiate.

Indians stood guard over the body all last night on the ledge, where it was found after one of the most intense mountain searches ever conducted in this part of the country, and the haz-

Warn of Perils as City Awaits a Gala Fourth

Carefree and lighthearted, Chicagoans by the hundred thousands will set out today with millions of other Americans to enjoy the three day, work-free Fourth of July week-end.

But they bear with them a warning from public officials of the city, state, and nation that unless they exercise ordinary common sense and observe elementary rules of safety they may expect a repetition of the fearful slaughter of other Fourths of July.

Annually this toll of death and destruction has meant the maiming or blinding of children. It has meant death by drowning for hundreds. And for others it has brought brutal death under the wheels of speeding automobiles.

Kelly Urges Extreme Caution.

Mayor Kelly urged every man, woman, and child to use extreme caution. He suggested they observe the week-end at family picnics, community celebrations, sporting events, or public supervised fireworks displays.

If you would have your children live longer and enjoy life, the National Safety council added this list of "do" and "don't" suggestions for children over the week-end:

DON'T:

1. Use fireworks.
2. Let dad use fireworks.
3. Get in a boat unless you can swim well.
4. Try to get a summer's tan in one day.
5. Ride long distances on a bicycle if it is very warm.
6. Take unnecessary chances on or in the water.

DO:

1. Wait at least one hour after eating to go in swimming.
2. Be extra careful when crossing streets.
3. Cover your head when playing in the hot sun.
4. Play in the playground or backyard instead of in the street.
5. Get parents' permission before going swimming.
6. Make sure water is deep enough and clear before diving.
7. Stay away from behind the batters' box at a ball game.

July Month of Slaughter.

From the United States public health service at Washington came a vivid warning of what the Fourth of July has meant in lost or crippled lives. This is the week-end, the health service bulletin stated, which annually starts July on its record as the month of slaughter.

"Just 10,200 people lost their lives last July in accidents, more than two and one-half times as many as were killed in the revolutionary war!" stated the health service. "And 1,000,000 more suffered disabling accidents in 1937's July, one out of every 130 men, women, and children in the nation.

"Estimates show these accidents cost a total of $350,000,000 in property and other damages. No one puts a figure on tragic losses which

FLOOD LOSSES HIT $3,000,000; TRAFIC TIED UP

Farmers suffered damages in excess of $3,000,000, three major railroad lines were put out of commission, and vacation schedules of thousands of Chicagoans were knocked awry yesterday by floods which followed a series of cloudbursts and freak rainstorms. Continued unsettled weather, with occasional showers, was forecast for the Chicago area today and tomorrow.

The heaviest damage was concentrated in northern Cook county, its two northern neighbors, Lake and McHenry, and Walworth county, Wis. In the last area storm waters washed out 17 highway bridges, including two on U. S. Route 12, the main traveled road from Chicago to Minneapolis.

The rainstorms were freaks in two senses. The first, according to C. A. Donnel, Chicago weather forecaster, was that they were extreme manifestations of a fairly common tendency in the Chicago area during the warm months—the rainfall was highly localized.

North Shore Suburbs Suffer.

Except for its northern fringe, Chicago proper knew nothing of the storm. In the north shore suburbs, highways were blocked and basements flooded by the hundreds. A few miles farther north, damages by the downpour mounted rapidly.

Rain gauge readings showed the storm trend clearly. In 24 hours ending at 7 a. m. yesterday, the official Chicago gauge on the University of Chicago campus showed only .68 inch. Evanston recorded 4.01 inches. Williams Bay, Wis., reported 6.75 inches, a 30 year record, and nearby Delavan, Wis., had an unofficial reading of 7.2 inches.

A second characteristic of the rainfall was that it came on top of ten days of fairly steady rain, which had left the topsoil soaked and streams brimful. As a result, the added downpour made torrents of small creeks, while standing water ruined thousands of acres of small grain and hay.

Million Damage in County.

C. A. Hughes, Cook county farm adviser, estimated that the rainfall caused damage of $1,000,000 to standing crops on Cook county farms. His estimate was based on a minimum damage of $300 on each of the 3,500 farms in the county, with the damage heaviest in the northern part of the county.

H. C. Gilkerson, Lake county farm agent, estimated the damage in Lake and McHenry counties at $725,000. This was based on a 25 per cent crop loss on small grains and hay, and a loss of one-fifth of the corn crop.

In Walworth county, Wis., James Beatty, county agent, put the damage to crops at $500,000, principally to small grains and hay. F. H. Everson, in Jefferson county, Wis., and Fred Thomas, in Waukesha county, Wis., could not make an estimate of money damage, but said that the rain had beaten down oats crops, planted as nurse crops for alfalfa, to the extent that farmers would have to salvage what they could by cutting the grain for hay.

Losses in Dairy Region.

Throughout the Wisconsin dairy regions, where hay is an important crop, extensive damage was reported. For the last ten days farmers in that region had been raking their hay one day and spreading it to dry after overnight showers the next. The last downpour wrecked crop prospects for many of them.

Railroads suffered more heavily from the downpour than they have in the Chicago region for many years. The principal sufferer was the Chicago and North Western. Two bridges were carried away on its Wisconsin division south of Harvard, McHenry county. Suburban trafic on the division was halted all day yesterday beyond Crystal Lake, but work crews reported that they hoped to open the line by 6 a. m. today, to carry trains with the heavy vacation trafic to Lake Geneva and Williams Bay, Wis. The North Western's branch from Kenosha, Wis., to Harvard also was tied up by a washout.

The main line of the Soo line was tied up from early yesterday until 10:30 a. m. by washouts in Lake county, where several miles of tracks were inundated between Mundelein and Lake Villa.

In the same area the Milwaukee railroad had to suspend local service on its line to Janesville and Madison because of several washouts north of Libertyville. Both the Milwaukee and the North Western rerouted through trains to Madison, Duluth, and the Twin Cities by way of Milwaukee.

Many Motorists Marooned.

Hundreds of motorists were trapped by flooded highways and drowned ignition wires along Lake county and north Cook county highways early yesterday. At the end of the day U. S. route 12, in addition to the open bridges in Wisconsin, was still impassable for several miles in western Lake county.

Another important through route, U. S. 14, also was blocked in Walworth county. High water made the Skokie highway, U. S. 41, impassable west of Lake Forest and Lake Bluff. At the grade separation at Skokie and Deerfield roads the underpass was under twelve feet of water.

River, Rand, and Palatine roads and Milwaukee avenue were still flooded along certain low areas in the northwest section early today. Roads in the neighborhood of the Des Plaines river were generally inundated. A general subsiding was looked for, however.

The Chicago Motor club assured motorists that most of these routes were expected to be opened by this morning, and that, even if they were not, the network of paved roads approaching Chicago provided an abundance of paved detours.

In spite of these assurances, resorts in southern Wisconsin reported a flood of cancelations of holiday reservations. The rainfall also ruined their holidays for thousands who had expected to spend the Fourth in lake cottages in Lake county.

Summer Cottages Under Water.

Hundreds of these cottages were inundated by rising waters of lakes and nearby streams, or rendered untenable by rain which penetrated their roofs. At Diamond lake alone 150 cottages were flooded, and the toll was still heavier in the Fox lake region.

Another group of would-be holiday merrymakers who were disappointed were those who had reserved picnic spots in the Cook county forest preserves. Many of these parties canceled their reservations, and others will arrive on the scene today to find the spots they reserved under water. Forest preserve crews toiled steadily all day yesterday to move tables and benches to higher ground.

In those preserves along the Des Plaines river, however, they were foiled by the steadily rising waters of the river, fed by the downpour hours earlier in Lake county. In the north part of the county the river escaped its banks last evening.

Near Des Plaines water which rose at the rate of a foot an hour cut off the family of Francis Perry, a roofing contractor, in a house near the river. County highway police obtained a motorboat and rescued Mrs. Perry, two children, and the family cat. The water was six feet deep in the first story of the house when they arrived.

$250,000 Bridge Damages.

H. J. Peters, highway commissioner of Walworth county, estimated that it will take $250,000 to repair washed out highways and replace destroyed bridges in that Wisconsin county. Conservation officials also had reason to curse the downfall, which approached a cloudburst in their neighborhood. They had seined 80,000 pounds of carp out of Lake Delavan, to prevent their preying on game fish, and sequestered them in ponds along the shore. The rain washed out the pond barriers and let the carp back into the lake.

Highland Park was among the worst hit of the north shore suburbs. In the west part of that town the Skokie drainage ditch overflowed and isolated a dozen homes, occupants of which were able to reach them only by rowboats. Rain washed 30 feet of Central avenue, in Highland Park, into a ravine near the lake front, and destroyed a small bridge nearby.

At North Chicago the rain washed over the bluffs above the city bathing beach, causing caveins which piled tons of clay on the beach. Water invaded the plant of the Chicago Hardware Foundry company, doing damage estimated at $15,000. A C. I. O. strike has closed the plant, and when foremen were summoned to help repair the damage, pickets refused them entrance.

Part of Waukegan Hard Hit.

The southwest portion of Waukegan and the neighboring section of North Chicago, along 10th street, were hard hit by flood waters collected in low lying lands there. Water in some instances came up to the first floor windows of homes, and extensive damage was done to merchandise in store basements along 10th street.

An attendant in the pumping station at Fort Sheridan, situated in a ravine near Lake Michigan, was startled during the early morning hours when a two foot wall of water smashed down the ravine and sent a door floating across the station floor. The pumps were out of commission for an hour.

The West Lake street bridge in Libertyville was washed away, and water did considerable damage to the macaroni plant of the Foulds Milling company in that town. It was about Libertyville that farmers suffered some of the heaviest damages. Observers reported that hundreds of acres of oats, wheat, and other small grains were so deeply flooded that there was little doubt that the crops will be a total loss. Corn fields fared little better.

An area of eight acres at Winnetka avenue and Hibbard road, Winnetka, was still under water this morning, Winnetka police reported. The level stood at four inches and automobiles were able to go through. A general rise was noted after midnight.

Ex-Editor Kills His Wife, Then Himself on Farm

Cortland, N. Y., July 1.—(AP)—Chesla Sherlock, 42 years old, former editor of St. Nicholas magazine, and his wife were found shot to death today at their farm home on the Virgil-Dryden road. Coroner Claude E. Chapin said Sherlock killed his wife with a shotgun, then shot himself. Sherlock had been managing editor of the Ladies' Home Journal, retiring in 1933. Before that he had been editor of Better Homes and Gardens at Des Moines, Ia. His first wife divorced him late in 1934 and he married his second wife in New York at the end of 1935.

Two motorists were jailed and two others were fined by Judge Charles S. Dougherty in the Safety court yesterday. The driving rights of all four were suspended for varying periods.

Joseph Leay, 5328 South Fairfield avenue, was sentenced to ten days in jail for driving while intoxicated, and Edward Hadlock, 600 North Kenilworth avenue, Oak Park, to one day for reckless driving. Hadlock had spent twenty days in jail awaiting trial. He was arrested on June 9 when he drove his car into a bus unloading passengers at Pulaski road and 57th street.

Thomas Pulaski, 3928 West 66th street, was fined $10 for reckless driving, and Milton Chalifoux, 228 East Huron street, $5 for leaving the scene of an accident. Chalifoux was captured by Miss Phyllis Eisenberg, 6948 Paxton avenue, after his car had struck her automobile on June 10 in the outer drive. Miss Eisenberg was in court.

amounted to almost fourteen lives an hour, each death the result of an accident by drowning, falls, excessive heat, electric shock, food poisoning.

Day Not Glorious for These.

Then the bulletin listed a few of the deaths which occurred on the last Fourth. Four boys were shot to death. A cannon cracker exploded under a boat—two men were drowned. A toy cannon killed the man who played with it. In Idaho six women and girls were burned to death when fireworks ignited in a drug store.

Parents and children who want the thrill of an aerial bomb, or a flashing pinwheel, without the danger of a tetanus infection, were urged to attend a public display such as the Cook county council of the American Legion will stage tomorrow night in Soldiers' field.

An estimated throng of 80,000 will watch from the safety of the amphitheater seats while Legion officials present a mammoth pyrotechnic pageant. In addition there will be the thrilling sight of 10,000 massed flags and an international polo game between teams from the 124th Field artillery and the Cuban army.

Other Events Numerous.

There will be similar displays tomorrow night in Pulaski park, at Blackhawk and Noble streets, and River park, at 5100 North Francisco avenue. In Dyche stadium, Evanston, Monday night the north shore communities will have their fireworks show, an annual event since 1922.

For those who prefer other forms of enjoyment there will be concerts in Jackson and Lincoln parks tomorrow night and in the Grant park band shell Monday night.

The Glorious Fourth week-end will find countless others watching the antics of strange animals in the Brookfield and Lincoln park zoos, or doing a little cavorting themselves on Lake Michigan's many beaches. Although public beaches will be open and 225 life guards will be on hand, V. K. Brown, recreation director of the park district, warned that the lake is too cold for swimming.

FIRE IN UNION LEAGUE CLUB.

For an hour yesterday evening, firemen with hand pumps battled a stubborn blaze in a grease chute on the sixth floor of the seventeen story Union League club at 65 West Jackson boulevard. Trafic was held up until the fire was extinguished.

WOODRING GIVES PRAISE TO VETS OF GETTYSBURG

Addresses Joint Reunion at Historic Battlefield.

Gettysburg, Pa., July 1.—[Special.]—Union and Confederate veterans of the civil war, here for their first joint reunion, today assembled on the grounds where the historic battle of Gettysburg began just 75 years ago, and heard Secretary of War Harry H. Woodring pay tribute to their fighting qualities and extend the "love and admiration" of a united nation to them all.

"The contestants on this great battlefield were American soldiers—Americans of the north and of the south," he said. "Each was fighting for principles that he sincerely believed to represent the eternal truth.

Pays Tribute to Dead.

"How well these soldiers fought—these soldiers of the blue and of the gray—is attested by the thousands that sleep today on this field where they fell. We of a later generation can pay only inadequate tribute to their memory, to their courage, and to their sacrifice."

The secretary recalled that after the war the young veterans of both sides assumed a large share of the burden of rebuilding the country. "Compared with the difficulties which they overcame, our present troubles seem small," he said.

Gov. George H. Earle of Pennsylvania welcomed the veterans of both armies to Gettysburg and then presented Dr. Overton H. Mennet, 89 years old, of Los Angeles, commander of the Grand Army of the Republic.

"May we be an example to all peoples of the earth, of love and tolerance," Dr. Mennet said. "Let us plead for mutual confidence and peace among men."

Confederate Leader Speaks.

Gen. John M. Claypool, 92 years old, of St. Louis, national commander of the United Confederate Veterans, then spoke.

"We are members of the same fellowship, Americanism, and our principle demands it," he said.

An estimated 10,000 persons, 1,800 of them veterans, thronged the Gettysburg college stadium for the program. Northerners and southerners mingled and discussed old times between the activities on the platform.

Earlier in the day the old soldiers, most of them accompanied by attendants or pushed about in wheel chairs by Boy Scouts, visited parts of the battlefield which held especial interest for them. Among them they verbally fought the battle of Gettysburg, which began on this date, 1863, over again, but in a spirit of friendliness.

SCHOOLS TO KEEP 19 POOLS OPEN THIS SUMMER

At the suggestion of Mayor Kelly, swimming pools in 19 public high schools and in the Wright Junior college will be opened to boys and girls, 10 to 18 years old, five days a week during July and August, James B. McCahey, president of the board of education, said yesterday. There will be no charge, but the swimmers will be required to furnish their own towels and soap.

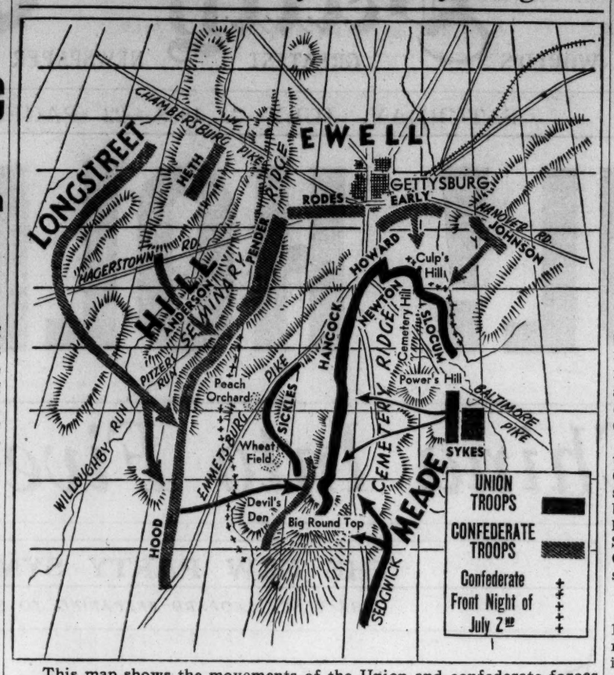
The pools will be opened Tuesday for the first time this summer. Girls will swim on Mondays and Tuesdays while boys will use the pools on Wednesdays, Thursdays, and Fridays. Instructors will be in charge. Last summer more than 125,000 boys and girls used the pools.

BERWYN'S FIRST MAYOR SEIZED IN TRAFIC ACCIDENT

George Murphy, first mayor of Berwyn, was arrested by Oak Park police last night and charged with reckless driving, passing a stop light, and disorderly conduct. He is 65 years old and lives at 624 South Elmwood avenue, Oak Park. He served as mayor of Berwyn in 1909 and 1910.

Roy Hofer, 1008 Pleasant street, Oak Park, who signed the complaints, charged that Murphy's car struck his automobile at Ridgeland avenue and Roosevelt road in the suburb after going through a stop light and then tried to get away. Hofer chased and caught him, he said. Police set Murphy's case for July 8 before Justice of the Peace M. H. McGrath.

End of 2d Day of Gettysburg



This map shows the movements of the Union and confederate forces on the second day of the battle of Gettysburg with the lines as they were at the end of the day's fighting. The Union army had repulsed the confederate attacks on Cemetery ridge, their defensive stronghold.

UNION LINES HOLD ON SECOND DAY AT GETTYSBURG

Longstreet's Advance Halted by Sedgwick.

On the morning of July 2, 1863—75 years ago today—six corps of Meade's union army lay along Cemetery ridge and the confederates lay in a parallel concave line to the west. The lines were drawn for the second day of the momentous battle of Gettysburg.

Longstreet had urged Lee to file around the federal left flank, but Lee ordered the attack on that flank at 11 a. m. It was not until 3:30 p. m., however, that Longstreet's corps was in a position on the confederate right. His artillery was in action but it was too late to alter Sickles' union line which had gone forward. Meade sent Sykes with the fifth union corps to support Sickles.

Hand to Hand Slaughter.

Sickles' left was thrown back toward Round Top and the union troops holding the Peach Orchard were subjected to deadly cross fire. From 4 to 6:30 p. m. Longstreet drove on Sickles' salient through the Peach Orchard. The union flanks were turned in hand to hand slaughter, and Sickles' line turned west and facing south. Now, heavily reinforced, the remnants of Sickles' corps were able to fall back to Cemetery ridge. Sickles was wounded and Birney took his command.

At 5 p. m. Johnson's confederate corps opened an attack on the union right to divert Meade from Longstreet's drive. But Johnson ceased fire at 6 p. m., his guns overpowered by Meade's.

Halt Longstreet's Advance.

Longstreet's advance was terminated as Sedgwick's union troops came up north of Round Top. The confederates were frustrated in their effort to drive the union line from Cemetery ridge. Longstreet's right held its ground but his left was withdrawn while Hill's extension of this flank moved back to Seminary ridge.

At sundown Early sent his three brigades against Cemetery hill and Johnson advanced against Culp's hill. But as the confederate assault on his left had failed, Meade was in position to support his threatened right, and Ewell's confederate divisions were flung back.

When the firing ceased, the federal position was intact from Culp's hill on the north to Round Top on the south, except at the extremities where the confederates had obtained partial possession of the outlying hills.

FREE CAB DRIVER IN HIT-RUN DEATH OF YOUNG WOMAN

A charge of manslaughter against Herman Marks, 1138 South Sacramento avenue, a taxicab driver, was nol prossed on motion of the state yesterday after Judge John C. Lewe in the Criminal court had ruled out an alleged confession by Marks. He was arrested last March 24 after circumstantial evidence had linked him with the death of Margaret Donoghue, 22 years old, 5726 South Elizabeth street, who was killed by a hit and run driver on Jan. 9.

The evidence against Marks was collected by the Marquette police, who found marks of green and black paint on a lamp post hit by the car which struck Miss Donoghue at 31st street and Western avenue and traced them to a cab driven by Marks. According to the police, Marks confessed the crime. After Marks had been questioned on the stand by his attorney, Charles Bellows, Judge Lewe ruled that it was not a voluntary confession and was not admissible.

RADIO AUTHOR INJURED; WIFE KILLED IN CRASH

Don Quinn, radio script writer, was seriously injured and his wife, Garnette, was killed in an auto accident near Murdo, S. D., on Wednesday, according to word received yesterday. Quinn is author of the Fibber McGee and Molly radio show.

Mr. and Mrs. Quinn were driving to their new home at Pebble Beach, Cal., for a vacation before his radio show returns to the air in September. Their car skidded on a wet highway thirty miles south of Pierre, S. D., and went into a ditch. Their Chicago home was at 1250 Stone street.

Boy, 7, Killed by Car.

Daniel Brennan, 7 years old, of 6648 Ingleside avenue, was killed last night when he ran out into the street in front of 935 East Marquette road and was struck by the car of Fred Haas of 4917 Lake Park avenue.

The boy's brother, Robert, 10 years old, saw the car approaching and stopped their companion, Thomas Mullaney, 7, of 6536 Ellis avenue, but was unable to reach Daniel. The injured boy died at Woodlawn hospital.

Richard Sytniewski, 11 years old, 2100 North Mango avenue, died early today in the Danish-American hospital of a skull fracture suffered last night. He was struck down by a car driven by Thomas Brown, 26, 5837 Ohio street, when he attempted to run across the street in front of 2040 Mango avenue, police said.

Lawyer Killed in Michigan.

S. J. Spiegel, a member of the law firm of Spiegel & Gorman, 127 North Dearborn street, was killed yesterday when his automobile collided with a car driven by E. A. Schultz of Muskegon, Mich., on U. S. highway 12, ten miles south of Benton Harbor. Schultz and three of his passengers were injured. Mr. Spiegel lived at 1519 Jonquil terrace and is survived by his widow and two children.

Frank P. White of Chicago, secretary of the Illinois Elks Crippled Children's association, was in a serious condition in the Greer hospital, Vandalia, Ill., last night as the result of an automobile accident two days ago. White lost control of his car on State Highway 2 and U. S. Highway 51, south of Vandalia.

Hurt in E. F. McDonald's Car.

Mrs. Jane Hobinger Clark, 36 years old, of the Lake Shore Drive hotel, 181 Lake Shore drive, and Peter J. McAvoy, 31, of 1031 North Dearborn street, an insurance salesman, suffered facial injuries early today when a car in which they were riding crashed into a safety island in Michigan avenue at Walton street. They were taken to the Henrotin hospital.

The car bore a license issued to E. F. McDonald Jr., head of the Zenith Radio corporation. Mrs. Mary Higgins, sister of Mrs. Clark, who is a divorcée, said that the latter is a friend of Mr. McDonald and has permission to use his car. Mrs. Higgins and Mrs. Clark live together. McAvoy told police a colored man was driving at the time of the accident. He is being sought.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 404 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these 310 were killed in Chicago, where 9,030 were injured in the same period.

G. O. P. TO HONOR JEFFERSON AT GRAVE JULY 4TH

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 1.—[Special.]—Are the Republicans plotting a kidnaping of Democracy's No. 1 patron saint?

That was the question in many a mind and on many a tongue today when the Republican national committee announced that its chairman, John Hamilton, will lay a wreath on the grave of Thomas Jefferson at Monticello July 4.

Under the influence of the Roosevelt administration the Democrats for the last five years have given little more than lip service to the ideals of Jefferson. With its increasing centralization of government and aggrandizement of the executive the administration, many commentators have pointed out, is more Hamiltonian than Jeffersonian.

Now Honor Jackson.

The custom of staging a great party celebration on Jefferson's birthday, which obtained during the Wilson régime, has fallen into desuetude under Roosevelt. The party celebration now is staged on Jackson day, because of the fondness of Mr. Roosevelt for the character of Old Hickory, whom he fancies that he resembles. In the Democrats' celestial hierarchy Saint Andy virtually has crowded out Saint Tom.

Now, the Republicans, who have been waxing more Jeffersonian than Hamiltonian, have leaped to the rescue of Saint Tom. Chairman Hamilton's gesture is to be invested with the trappings of much ceremony. It will begin with an address by Mr. Hamilton on "The Aims of the Republican Party" at the institute of public affairs of the university of Virginia at Charlottesville, Va., on the forenoon of July 4.

Move On to Jefferson's Grave.

Then in the afternoon of that day, which is the anniversary of the Declaration of Independence, which Jefferson wrote, and also the anniversary of Jefferson's death, Mr. Hamilton, accompanied by the Republican leaders of Virginia, will proceed to Monticello to pay solemn tribute to the founder at his grave.

This gesture, following Chairman Hamilton's recent speech at the Republican state convention in Alabama, will lend further emphasis to the movement for coalition of the Republicans and the conservative Democrats of whom Mr. Roosevelt has undertaken to purge his party. All sorts of schemes for effecting such coalition have been suggested.

Inasmuch as the name Republican is anathema to southern Democrats, a conservative stronghold, it has been suggested that Republicans abandon their party name and join with the conservative Democrats under the banner of the Jefferson party.

Seek Democratic Candidate.

Some Republicans have proposed that their party, while retaining its name, fuse with the conservative Democrats by nominating a conservative Democratic candidate for President.

In his Alabama speech Mr. Hamilton indicated that he would retain the name of the Republican party, but he would promote coalition by giving conservative Democrats places in the Republican organization.

"Only the deep-seated loyalty that comes from years of loving and serving their party keeps many southern Democrats today from formally and openly repudiating it under its present leadership," said Chairman Hamilton, in his Alabama speech. "Yet, in the end, if our country is to prosper, if America is to be preserved as a land of opportunity without classes, if free enterprise—for which the south always has fought—is to be reëstablished, then principles must triumph over our emotions and our prejudices.

"There is today no insurmountable barrier between the real Democrats of the south and the Republican party. As roll call after roll call in the senate during the last five years has demonstrated, they see eye to eye on many questions. The Republican party bears the name of the party founded more than a century ago by the great Thomas Jefferson. The Republicans of today better exemplify the principles and philosophy of Jefferson than do those who call themselves New Dealers."

DROPS HIS SAW FOR LOVE; GETS QUITE A WRENCH

Oscar Rasmussen, 54 years old, 4300 North Cicero avenue, and Mrs. Marie Price, 32, appeared yesterday before Municipal Judge Joseph B. Hermes to answer charges of disorderly conduct, preferred by her estranged husband, Boyd, 4336 Dayton street.

Price testified he often saw Rasmussen enter Mrs. Price's home at 3833 Southport avenue in the rear of her candy store at 9 p. m. Although he kept a vigil until 3 a. m., Price said he never saw Rasmussen leave.

Rasmussen, a carpenter, admitted he visited Mrs. Price, but only to repair leaks in the store plumbing or do other plumbing jobs. Judge Hermes dismissed the charges but warned Rasmussen not to do any more plumbing in Mrs. Price's candy shop.

Held in Slaying

Verna Mae Fowler, held in Georgia in connection with killing of J. C. Nelson, 10 years old, so three could collect insurance on his life.

[Associated Press Wirephotos.]
Mary Kent, also facing murder charge as result of boy's death.

Waycross, Ga., July 1.—[Special.]—Two women, accused of drawing straws for the assignment to kill a boy, 10 years old, in an insurance plot, were held today for grand jury action on July 25. Harvey Nelson, the boy's father, was held with them.

Solicitor John S. Gibson said Nelson had confessed the plot. Gibson quoted Nelson as saying the killing was arranged after he had agreed with Verna Mae Fowler and Mary Kent about the distribution of the money.

On May 26, Nelson is said to have confessed, the two women drew straws in his home, Verna Mae Fowler drawing the long straw for murder. When his son, J. C. Nelson, returned from school, Nelson said he was shot and killed, his death being announced as a suicide.

"We had decided previously how the $900 was to be split," Gibson said Nelson told him. "It was agreed that Mary Kent should have $200 in cash, that Verna Mae Fowler should have my automobile clear of any indebtedness, and that I should pay $90 due on the car, pay the funeral expenses, and have the rest of the $700."

Verna Mae Fowler insisted that Nelson, a road house owner, had fired the fatal shot, the prosecutor said.

CHECK CLEWS TO MYSTERY DEATH OF CAMERAMAN

Hollywood, Cal., July 1.—(AP)—Scientific tests today were ordered to determine, if possible, whether King D. Gray, assistant film cameraman, killed himself or was slain.

His body was found yesterday in an auto in front of the Hollywood postoffice. There was a bullet wound in his chest and an exploded pistol shell in the car, but no pistol. Gray apparently had been dead 8 to 15 hours.

Police authorities ordered a microscopic examination of Gray's coat and a paraffin test of his hands for powder marks that might indicate he fired the death pistol. Gray, a married man with two sons, held in one hand a letter from Newcastle, Pa., with the salutations of "Dear Daddy."

"The letter was from a nice girl who asked Gray to do her a simple favor, said Detective Captain J. J. Jones, who declined to disclose her identity.

Leaves on Special Train Next Thursday Night.

BY WALTER TROHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hyde Park, N. Y., July 1.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt this afternoon announced the itinerary of the political cross-country tour he will begin next Thursday.

On the trip, which is to carry him through more than a dozen states, Mr. Roosevelt will employ his famous voice in an effort to purge the Democratic party of his conservative congressional opponents.

The purge program long attributed to the President was formally admitted in his recent fireside chat.

Marietta First Visit.

The trip will begin at 10:30 p. m., Chicago time, Thursday. The presidential special will arrive at 9 o'clock the next morning at Marietta, O., where Mr. Roosevelt will participate in ceremonies commemorating the 150th anniversary of the first settlement in the northwest territory.

In his speech he is expected to put in a political plug for Senator Robert Bulkley of Ohio, consistent administration supporter. Bulkley is being opposed in the Democratic senatorial race by former Gov. George White.

From Marietta Mr. Roosevelt will dip into Covington, Ky., where at the Latonia race track later the same afternoon he will say kind words for "Dear Alben"—Senate Majority Leader Alben W. Barkley—who is being opposed at the Democratic primary by the state's youthful governor, A. B. [Happy] Chandler.

Tennessee on Route.

Mr. Roosevelt will make a platform speech at Bowling Green, Ky., at 8:50 the same evening. His special during the night will continue through Tennessee, the home of Senator George Berry, who has found no welcome sign on the White House door mat since his attempt to press a $5,000,000 marble claim against the TVA precipitated a feud in the power body's directorate. Berry is facing a stiff primary battle.

The special train will arrive in Oklahoma City, Okla., at 6 p. m. Saturday, July 9. At the fair grounds Mr. Roosevelt will reward another supporter, Senator Elmer Thomas, who is in the heat of a three cornered primary battle with Gomer Smith and Gov. E. W. Marland.

From Oklahoma City the Presidential special will go to Fort Worth, Tex., where arrival is scheduled for midnight Saturday. He will motor to the home of his son, Elliott, where he will spend the night and Sunday.

Amarillo Next Stop.

The special will get under way Monday morning. The next scheduled stop is Amarillo, where Mr. Roosevelt will arrive at 7:45 p. m., motor through the city and depart at 9:30.

The next morning he will arrive in Pueblo, Colo., where he is expected to drop a word of praise for Senator Alva Adams, who worked tirelessly in behalf of the pump priming program. From Pueblo the train will go through Utah, passing through Salt Lake City in the night.

On the morning of Thursday, July 14, the special will arrive in Crockett, Cal. There the party will detrain for a motor ride to San Pablo bay, the Mare Island navy yard, Sausalito and San Francisco.

Then the President will motor through the city to the exposition grounds at Treasure Island. He will leave the grounds, where he will bestow his blessing on the candidacy of Senator William Gibbs McAdoo, for the Oakland dock, where he will board the U. S. S. Houston and review the fleet in San Francisco bay.

Fishing Trip Scheduled.

He will come ashore and reboard his special train shortly before midnight and proceed to El Portal, the entrance to Yosemite park, where he is due to arrive the morning of July 15. He will spend the day touring the park and return to his train for an overnight run to Los Angeles.

There he will detrain and motor through the city on his way to San Diego, where he will board the cruiser Houston the afternoon of July 16, for fishing off Galapogos and Cocos Islands.

On his return to the eastern coast of the United States through the Panama canal, Mr. Roosevelt will leave fish for politics probably at Mobile, Ala., or Savannah, Ga. Details of this end of the trip were not announced.

Get TWO grand pounds for the picnic, for the auto trip. I've boxes already made up to suit you, ready for your selection. My SUMMER SPECIAL is famous: filled with delicious caramels, nut candies, coconut cream rolls, fruit jellies, hard candies (no chocolates) and it is only 55 cents per pound; or TWO pounds for $1.00.

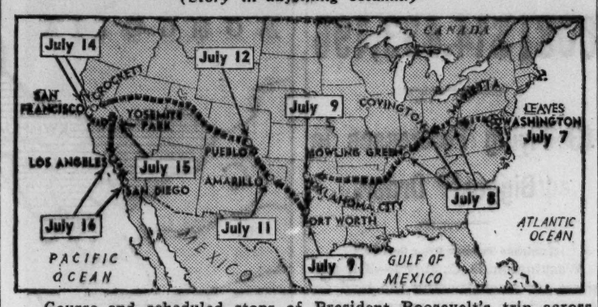
OUT OF TOWN CUSTOMERS SEND ORDERS TO MRS. SNYDER'S MAIN SHOP 119 N. WABASH AVE., CHICAGO

MY SUMMER SPECIAL is a mixture of simply delicious things: fruit jellies, coconut cream rolls, caramels, chewies, hard candies, and nut candies. No chocolates. 55c per pound.

2 pound box, $1.00

Route of Roosevelt's Tour

(Story in adjoining column.)



Course and scheduled stops of President Roosevelt's trip across the United States, which he will start next Thursday night. In his speeches he is expected to speak kind words for congressional friends of his program and to slap at his enemies. At San Diego, Cal., he will board a cruiser for a fishing jaunt off Galapagos and Cocos Islands. He will return through the Panama canal and land at Mobile, Ala., or Savannah, Ga.

PRESIDENT WILL BUILD RETREAT IN HIGHLANDS

Place Will Be Hideout from Press.

Hyde Park, N. Y., July 1.—[Special.]—On Dutchess hill, in the Hudson highlands, President Roosevelt today pointed to the beginnings of a retreat from which he expects to hide from callers, telephones, the press, and the world whenever he feels the call of solitude.

Mr. Roosevelt said he has been looking for the site for twenty years and found it a few months ago on the land of a neighbor. He let the contract for the construction of the house yesterday and supervised the turning of the first earth this morning.

Names Retreat for Hill.

The retreat is to be named after the hill, the acquisition of which made the President the largest land holder in a community which numbers such blue bloods as the Astors, the Vanderbilts, the Millses, and the Rogerses.

Mr. Roosevelt pointed out the beauties of the site. To the northeast he identified a dim haze as the Berkshires, to the north the North Catskills, below them the South Catskills, still lower the Shawangyanks, and to the south the Hudson highlands. He announced he will be able to see into Connecticut and Massachusetts in fair weather. Trees are being thinned to improve the view.

The house, which will be small, he said, was designed by himself. He has the assistance of Henry Thoombs, architect of the Georgia Warm Springs foundation, for infantile paralysis sufferers which he founded.

Description of House.

It will have a combination living and dining room 24 by 22 feet; two small bedrooms, a kitchen and servants' rooms. It will have but one floor and will be constructed of Dutchess county field stone to be gathered from old stone fences. The structure is to cost $15,000.

There will be no telephones, he said. He added that the house was being constructed to enable him to get away from everybody, particularly the press.

Later at the rambling home at Hyde Park which is owned by his mother, he greeted Crown Princess Louise of Sweden, who is a house guest. The President visited her husband, Crown Prince Gustaf Adolf, who was to have been present, in a New York hospital yesterday, where the heir to the throne of Sweden is under observation for a kidney ailment.

The President will leave here Sunday morning for Washington. En route he will halt in the late afternoon at Gettysburg where he will speak at the observance of the 75th anniversary of the great civil war battle.

WPA BOSS COMPARES U. S. WITH GERMANY OF PRE-HITLER DAYS

Columbus, O., July 1.—(AP)—Aubrey Williams, deputy WPA administrator, tonight compared America with Germany in the days before Hitler and said "We must not neglect the lessons taught," in an address before the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

Williams said Germany, "whose economy had not recovered from the disruption caused by the world war, was then ruled by moderate political parties, which did not do enough while there was still time to do it, who hesitated, compromised and delayed. In the end the German people succumbed to privation, and a new group came to power that did not believe in democracy.

"I know America is not Germany, but America is part of the world, and we must not neglect the lessons taught by what happened in those countries in recent years."

GUNN GETS BUSY AFTER HE TAKES OATH AS JUSTICE

Springfield, Ill., July 1.—[Special.]—Elected Monday, Justice Walter T. Gunn of Danville today pitched in to lighten the load of cases pending in the Illinois Supreme court. The new justice was hard at work half an hour after he took the oath of office.

"I assumed there would be a lapse of about thirty days before I took up my new duties, but I'm glad to be here," Justice Gunn said, his tanned face wreathed with a smile.

"Perhaps I'm a Simon Legree." Chief Justice Elwyn R. Shaw chuckled. "We have so much work waiting that I asked to have your commission rushed through."

The final summary of Mr. Gunn's victory today showed he received 80,592 votes, compared with 66,525 cast for his Democratic opponent, Judge Joseph L. McLaughlin of Sullivan. Republicans were jubilant because they had gained a total of 44,000 votes over the 1933 results in the 3d judicial district, when Democrats won by 30,000.

Toy Pistol Caps Explode, Injuring Berwyn Boy, 3

Glen Ison, 3½ years old, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Ison, 3230 South Maple avenue, Berwyn, was burned on the right hand and wrist yesterday when a roll of paper caps for a toy pistol exploded in his hand. Mrs. Ison said she had not given the child money to purchase the caps and that they apparently had been given to him by a neighbor boy.

SAYS BANK PAID FEE DUE HIM TO ROOSEVELT SON

Insurance Broker Is Suing for Commission.

Boston, Mass., July 1.—(AP)—Counsel for a Boston insurance broker today charged the National Shawmut bank had wrongfully deprived him of commissions on an $800,000 insurance policy because it wanted the business to go to James Roosevelt, son of the President.

The charge was made before F. Delano Putnam, assigned as auditor to hear a civil suit brought by the broker, Arthur D. Cronin, against the bank for $31,750 plus interest, the amount he claimed he would have received in commission.

Claims Order Withheld.

Cronin contended he complied with the bank's request to obtain the insurance, but that, at the last moment, the bank withheld the order from him and gave it to the insurance firm of O'Brion Russell.

Romney Spring, Cronin's counsel, declared Roosevelt was associated with that firm at the time the transactions between the bank and Cronin were being carried on. He said Roosevelt and John Sargent maintained offices with the O'Brion Russell firm, and shared in its expenses and its profits.

Counsel Puts Question.

"Was the bank's motive," Spring asked, "to let this clever, experienced man [Cronin] pull its chestnuts out of the fire by getting a low policy, and then shove the commissions over to Sargent, Russell and Roosevelt?

"Isn't it a reasonable inference that if there hadn't been any firm named Roosevelt and Sargent, wouldn't we have gotten the insurance business?"

Counsel for the bank contended the institution had never entered into a contract with Cronin to obtain the insurance, and compared the transaction to a request to a real estate dealer to find or sell a house.

CHICAGO WOMAN FOUND DEAD OF POISON IN DENVER

The body of a woman found dead of poisoning in a Denver hotel yesterday was identified as that of Miss Janice Giffhorn, 28 years old, 523 Deming place, writer and artist. She had registered at the hotel a week ago under the name of Margaret Paynter. Two bottles which had contained poison, and several rejected poetry manuscripts were found near the body.

Miss Giffhorn was the daughter of William A. Giffhorn of the Edgewater Beach hotel, western representative of a New York silk company. She was a graduate of Northwestern university, and was formerly a member of the Three Arts club, 1300 North Dearborn street. She suffered a nervous breakdown about a year ago, according to Attorney Joseph Griffin, a friend of the family.

Brothers to Wed Sisters in Double Nuptials July 10

It was strictly a family matter when two young couples walked into the marriage license bureau at the County building yesterday to file notice of their intention to wed. First there was Robert Tauber, 30 years old, of 5422 West Dakin street, who is going to marry Alice Stiller, 25 years old, of 4143 North Central Park avenue. Then came Alice's brother, Sidney, 25, and his bride-to-be, Tauber's sister, Naomi. The two couples plan to be married July 10 at the Sovereign hotel.

Agree to Protect Sanjak of Alexandretta.

PARIS, July 1.—(AP)—France and Turkey clasped hands today in a good neighbor pact on the sanjak [district] of Alexandretta in northern Syria, which might change the political complexion of another European war. In addition to this treaty of friendship, which France will seek to broaden into a three nation pact by negotiations with Syria, a military agreement was reached by which France and Turkey jointly guarantee the internal and external security of Alexandretta.

It was provided that from today equal numbers of Turkish and French troops would be stationed in Alexandretta, a district of 10,000 square miles. The troops are to preserve order pending a plebiscite on the future of the sanjak—whether it shall become an autonomous Moslem state or be rejoined to Syria, over which France holds a league of nations mandate.

Taken from Turkey.

Today's pact marks a turning point in the months of negotiation over the Alexandretta sanjak, 40 per cent of whose 200,000 population is Turkish. The sanjak was taken from Turkey after the world war and attached to Syria under French mandate. When,

Security was guaranteed yesterday to the sanjak (district) of Alexandretta in a friendship treaty and military understanding announced by France and Turkey. Alexandretta, originally Turkish and then part of French mandated Syria, is in black and indicated by arrow on the map.

however, France agreed to a plan for eventual independence for Syria in 1939, Turkey raised violent objections to the prospect of Alexandretta Turks being ruled from Damascus.

After heated exchanges, the matter finally landed before the league of nations in Geneva, and France and Turkey last year agreed to negotiate. Meanwhile Alexandretta's freedom from Syria, except as regards customs, monetary, and foreign affairs, was recognized.

Agree to Keep Status Quo.

Among the clauses understood to be contained in the Turkish-French friendship treaty was the following important condition: France and Turkey have agreed that the "political status quo" of the eastern Mediterranean should be maintained and further decided upon mutual consultations should events tend toward upsetting this situation.

This provision was interpreted by some observers as a factor in determining the division of forces if and when war should engulf Europe. It was believed the pact would allow the passage of warships from soviet Russia, France's military ally, through the Dardanelles into the Mediterranean from the Black sea.

A second phase of the agreement concerns the administration of Alexandretta. Arabs, Turks, and Syrians have been fighting for control in the sanjak. Turkish leaders hope their nation may be able to gain full sovereignity.

French authorities announced a preliminary accord between the French and Turkish military general staffs already has been signed, and an extension of this convention, defining in sharp terms the administration of the sanjak, will follow.

2,317 MILES NO STOP FLIGHT IS BOMBER RECORD

Washington, D. C., July 1.—(AP)—The army announced today that one of its 16 ton "flying fortress" bombers had flown nonstop 2,317 miles across the continent at an average speed of 204.6 miles an hour.

The flight, described by the army as routine, was made Thursday in 11 hours 20 minutes from March field, Cal., to Langley field, Va.

The plane flew at altitudes between 13,000 and 16,000 feet, its three officers and five enlisted men breathing stored oxygen. Officials said it was probably the first high altitude flight entirely across the continent wherein the personnel were required to spend nearly half a day on oxygen.

SWISS RESTRICT USE OF EMBLEMS TO HAMPER NAZIS

BERNE, Switzerland, July 1.—(AP)—In an effort to halt the spread of militant Nazi or similar movements in Switzerland, the Swiss federal council today banned the use of foreign national or party emblems in conjunction with the Swiss flag.

The use of such emblems in connection with local party insignia or in party publications also was prohibited.

Fines, and in repeaed cases short prison terms, are provided for offenders. Foreigners are threatened with ten years' banishment from Switzerland. A similar order recently banned the use of party uniforms.

Body of Young McCormick Recovered from Mountain

The ledge is on the eastern portion of the north face of the peak, a wall of rock which is almost sheer for several hundred feet from the first slope at its base.

Unable to ascend the wall, a group of men, carrying 1,000 feet of rope, climbed the mountain from the opposite side. Two of the group, Francis M. Froelicher, young McCormick's climbing instructor at a Colorado Springs school, and Robert Ormes, a mountain climber from Denver, made their way down to where the body lay.

They fastened the rope around the body and men at the top lowered it to the sloping terrain. Workmen at the base cut a path through the almost impenetrable bushy canyon and the body, lashed to a stretcher, was brought to an ambulance and transported to Albuquerque.

Simms Thanks Searchers.

Thirty Indians and forest rangers stood by the ambulance, heads bared, as Mr. Simms said: "Mrs. Simms and I thank you from the bottom of our hearts." Mr. Simms had been at the mountain base throughout the day, but the youth's mother remained in seclusion at their ranch home west of the city.

Under orders of Gov. Clyde Tingley, at the request of Mrs. Simms, state police barred all entry to Cibola national forest, where the peak is located.

Several theories were advanced as to what caused the young men, both experienced mountain climbers, to fall, but many believed no one ever will know for certain.

One theory was that they had been struck by the sudden storm that swept the peak about the time of their arrival there. Some members of the family believed that lightning struck the mountain, ran along its summit, and knocked the boys to their deaths, one falling on each side of the peak. The knife edged crest of the mountain is only three feet wide in some places.

Drive to Foot of Peak.

McCormick and Whitmer, who was 20 years old, left the Simms ranch home about noon June 22 to spend the day climbing the mountain. Equipped with climbing paraphernalia, knapsacks, and sneakers, they drove to the foot of the peak in Whitmer's small automobile. The youths had climbed the mountain several times, and scaling it was no new adventure to them.

They parked the car in an arroyo near Tabo canyon, the only place accessible to the peak for automobiles. It must have been midafternoon by the time they reached the sheer side of "the Shield," a perpendicular cliff near the summit of the peak.

The boys' families became somewhat apprehensive when the young climbers had not returned by nightfall, but Mrs. Simms suggested they might have planned to stay a second day. When they had not returned the next day a search was started.

Governor Leads Search.

Enrollees from a nearby CCC camp were called to aid state police and sherif's deputies in the hunt. The following day Gov. Tingley ordered out the National Guard and led it himself. Searchers found the car where it had been parked and late on the second day of the hunt they found Whitmer's body.

The body, a deep gash in the back of the head, lay at the base of "the Shield," nearly 400 feet below the mountain summit. It was carried on a stretcher to the Juan Tabo CCC camp at the base of the range and later was brought here.

Storms Increase Hazard.

Intermittent rainstorms made climbing hazardous and Mrs. Simms, who remained at the CCC camp throughout most of the search, insisted that only experienced men climb the rugged peaks.

As days passed the searchers were baffled by their inability to find any trace of McCormick, whose dead or injured body they expected would be found near that of Whitmer.

During the last two days searchers all but gave up hope.

Then came word that the youth's body had been found on the side of a towering granite cliff, a part of the mountain that had received scant attention from the searchers because it was almost the opposite side of the peak from the spot where Whitmer's body was found.

BORN IN CHICAGO.

John Medill McCormick was born in the McCormick residence at 936 Lake Shore drive on Aug. 25, 1916. This was shortly before his father was elected to the national house of representatives. In 1919 Mr. McCormick was elected senator.

Young McCormick preferred being called by his given name John rather than by his more famous family name Medill. But to many friends he was Medill—after his father and his great-grandfather, Joseph Medill.

Most of young McCormick's boyhood was spent at Rock River Farms, the family home, near Byron, Ill. There he acquired a love for the outdoors, which was later to be expanded to wider studies of nature and the science of archæology.

He was graduated from the Fountain Valley School for Boys at Colorado Springs, Colo., three years ago. Later he finished a course at Hun school at Princeton, N. J. He devoted the following two years to travel in South America and Mexico, where he studied nature and archæology. He often traveled alone.

Student at Columbia U.

McCormick last year enrolled in Columbia university, New York City, where he took a course in novel writing from Oliver La Farge among other courses preparatory to a career in writing.

After a trip to South America to obtain writing material McCormick returned to his New Mexico home. There he rounded up a few companions, and had since roamed the mountains and desert and visited Indian villages. His dress was simple—typical southwest blue denim trousers, white shirt, and sturdy boots.

Senator McCormick died in 1925 when young McCormick was 9 years old. When the young man reached his majority last year he came into a considerable fortune from the senator's estate.

Surviving McCormick in addition to his mother are two sisters. They are Mrs. Katrina McCormick Barnes, wife of Cortlandt Barnes Jr. of New York, and Miss Ruth McCormick, a student at the Foxcraft school in Virginia, who now is in Albuquerque for the summer.

Order German Employers to Ask for Conscript Labor

[Copyright: 1938: By the New York Times.]

BERLIN, July 1.—Universal labor conscription, as decreed by Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering, went into effect today. German employers working on orders designated as "especially important and unpostponable" were instructed to file their applications for conscript labor with local labor offices.

James Roosevelt to Stay in Hospital for 2 Weeks

Rochester, Minn., July 1.—(AP)—James Roosevelt, son of and secretary to President Roosevelt, will remain in St. Mary's hospital here probably for ten days or two weeks, receiving treatment for a small gastric ulcer, physicians said tonight. Mrs. Roosevelt was the only visitor permitted to see the President's son, whose condition was unchanged.

U. S. ORDERS 98 FIGHTING PLANES; COST $14,433,196

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 1.—The program for strengthening the land defenses of the country moved another step forward today with the letting of contracts totaling $14,433,196 for army combat airplanes and engines of the latest fighting types developed by the army and the airplane industry.

Included in the contracts are 91 bombardment airplanes, 13 of them of the "flying fortress" type ordered from the Boeing Aircraft company of Seattle. This will give the army a total of 52 of these giant, four engine bombers, six of which recently made a 6,000 mile round trip flight to Buenos Aires. The amount of the Boeing contract is $3,174,802.

Douglas Gets Largest Order.

The largest single contract awarded is for 78 additional B-18-A Douglas bombardment airplanes at a cost of $5,703,287, awarded to the Douglas Aircraft company, Santa Monica, Cal. This order will increase to more than 250 the number of B-18-A airplanes purchased by the army at a total cost of approximately $15,000,000. The new contract, in addition to the existing order, now being filled, the war department explained, "is by far the largest contract for airplanes ever placed by the army in times of peace."

The B-18—A airplane is a two-engine bomber, somewhat similar to the 21 passenger air transport planes in operation on the country's major airlines. It has a rated speed of more than 225 miles per hour, compared with the 250 mile per hour speed of the larger flying fortress.

Attack Airplanes Bought.

A third contract for seven Ya-19 attack airplanes at a total cost of $279,180 was awarded to the Vultee Aircraft division of the Aviation Manufacturing corporation, Downey, Cal. This airplane, the largest and fastest single engined attack plane yet developed, is believed to have no equal in any nation. It is a low wing monoplane carrying a crew of three men and 600 pounds of bombs at a speed of more than 230 miles per hour. It is armed with six machine guns.

Four large engine contracts totaling $2,573,286 for 276 engines were awarded to the Wright Aeronautical corporation, Paterson, N. J., the Allison Engineering company, Indianapolis, and the Pratt and Whitney division of United Aircraft corporation, East Hartford, Conn., which received two contracts.

Other Contracts Awarded.

The war department also announced 26 additional contracts providing for changes in 177 B-18 A airplanes, miscellaneous changes in 37 Douglas transport airplanes; for propeller blades, hubs, and parts; for aviation trainers, wrecking trucks, tank trucks, portable photographic laboratories, airplane fabric and plastic materials, engine parts and carburetors, aircraft mapping cameras and tools and equipment.

One of the contracts, in the amount of $29,702, was awarded to the Engineering and Research corporation, Washington, D. C., covering the purchase of propellers and data for experimental purposes. This corporation now is building a new plant near College Park, Md.

Louis Johnson, assistant secretary of war, explained that the placing of these contracts "marks the culmination of a year of intensified effort toward the reaching of the objectives set by the Baker board, which was to procure 2,320 modern first line aircraft by July 1, 1940."

Year's Expenditures Large.

During the fiscal year which ended yesterday contracts were placed for 588 airplanes at a total cost of approximately $29,000,000. During the year contracts also were awarded for 732 aeronautical engines at a total value in excess of $6,000,000, and for radio, armament, instruments, and other equipment totaling $7,500,000.

In analyzing the results of the 1938 contracts, totaling $42,500,000, Johnson said:

"These airplanes, type for type, are the equal, if not the superior, of like types in any part of the world and clearly establish the fact that the United States is not lagging behind other nations in aeronautical development, but, on the other hand, has assumed and will maintain its position in the forefront of aviation."

TAKES OVERDOSE OF SLEEP POTION.

HOW JAPAN WOULD CARVE UP CHINA

The approximate areas of the five autonomous states which Japan is reported to be planning to set up in China are indicated on the map. The new states would be (1) Inner Mongolia, to be ruled by Teh Wang, Japan's Mongol friend; (2) North China, to be ruled by the present Japanese dominated Peking provisional government; (3) East China, to be ruled by the Japanese dominated Nanking "reformed government"; (4) Central China, to be ruled by Gen. Chiang Kai-shek, the Chinese dictator whom Japan now is fighting; (5) South China, to be ruled by a combination of southern provincial leaders. Within these states Germany, Great Britain, and France would be given spheres of influence, as indicated by the key in the map.

GERMANS PRAY FOR PASTOR NIEMOELLER, HELD BY NAZIS A YEAR

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, July 1.—Members of the church of the Rev. Martin Niemoeller, militant anti-Nazi pastor and submarine commander in the world war, who is now in a concentration camp as a result of his fight against Nazi domination of the Protestant church, held intercessional services today to mark the first anniversary of his arrest.

More than 2,000 persons crowded the Lutheran church in Dahlem, a suburb of Berlin, to hear the officiating minister. The text of his sermon was taken from The First Epistle of Peter, chapter 5, verses 6 to 11.

The minister told the congregation that the Rev. Mr. Schneider of Dickenschied, in the Rhineland, also has been held in a concentration camp for the past seven months because he refused to obey an order expelling him from his parish. More than 2,000 arrests have been made since the start of the church conflict, he said.

START BUILDING VALENTINE UNIT FOR BOYS' CLUBS

Construction of the $400,000 Valentine unit of the Chicago Boys clubs will start Tuesday at the southwest corner of Emerald avenue and 34th street, it was announced yesterday.

Contracts were awarded the R. C. Wieboldt company. The building, which will face 192 feet on Emerald avenue and 126 feet on 34th street, will be of brick, stone, and concrete. It is expected to be completed in nine months and will accommodate 5,000 boys.

The building was made possible through a $500,000 gift by L. L. Valentine, retired furniture manufacturer. Of the total, $100,000 is being used for a summer camp. The building will be named in honor of his wife, the late Mrs. Anna Louise Valentine, who was interested in boys' club work.

PREMIER TO FIGHT BRITISH ARMY AIR FIELD FOR CANADA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TORONTO, Ont., July 1.—Premier W. L. MacKenzie King told parliament today he would refuse any request of the British government to set up a Royal Air force training establishment in Canada.

He challenged Richard B. Bennett, Conservative leader, to fight out the issue in an immediate Canadian general election. Canada, he said, will not permit miltary establishments not owned and controled by it.

Bennett bitterly condemned this attitude toward the "ancient partner who established us," and vowed he would oppose it with his last word and his "last breath." Today's meeting concluded the 1938 parliamentary session.

SPANISH REBELS SWEEP LOYALIST HILL POSITIONS

HENDAYE, France.—[At the Spanish Frontier], July 1.—(AP)—The battle for control of Spain's rich eastern coast developed in intensity tonight with insurgents hammering through Bechi, a village just south of the Mijares river.

Insurgent dispatches said rebel forces swept government defenders from strong fortifications on the nearby slopes of Mount Ester and Solach. Mount Ester is south of Fanzara, fifteen miles west of Castellon de la Plana and forty miles north of Valencia.

A government communique, however, asserted insurgent front lines had been driven back from Los Mallaes by a counterattack on that advanced position.

Sixteen Killed in Air Raid.

MADRID, July 1.—(AP)—Dispatches reaching Madrid today said sixteen persons were killed and eighty injured in an insurgent air raid yesterday on Segorbe, twenty miles northwest of Sagunto. The nearby towns of Soneja, Navajas, and Sericas also were bombed.

CITY AND SUBURB PROJECTS TO GET FEDERAL FUNDS

Projects in Chicago and several suburbs are included in a list of many approved for construction yesterday by the treasury and the postoffice departments in Washington, D. C.

The following projects and estimated costs in this area are given as follows: Chicago, appraisers' stores, additional stories, $900,000; Jackson Park postal station, $300,000; homewood [postal], $70,000; Berwyn [postal], $180,000; Des Plaines [postal], $135,000; Winnetka [postal], $153,000, and Naperville [postal], $90,000.

All told, Washington bureaus approved 280 building jobs in many parts of the country, including postoffices, court houses, annexes, and remodeling contracts. The projects selected yesterday are subject to modification.

JOHN J. ASTOR'S FATHER-IN-LAW BARRED BY WPA

Newport, R. I., July 1.—[Special.]—Francis Ormond French, whose daughter, Ellen [Tucky] French is the wife of John Jacob Astor III., will not be permitted to become a pickswinger on the WPA. Edward P. Reilly, local WPA chief, ruled today French is barred because he has relatives who can support him.

Unofficially it was said only French's pride prevented his accepting help from his daughter and her husband. French lost a fortune in the bear market of 1921 and went to work in New York as a taxicab driver. Later he became an author and, at last reports, after having gone into bankruptcy, was writing a book about society life entitled, "On the Cuff."

200 CHILDREN HIT AS JAP AIR BOMB WRECKS SCHOOL

Raid Terrifies Swatow; Casualties Set at 400.

HONGKONG, July 2.—[Saturday.]—(AP)—Chinese reported today that 400 civilians were killed or wounded in yesterday's Japanese bombing raid on the South China port of Swatow.

Of the casualties, Chinese said 200 were children who were leaving their classrooms when a school building was struck. Other structures damaged included the municipal buildings and a Red Cross headquarters.

The attack, which began at 5 p. m. and lasted for an hour and a half, created panic as it continued through the ninety terrifying minutes. The populace ran in all directions as building after building was shattered.

Expect South China Invasion.

The Chinese believed the raid to be the prelude to a large scale Japanese invasion of South China. Foreign observers thought the Japanese would follow it with an attempt to establish a shore base for an overland drive toward Canton. Swatow lies about 200 miles east of Canton, which is a key entrance to vast areas of South China.

Swatow's normal population is about 200,000. Many residents, however, had fled from the city after previous Japanese air raids. These began on June 22, when Japanese marines were occupying the island of Namoa, twenty miles offshore.

The United States gunboat Asheville has been standing by at Swatow to protect Americans. Sixty-nine Americans have been reported in the Swatow consular district and twenty-five in Swatow itself.

Attack Japs from Air.

SHANGHAI, July 1.—(AP)—A squadron of Chinese planes attacked Japanese troop positions and warships on the Yangtze river today in an attempt to halt the invaders' land and naval drive toward Hankow, Chinese provisional capital.

The attack centered near Matowchen, 175 miles below Hankow, where the Japanese have been hammering for days to break a formidable defense boom the Chinese have laid across the river.

The best available reports were that Matowchen itself now is in the hands of the Japanese, although the Japanese ships apparently had not yet cracked the nearby boom.

Battle for Village.

There was fighting two miles to the east, where opposing land forces were struggling for possession of the small, mudhouse village of Hsiangkow.

On the north bank the Chinese still were blocking the Japanese advance from Tsienshan against Taihu.

Developments pointed to Hukow as the next immediate focal point in Central China. Hukow is 25 miles upstream from Matowchen. It lies on the south bank of the Yangtze, strategically important at the mouth of an inlet to Lake Poyang.

This lake, China's second largest, 80 miles long and 20 wide, is the gateway to all of northern Kiangsi province and, for the invaders, an opening to vast territories south and west. Their first objective across the lake would be Nanchang.

ITALY FORBIDS SALE OF FOREIGN BOOKS WRITTEN BY JEWS

[Copyright: 1938: By the New York Times.]

ROME, July 1.—Premier Mussolini's government today took measures to prevent or limit the circulation of books by Jewish authors among the Italian public.

Publishers were forbidden to print translations of foreign books by Jewish authors. All existing copies of such books are to be returned by booksellers to their publishers, who will be permitted to sell them privately until the entire stock is disposed of. Publishers may still print books by Italian Jews, but booksellers are instructed not to display them prominently.

These measures, decreed by the ministry of popular culture, are in contrast to the promise given last February by the Informazione Diplomatica, official foreign ministry organ, which said it was erroneous to think that the Italian government was about to inaugurate an anti-Semitic policy since no Italian Jewish problem existed.

SOVIET FAR EAST GPU CHIEF FLEES INTO MANCHUKUO

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, July 1.—Gen. Lucikov Samoirovich, commander of the Russian far eastern GPU [secret police] forces, surrendered to Manchukuan police and was jailed in Hunchun, Chientao province, it was reported today from Hsinking. The general wore plain clothes, the report said, and was armed with two pistols when he crossed the Manchukuan-Russian border west of Vladivostok. It was understood he fled from Russia in fear of his life. Japanese and Manchukuan officials are conducting an examination.

Prince Bertil to Fill Father's Place on Tour

New York, July 1.—[Special.]—Prince Bertil of Sweden today made known that he would complete his father's scheduled tercentenary tour to Minneapolis. Meanwhile, Crown Prince Gustaf Adolf said in the Columbia-Presbyterian Medical center he was "terribly keen" to take part in the program to whatever extent his doctors would permit. The crown prince is suffering from a kidney stone, but his condition is good.

BARBARA'S COUNT IS FREED ON BAIL; TRIAL NEXT WEEK

Denies Threats; Promises Not to Molest Wife.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 1.—Count Court Haugwitz-Reventlow, Danish husband of the former Barbara Hutton, American 5 and 10 cent store heiress, will be tried next Tuesday before Sir Rollo Graham Campbell, Bow street police court magistrate, on a charge of making threats against his wife which made her fear for her life.

The count was arrested by a Scotland Yard detective when he arrived in London from Paris this morning. He was taken immediately to the Bow street court, where he sat on a wooden bench until his case, No. 13 on the docket, was called. Police kept hordes of people from stampeding into the court.

Dressed in a smart gray suit and brown shoes, the count held himself with military stiffness in the courtroom. He appeared unperturbed.

Freed on $10,000 Bail.

On the plea of Norman Birkett, the count's lawyer, Magistrate Sir Rolla Graham Campbell set the case for next Tuesday to enable Birkett to consult more fully with his client. The magistrate released the count under $10,000 bail. The count himself furnished $5,000 of this and Maj. Peter Wessel, chairman of the council of the Anglo-Danish society, put up the other $5,000.

Count Haugwitz-Reventlow guaranteed, at the request of Sir Patrick Hastings, his wife's attorney, that he would not try to communicate with Countess Barbara before next Tuesday's hearing. He also said he was not carrying a gun and would not carry one before Tuesday. The only gun he had was not in his possession, he said, but was locked up in his wife's home, Winfield house.

The countess was not in court. Servants at her home said she had been in tears all morning.

Crowds Gather at Court.

A crowd was gathered about the court entrance when the count left in a big limousine, his hat pulled over his eyes as he slouched in the back seat. He went to a hotel, where he refused to receive visitors or make any comment.

"You will hear all you need to know about it Tuesday," he said.

The warant on which the count was arrested was sworn out against him by his wife in Bow street court last week. Her specific charge was that he had written a letter "using threats towards his wife whereby she apprehends that she goes in danger of her life or of some bodily harm he will do or cause to be done to her."

At the same time Countess Barbara received this letter, another letter is reported to have been received in London from France with threats against Prince Frederick George, grandson of former Kaiser Wilhelm II. of Germany.

Court Hearing Described.

Today's court hearing was brief. When the bailif called the case the count stepped briskly up to the dock with Birkett and Vernon Gattie, another lawyer representing him. Roger Wynn and Hastings represented the countess.

Birkett, asking that the case be put over to Tuesday, said:

"I was without exact information of the grounds on which the application [for Countess Barbara's warant] was made. Count Haugwitz-Reventlow is particularly anxious to have an opportunity on oath of rebutting the charge against him. It is plain that the count has not the slightest intention of going away. His case is that he never made any threats, that it is foreign to his desire to do so, and that there is no danger to be apprehended from any source."

"If I grant bail I shall require surety that your client will not interfere in any way with the complainant," Magistrate Campbell said.

"Most certainly, that will be given," Birkett replied.

Brings Up Matter of Gun.

Hastings then brought up the matter of whether the count was carrying a gun. Upon being reassured on this point bail was arranged.

The couple's son Lance, 2 years old, now is a ward in chancery and as such will be under control of the court until he reaches the age of 21. Application to have him made a ward in chancery was made by the countess and granted yesterday.

There was speculation among the countess' friends as to whether this step was taken to prevent the count from having custody of the child and management of the fortune Lance would inherit in the event of Barbara's death, or for some other reason.

ARLINE JUDGE.

New York, July 1.—[Special.]—Arline Judge of the movies and her sportsman husband, Dan Topping, were in a hospital today as the result of an auto accident last night in Central park. Topping, part owner of the Brooklyn Dodgers professional football team, suffered a severed tendon in his right ankle. Mrs. Topping received only minor bruises, but stayed in the hospital. The Topping car collided with another machine at a park entrance.

FOES CLASH OVER HRUDKA OUSTER AT MORTON HIGH

Friends Charge Move Is Political Trick.

The dismissal of Dr. Ladimir M. Hrudka as superintendent of the J. Sterling Morton High school in Cicero resulted yesterday in a clash between his opponents and supporters on the five man board of school trustees. Dr. Hrudka, head of the school since 1933, was ousted Thursday night at a special meeting of the board.

Adolph Vilk, the board's secretary, said the abrupt discharge was a political trick. He declined to inform Dr. Hrudka officially that he was fired. Vilk did not vote on the dismissal order. Trustee Rudolph Novy cast his ballot for the superintendent's retention.

Charges Political Trick.

"Politics is behind all this," asserted Vilk. "Dr. Hrudka is the victim of a colossal piece of trickery. The dismissal order was read after he left the meeting and after the session officially was adjourned. It therefore is not legal and I shall not heed it. Wait until the board meets again on July 11. I'll have plenty to tell."

"As far as I know I'm still superintendent," Dr. Hrudka said. "I have received no official notification of my dismissal and I intend to go to my office every day as usual."

President Jerome J. Cerny and other foes of Dr. Hrudka defended the board's action by referring to a recent report of the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools which cited lack of coöperation between Dr. Hrudka and the faculty. His foes also enumerated specific incidents in which Dr. Hrudka allegedly was dictatorial, inefficient, and reluctant to work in harmony with board members.

Low Rating Given.

Coöperation between the board, the superintendent, and the faculty was given a low rating by the North Central examining committee. Concerning the faculty, the report stated:

"Teachers are disgruntled and are grouped into cliques. This is not a good situation. In general, the school needs continued watching."

Dr. Hrudka was brought to the school in 1933 by Richard Hoffman, then board president, from South Dakota State college, Brookings, S. D. His salary is $9,000 a year and his contract has another year to run.

Coast Guardsmen Recover Body of Drowned Youth

The body of Joseph Ricard, 22 years old, who was drowned June 26 while swimming in the lake off 50th street, was recovered near there yesterday by the coast guard. The body was identified by Tracy Novinger, 22, of 5475 Ridgewood avenue, one of Ricard's swimming companions. Ricard lived at 5343 Dorchester avenue. He was the son of a former chief of police of Toledo, O.

JUDGE ASSAILS USE OF VIOLENCE BY C. I. O. PICKETS

Threats Against Court Told at Hearing.

BY WILLIAM FULTON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 1.—[Special.]—Assailing high-handed methods employed under the mask of peaceful picketing, Supreme Court Justice Salvatore A. Cotillo today denounced the activities of two unions affiliated with the Committee for Industrial Organization as an affront to the American people.

Judge Cotillo was informed at a court hearing that the C. I. O. had continued picketing twelve Busch Jewelry company stores in defiance of an injunction he had issued Monday. The injunction was granted on the grounds that the unions had violated their right to picket by use of violence and by threatening and coercing the public as well as nonstriking employés.

Judge Postpones Trial.

Twelve pickets who continued to march in front of the stores and harangue street crowds in the face of the judge's ruling were lined up in court for immediate trial on charges of contempt. When the C. I. O. attorneys agreed to halt picketing operations and obey the restraining order, Judge Cotillo postponed the trial. He gave the defense until Sept. 27 to perfect an appeal.

After the judge had called off the names of the pickets for the Retail Workers' and Optical Workers' unions, his voice rose in anger.

"I am informed this picketing is continuing," he said. "This is an affront to the court, the people of the city of New York, the state of New York, and the people of America."

Before the hearing ended Judge Cotillo revealed that he had received threats in telegrams and letters since issuing the injunction.

Terms Privileges Abused.

Although New York state enacted an anti-injunction law in 1935, which restricts the right of courts to grant injunctions against unions in labor disputes, Judge Cotillo contended that the C. I. O. had abused the picketing privilege.

Under the anti-injunction law the courts are forbidden to issue permanent restraining orders against picketing and are precluded from forbidding strikers to give publicity to strikes.

A CORNPOPPER POPS A CORNY LEGAL PROBLEM

Chewing bitterly on his mustache, Mr. George Tompas, a popcorn vendor, pushed his cart under the window of Mayor Henry Penfield in the Evanston city hall yesterday and began his business chant: "Buttered all over."

Since Evanston passed an ordinance a month ago preventing popcorn purveyors from frequenting the Sheridan road neighborhood, Mr. Tompas had been arrested twice, and now had rancor in his soul.

Policeman Francis Plunkett ordered him to move on. Mr. Tompas refused. The policemen consulted legal advice, and found Tompas could sell his wares in Fountain Square, heart of the business district, but only if he kept moving.

So. Mr. Tompas did move—20 feet forward, then 20 feet back. And sometimes he would push his car around the block for a change, only to return near Policeman Plunkett with his cry: "Buttered all over."

C. I. O. ASKS END OF POLICE TERROR IN NEW ORLEANS

New Orleans, La., July 1.—(AP)—Richard A. Dowling, counsel of the Committee for Industrial Organization, today asked quick action in federal court on a C. I. O. petition to restrain police from "intimidating and terrorizing" union members.

John Grosch, acting superintendent of police, repeatedly has said he would drive "C. I. O. communists" out of New Orleans. A C. I. O. called teamsters' strike drew the comment.

Judge Wayne G. Borah, after receiving affidavits, continued the session until Tuesday. He denied permission for John Brophy, C. I. O. director from Washington, to testify as he had not made an affidavit.

The legislature, in Baton Rouge, unanimously adopted a resolution condemning "alien emissaries and agitators who have been sowing the seeds of communism" in industrial Louisiana.

SITTERS VACATE PLANT AT ORDER OF GOVERNOR

Newton, Ia., July 1.—[Special.]—Gov. Nels Kraschel, acting as mediator in the two month old strike at the Maytag Washing Machine company plant, following a conference of representatives of the warring factions in the statehouse in Des Moines today, ordered the 425 sitdown strikers in the plant, despite a court order to vacate, to be out of the plant by 9 o'clock tonight. He warned that if the order was not obeyed he would declare martial law and send National Guard troops here.

At 8:50 o'clock the last of the 425 men came out of the factory amid cheers of hundreds.

The governor said that negotiations toward settlement of the strike brought on by a 10 per cent pay cut ordered by the company would be resumed on Tuesday. The plant will not reopen pending the negotiations.

BRAND NAZI AND RED MOVEMENTS IN U. S. RACKETS

N. Y. Inquiry Finds Close Parallel in 2 Groups.

New York, July 1. — [Special.] — After investigating communism last week and Nazism the previous week, State Senator John J. McNaboe announced today that his joint legislative committee is of the opinion that both these movements in this country are what might be called rackets.

He said a "seven-point deadly parallel" appeared in the testimony of Earl Browder, spokesman of the communist party of the United States, whom he called "The American Stalin," compared with the testimony of Fritz Kuhn, head of the German-American bund and styled by the legislative investigation "The American Fuehrer."

Lists Seven Points.

Senator McNaboe's seven points were:

1. The German-American bund has a youth movement. The communists have the young communist league. Both admit preparing youths for future membership in the senior organization.

2. Both movements admit spreading propaganda and publishing newspapers.

3. Kuhn visited Hitler in Berlin. Browder visited Stalin in Moscow.

4. Kuhn says the Nazi salute is to be the coming salute for America. Browder includes in the new constitution of his party in this country a pledge to the communist party, omitting any mention of allegiance to the American flag or constitution.

5. Kuhn says Hitler was a very busy man and was seen only from a distance. Browder says Stalin was a very busy man and was seen only from a distance.

Finds Parallel Results.

6. Both the bund and the communist party in this country are definitly promoting class hatred.

7. Kuhn is an American citizen, naturalized. Browder is an American citizen, native born. Both contend their foreign-inspired principles are compatible with their American citizenship.

The only witness before the committee today was Joseph P. Ryan, president of the International Longshoremen's association. He testified his union controled the loading of ships in the United States and Canada from 1915 until communists manipulated a secession movement in the "sister organization, the International Seamen's Union of the A. F. of L.," and supplanted it with the National Maritime Union, a C. I. O. organization.

"Orders to get control of the American shipping industry have come from Moscow," said Ryan. "I see that Mr. Browder testified that he doesn't take orders from Moscow, but I know different."

Seek an Order Today to End C. I. O. Blockade at Foundry

An injunction to restrain C. I. O. unionists from interfering with loyal employés who wish to return to work at the Chicago Hardware Foundry of North Chicago will be sought this morning before Judge Ralph J. Dady in the Lake county Circuit court at Waukegan. Notice of the court action was served last night on the pickets who have surrounded the plant and on Thursday forced back sixty employés who tried to enter.

The injunction bill is being drawn by the Waukegan law firm of Edwards and Black on behalf of the foundry. Defendants are the members of lodge 1192 of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers, an affiliate of the Committee for Industrial Organization, who called a strike June 6 and forced the closing of the plant.

Adelman Defendant Again.

Among the defendants are Meyer Adelman and Oakley Mills, C. I. O. organizers, who are at liberty on bond while appealing jail terms and fines imposed on them and 37 other men for participation in the sitdown strike at the Fansteel Metallurgical corporation in North Chicago in February, 1937. Adelman is under sentence of 240 days in jail and a $1,000 fine and Mills was sentenced to 180 days and fined $500.

Daniel Hentges, Shields township supervisor, yesterday told how he foiled an attempt of 45 persons to get on the relief rolls after they falsely stated they were residents of the community and had worked at the foundry before the present strike.

Hentges said that within the last two weeks sixty men applied for relief, asserting they had been employed at the foundry. These men were from the C. I. O. picket line, he said. He discovered that forty-five of them had given fictitious addresses. They never came back for relief. The other fifteen were found to be residents of the township and were given aid.

Urged to Go on Relief.

On Thursday Robert Woertz, Mills' secretary, urged the pickets to go on relief until their terms are met. Of the 234 persons in the picket line Thursday, company officials counted only sixty-four employés. Twenty-six of the pickets were women and the 144 others were outsiders. The picket line was reduced to fewer than a hundred persons yesterday.

The strikers are demanding no pay cuts and a contract with the company. The loyal workers, members of the Ironworkers' Protective association, an independent union, seek to resume work under present conditions.

Chairman Hamilton to Speak at Illinois Reunion

Salem, Ill., July 1.—(AP)—John D. M. Hamilton, chairman of the Republican national committee, will be the principal speaker on Republican day at the 55th annual Marion county soldiers and sailors' reunion on July 26, County Republican Chairman C. L. Edwards reported today. Richard J. Lyons, Republican senatorial candidate, also will speak.

FREE CONVICT, 23, ONCE GUILTY AS A SLAYER, TODAY

Vernon Royals, 23 years old, who was convicted in 1932 of the murder of Mrs. Agnes Lavander in a lonely spot near the Forest Glen station of the Milwaukee railroad, will be released from the Stateville prison today after serving a sentence of five years for rape.

Royals had served two years in prison on a sentence of 25 years on the murder conviction when the Supreme court reversed the conviction. He pleaded guilty to raping a woman, 53 years old, near the place where Mrs. Lavander was found shot to death. During the murder trial he denied a confession of the slaying he had made to the police.

Several petitions for parole filed by the convict in the last three years were denied by the parole board.

THE TREASURY'S YEAR ENDS.

At the end of a fiscal year, June 30, the debt of the federal government is again at a record level. This generation has now run above 37 billion dollars the obligations which the future must find the means of paying off. Two-fifths of the debt is the unpaid balance on account of the world war, the other three-fifths is debt incurred during the depression.

The future, we may be sure, will have problems no less difficult than those which have been experienced in this generation. The government in periods ahead will have the task of defending the nation and paying for ever increasing government functions, but in addition it will have the burden of paying 16 billions toward the cost of a war which gained the country nothing, and over 21 billions for unsuccessful experiments in producing prosperity.

The increase in the public debt last year appears to be small, only 700 million dollars, according to the published figures from Washington. The deficit was more than twice this sum. The amount of new borrowing was kept down in part by dipping into the social security funds. As a result of abandoning the gold sterilization experiments a large amount of spending money was also made available.

The fact that the deficit was but a billion and a half in the year just ended is little source of satisfaction, because it was accompanied by the largest receipts in history. Business during the first half of 1938 has been sharply below last year and revival cannot come fast enough to bring total incomes for the year up to 1937 levels. This means that the receipts of the government in the current fiscal year may fall as much as a billion below last year. The reduced revenue is to be accompanied by a record expansion in government spending. A deficit of 4 billions or more seems probable and that means that the debt will run beyond the 40 billion dollar mark and will be well started toward the fifty billion dollar mark one year hence.

While the national debt has been advanced to nearly 40 billion dollars state and local governments increased their borrowing beyond 20 billion dollars. With the inducements offered by the government to go further into debt, the obligations of these other governments may well reach 25 billion dollars by the time the federal debt goes to 50 billion dollars. What we have to contemplate is the consequence of public debts of 75 billion dollars. Much smaller obligations produced chaos elsewhere.

ARMY AND PARLIAMENT.

Duncan Sandys, Conservative member of parliament, son-in-law of Winston Churchill, framed a critical question for Leslie Hore-Belisha, British war minister, concerning alleged inadequacy and insufficiency of the anti-aircraft gun defense. Sandys is also a second lieutenant in the 51st London anti-aircraft brigade of the territorial army. It was immediately charged against him that he had obtained military secrets. Otherwise his question could not have had such specific bearing upon the conditions in that branch of the service.

He was summoned to appear before a military court to answer under section six of the 1920 military secrets act, his parliamentary immunity being violated. This act of late has been in a storm of controversy. It purports to be a law covering espionage and one provision permits the punishment of a person who refuses to reveal the source of information he is found to possess. The police used it against a newspaper reporter who would not tell where he obtained a manwanted police circular from which he had written a paragraph. A court of appeals freed the newspaper man after he had been sentenced. Critics of the police recalled that in the parliamentary discussion when the act was passed there had been specific denials that it ever could be used for such purposes.

With Sandys the enforcement took another turn, from infringement of freedom of the press to violation of parliamentary privilege. England stands for a great deal of oppression when rights of the press are infringed, but the house of commons still retains a sense of its own security, privileges, and history. Prime Minister Chamberlain hastened to quiet the turmoil following Sandys' appeal to the speaker, who sustained him, by saying that the military court would suspend proceedings and that a special committee on privileges would investigate the affair.

Congress in the United States and parliament in Great Britain are almost complete masters of the army. No appropriation may be made for more than two years, a restriction which is intended to prevent military control. Here is one of the most sensitive points in the traditions of British and American representative government. The roots are in hundreds of years of English struggle. England could create an army only under the fiction of a regularly reënacted mutiny act.

The house of commons naturally was in an uproar when it was discovered that a member was to be given a military trial because he questioned the sufficiency of military preparations. Every hostile government no doubt knew what parliament didn't, but bureaucracy sought to protect itself from the M. P. and could get at him because he was also an officer. A Fascist would recognize the touch.

THE LEGISLATURE ADJOURNS.

The two special sessions of the Illinois legislature, which have been meeting concurrently, have both adjourned, their work well done. The list of the bills enacted as well as of the bills defeated is an eloquent tribute to the common sense and courage of the members. They made few mistakes. They deserve congratulations.

The legislature was summoned primarily to appropriate additional money for relief. Large as were the regular appropriations of city and state for this purpose, the sums were insufficient to meet the enormous additional burden created by the Roosevelt depression. The original intention was to levy new taxes to match the new appropriations. A number of revenue proposals were examined and rejected upon a showing that the levies would create more unemployment than the money they would yield could relieve.

Thereupon the legislature did the sensible thing. It found in the treasury at Springfield a surplus which could be drawn upon for a considerable part of the money required. At the same time some of the city's share of the gasoline tax was diverted to relief. The two items together, while producing rather less than was originally thought necessary, are expected to prove adequate. The legislature avoided the mistake of imposing new taxes on a people already the victims of overtaxation and depression. If congress in recent sessions had done half as well the country today would not be suffering the effects of economic stagnation.

The enactment of a drivers' license bill and of a companion measure to establish the financial responsibility of motorists for accidents which they may cause were highly commendable. The scandalous quarrel over patronage which prevented the passage of the license bill at recent regular sessions was finally ended. The bill is moderate in its terms. Licenses will not be difficult to obtain by men and women physically competent to drive; the benefits of the system will come from the gradual weeding out of the reckless and the financially irresponsible. The legislature wisely refused to impose laws so stringent that they could not be enforced.

The enabling legislation required for the prompt enlargement of the Chicago airport was passed early in the session with a minimum of delay. The time is fast approaching when the commercial air lines will introduce larger planes requiring correspondingly larger landing fields. The need for haste was recognized.

The defeat of the proposal for a constitutional convention deserves a special word of commendation. There is no reason to believe that the people of the state desire to have their fundamental law subjected to sweeping changes. To the normal caution which discourages such attempts was added the fear that the opportunity would be seized at this time by extremists to whittle away the rights of citizens.

So far as the housing bills were concerned, the legislature reached a sensible compromise. The members recognized the injustice of granting a tax exemption to large scale housing ventures which could only penalize the small property owner for the benefit of others who may be better off. An exception was made, however, for the project on South Park Way because there the legislature was confronted with a fait accompli. The land has already been acquired and most of the buildings which formerly occupied the site have been wrecked. As the lesser of evils, the legislation which will enable that project to be completed was enacted.

The special sessions were remarkable for their temperateness. Extremist proposals were rejected. Moderate ones were enacted. The financial judgment displayed was of a high order. The spirit was exactly opposite to that which the high pressure politicians in Washington assert is now sweeping the country. As the members of the legislature are close to the people whom they represent and know their temper and aspirations, it seems fair to conclude that the chances of a return to common sense in government are excellent.

BRITISH LABOR LAW.

[Portland (Me.) Evening Express.]

What is this British labor relations law that John Lewis doesn't want this country to know about and the President is at least interested in?

The President is interested in it because he realizes that our law isn't serving to improve labor relations and Mr. Lewis would have it ignored because were we to pattern after it he would lose some of his power.

In the first place the British law forbids contributions to political campaigns, unless the members indicate in writing that they desire the contributions to be made. Giving money to campaign funds is one of the Lewis strongholds, for he knows that such contributions logically entitle him to value received. He startled the country by giving half a million dollars to the Roosevelt fund, but it didn't take him long to say to the President that he expected to be recompensed by such laws as he wanted. He gave liberally to the recent primaries in Pennsylvania, although it is history that he wasted this money. The British law is said to have reduced such contributions by one-half.

Mass picketing is forbidden by the British law and sympathetic strikes are illegal when they are intended to coerce the government or intimidate the public. Mass picketing is an essential part of the Lewis strike technique. Under the British law this power would be lost to him.

The ostensible purpose of any labor relations law is to improve labor relations. Our law has had just the opposite effect. In 1937 there were in Great Britain 1,175 strikes involving 616,000 workers, while in the same time in this country there were 12,148 strikes involving 6,360,000 workers. No great improvement in labor relations is shown by these figures. Of course Lewis doesn't want any such improvement. Labor wars are what he thrives on.

In fact it has been the history of our laws for which Lewis is chiefly responsible that they have encouraged strikes. There have never been as many and as big as since he started his C. I. O. and had his law passed to provide it with weapons.

There is another provision in the British law Lewis wouldn't like. This gives the British board power to name an unprejudiced commission when a strike threatens that would have the authority to present both sides to the public. It is the Lewis theory that might makes right and he would have the law give him the might.

There always will be labor disputes, but strikes, like any other kind of war, are a loss to both sides.

Industrial peace is essential to the well being of the country. Mr. Lewis doesn't want industrial peace. The British law is designed to that end.

SHUT-IN.

Yesterday the leaves danced
Madly in the sun—
A lovely Russian ballet
I saw them; one by one
They swayed, bowed and curtsied,
Drooped and flowed with grace.
Myriad twinkling ripples
Weaving jade-green lace.

I thought of fields; I thought of birds
With soft coral breasts,
So lovely, I barely stirred—
Skimming foam-flecked crests.
Yesterday the leaves danced
Madly in the sun.
And I, who lie so quietly—
I danced with every one!

City Mushroom Hunter.

The little lady from the city regretted that she had found so few mushrooms this year in her favorite haunts. "Mushrooms in Chicago? Certainly; I have streets I patrol regularly every season, carrying a shoe box and looking under bushes or trees, down alleys, or in vacant lots or back yards; I suppose I have found as many as five different varieties of edible mushrooms on my beat—sometimes I ask permission to enter a yard and pick the ones I see from the sidewalk and the maid comes back giggling—thinks I'm daffy. O, there are more of us than you'd think! I was picking a beauty just by the Kenwood theater and an ice man watched me and said eagerly: 'Do you hunt mushrooms? So do I.' He didn't get that one! My grocer weighed it for me and it came to over a pound; the University of Chicago told me it was a rare South American variety, seldom found in this region. The best place to find mushrooms in the old days was Murphy's dump, right by Jackson park—it's all built up now —but you had to be early to beat the foreigners who frequented it. Once I was waiting at the station in Palatine when the old PLZ road was running and some foreigners came onto the platform with four sacks full of some strange gray growths; of course I was curious and they told me that these were winter mushrooms, used dried in soups and catsups. My mother had a famous mushroom catsup recipe—it died with her."

GLANDULAR FEVER—A NEW DISEASE.

EVERY little while we learn of an outbreak of a peculiar disorder affecting chiefly those between the ages of 12 and 15. By some it is called glandular fever because the lymph glands about the neck and in other parts of the body may become swollen and tender to the touch. If we want to be really scientific, however, we will call it infectious mononucleosis, as these small, round, white cells in the blood may increase to many times their normal number.

The disease appears to be a rather recent infection and, since we have not experienced it previously to any great extent, our children are unusually susceptible. In other words, in its present form not enough time has elapsed to develop a nation-wide immunity. The cause undoubtedly is a virus, as no visible organism has been identified to which the symptoms can be traced. Nevertheless it is probably not uncommon, although its rare recognition is accounted for by the fact that many youngsters are not seriously ill. It may be mistaken for just an ordinary cold or a light attack of "flu."

More frequent tests of the blood no doubt would disclose the nature of the affliction, which was described just forty years ago by Pfeiffer. It is epidemic in character and it seems to be as prevalent at times in some localities as whooping cough or scarlet fever.

At the outset the victim will complain of sore throat with some discomfort on swallowing. An examination, however, may show little other than a general reddening of the mucous surfaces. Nevertheless, the glands about the neck may enlarge rapidly; in fact, a nodule the size of a small orange may form between morning and evening. Touching the skin over the area or moving the head will cause pain. There is, however, no general puffing of the face, such as is seen in mumps. The glands on the back of the neck at the edge of the hair may be affected also. Some cases, however, will not exhibit these typical swellings, in which event further search must be made for the source of the trouble. A study of the blood will clinch the diagnosis.

As a rule the onset is gradual, with fever, headache, chills, cough, and sometimes abdominal pain. The temperature ranges from 100 to 103 degrees Fahrenheit and is quite irregular, its intermittent—up and down—quality continuing for two or three weeks. For the most part these sufferers appear quite prostrated and some will perspire profusely.

Complications are few, as most of these patients progress satisfactorily with good nursing, light diet, plenty of fluid, and an occasional dose of some sedative to promote comfort. The mouth, throat, and nasal passages should be kept clean, using a very dilute salt solution as a gargle or nasal douche. No specific antitoxin or vaccine is available.

Parents will do well to realize that the infection is not a matter of just a few days. Three are four weeks in bed may be required before the fever subsides completely.

Should the saliva producing structures which lie in front of the ears, and which swell in the presence of mumps, become involved, we may have dificulty in determining whether the ailment is mumps or glandular fever. As a rule, however, lymph nodes elsewhere will become noticeable if infectious mononucleosis is responsible.

The contagiousness of the malady is now well established, and quarantine at home is necessary to prevent its spread should one or two cases break out in the neighborhood. Furthermore, the patient should not be permitted to mingle with others until the temperature has been normal for at least a week. Now and then a rash resembling hives will accompany the ailment.

TREATING GLAND GROWTHS.

Mrs. D. writes: Can you tell me something about lymphatic gland growths—the cause, treatment, etc.? My husband and I both have what is called a "granulated" throat or lymphatic gland growths in the throat and larynx. The doctors here talk as though there is no cure.

REPLY.

You apparently have an unusual amount of lymphoid tissue in the back of the throat. A skilled throat specialist can remove the excess and occasionally the electrocautery is employed. The complete removal of tonsils also is suggested. Getting rid of a chronic infection will sometimes cause this tissue to recede.

FOOT CALLUSES.

Y. writes: How can I get rid of calluses on the soles of the feet?

REPLY.

Soak the feet repeatedly in warm water. Oily compresses will serve the same purpose —softening the soft plaques. Merely removing the calluses, however, is not curative. Uneven pressure is the cause. To relieve this, arches must receive proper support. Your shoes probably will need to be refitted. A skilled orthopedic surgeon will save you further discomfort.

INVESTIGATE SHOES.

I. C. writes: What is the cause and cure of cramps in the toes?

REPLY.

Toe cramps may be due to poor circulation or to improperly fitted footgear. Make certain that your shoes are long enough and broad enough. If the symptom appears while you are in bed, the blood supply to the feet should be investigated.

ABOUT APPENDICITIS.

E. B. writes: What is the cause of appendicitis? Can it result from persistent constipation?

REPLY.

Bacteria lodging within the appendix may bring on inflammation and hence abscess formation. Constipation may be a factor. It is not a primary cause, however.

SENSITIVE TO SUNLIGHT.

A. M. writes: My eyes get bloodshot when I go out in the sun. What causes this?

REPLY.

You have a sensitivity to the sun which reacts by dilatation of the blood vessels of the eyes.

FROM ACROSS THE SEA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BRUSSELS, Belgium.—A plot to dynamite Reichsfuehrer Hitler's summer home near Salzburg while the German cabinet was meeting there was frustrated by the Nazi coup in Austria. This was disclosed here by a member of the group of young Germans and Austrians involved in the plot. They escaped over the German frontier after Austria was annexed.

Rumors that "something is going to happen" had been circulating for some time before the Austrian coup. Austrian anti-Nazi quarters, while declining to give details, admitted that a group of former German Nazis who had fled to Austria intended to "teach Hitler a lesson."

Now it is disclosed that the plan was to dig a tunnel to the cellar walls of Hitler's villa.

The entrance to this tunnel was to be in Germany at a point not far from the Austrian border. The Austrian members of the plotting group were chosen to do the digging since it was considered they would risk less than their German colleagues. As inhabitants of the frontier district they needed no passports, only frontier certificates. By frequently crossing the frontier posing as Austrian Nazis, they allayed the suspicions of the German frontier guards.

About two weeks before Hitler's Austrian coup these young fellows decided they had established themselves sufficiently as Nazis to begin work. Spades and other materials were secretly taken over the frontier into Bavaria. Several of the conspirators worked every night at the excavation until the day the German troops marched into Austria. It would have taken another two months to finish the tunnel and mine the far end of it.

While the digging went on the German members of the group prepared what they called their "strategical plan." Using their information as former German SA men [Storm Troopers], some of whom had served in the SA unit guarding the vicinity of Hitler's mountain retreat, and with the help of local Austrian supporters, they fixed on several points in Austria near the frontier where groups were to be stationed at the time of the explosion. It was to be the task of these groups to raid Hitler's villa immediately after the explosion.

To any one who was not in Austria during the period previous to Hitler's ultimatum to former Chancellor Schuschnigg, this young German's story may sound fantastic. There is, however, considerable evidence of its genuineness. Most of this evidence cannot be divulged because it would endanger persons still living in Austria.

One fact can be told. A Chicago Tribune reporter shortly before Hitler's coup was shown a map with a number of arrows and other indications on the area near Salzburg. The reporter was told that militant anti-Nazi groups had taken up positions at these points "in case anything should happen." The points indicated were identical with the ones the young German told about in his story.

"Please emphasize," he said, "that the responsible Austrian authorities did not know anything about our plans to dynamite Hitler's house. I don't want them to suffer for things with which they had nothing to do and of which they were not even aware."

Asked where he would have gotten the dynamite, with restrictions on explosives as severe as they are, he replied:

"You don't really expect me to tell you that. However, we not only had the money to buy it, but knew where to get it on a few hours' notice.

"How carefully we worked you may understand from the fact that to my knowledge the Nazis have not yet discovered the entrance to our tunnel, and I doubt that they ever will."

LAW OF DESCENT.

Chicago, June 24.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—My father passed away last October leaving no will, as all the property he owned was one-third interest in the home which was owned jointly by himself, his wife [my stepmother], and her son by a former marriage. There is a mortgage on the house for perhaps half its value. I hold this mortgage. The only heirs are his wife and my brother, sister, and myself.

1. According to Indiana laws, what share of property would legally belong to the wife?

2. I would like to know what legal procedure is necessary and who is responsible for having steps taken toward settlement of same.—M. E.

1. The Indiana statute of descent makes the division dependent in part on the total size of your estate.

2. If you mean to ask as to steps that your mother should take in order to be in a position to convey a clear title subject to the mortgage, this would necessitate probate proceedings. If you mean the steps in order to foreclose your mortgage, this would also necessitate court proceedings. In either case an attorney should be employed.

CLEAR TITLE.

Urbana, Ill., June 25.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. There is a house and lot on which no taxes have been paid since 1931. The owners of the house do not live in it, but have it rented out to tenants. Should a man go down and pay up the taxes on this property, how much time would the owners have to redeem the property?

2. If the owners do not redeem the property would the man who has paid up the taxes finally get a clear title to the property?

3. If the owners should redeem the property, what interest would the man receive on his money that he has paid out for taxes on the property?—J. B.

1. Merely paying the taxes would not give the third party a good title—no matter how long continuing, but if purchased at a tax sale, took out a tax deed two years later, went into possession, and paid the taxes for seven years, he would in general, have a good title.

2. See 1.

3. The bidding at the tax sale is on the basis of penalties. The successful bidder is the one who is willing to pay the taxes for the smallest penalty. Hence, the answer to your question would depend on the bidding at the tax sale.

LEISURE: WHAT TO DO WITH IT?

Chicago, June 30.—We hear much today about the use of leisure. We assume that the not too far distant future will be, thanks to the advent of machinery and labor-saving devices, what we call "an age of leisure." I have no doubt that an age of leisure, or, at any rate, of comparative leisure, is a possibility; but I have greater doubts whether certain interests are going to allow it to arrive.

Assuming that an age of leisure can be brought about by our own efforts, do we all want it? Bernard Shaw once described a perpetual holiday as a good working definition of hell. Few of us want to be wholly idle; most of us could do with more leisure. Yet having got our leisure, do we really know what to do with it? For if it is certain that we have to be instructed in our work, it is equally certain that we need to be trained to occupy our spare time. A man used to regular hours, carefully supervised and instructed, if given even a small increase of leisure will find himself kicking his heels and in many ways resembling the unemployed man at the street corners. How many men retire at 60 only to find that they are bored to extinction? It is often observable that such men, healthy and strong on retirement, quickly break up and age within a few years.

Thus education for leisure is a problem that the government must tackle on a larger scale than the present WPA lightly attempts. Most educationalists agree that their task is to turn out a "complete" man. Leisure is a part of a normal man's existence, and we must be taught how to use it.

HERMAN BARNET.

LOUIS KNOCKS OUT HIM?

Tucson, Ariz., June 26.—For years I have been annoyed by the newspaper policy in handling sentences containing the prize fight term "knock out." I don't mean the noun "knockout," but the verb "knock" and the adverb "out."

Now I find an 8 column line on page 1 of your June 23 issue—great, big, brawny type that said "Louis Knocks Out Schmeling."

My story is that it should have read, "Louis Knocks Schmeling Out," and that in all such sentences the adverb "out" should follow the noun, denoting the object knocked.

I can't see any reason for putting "out" in front of "Schmeling." You'll probably grant that "Schmeling" is the object of the verb "knocks," won't you, and that "out" is an adverb indicating whither Schmeling was knocked?

Just substitute the pronoun "him" for "Schmeling." Would you say "Louis knocked out him?" I don't think so.

Again, baseball writers commonly write sentences like "Hack threw out Leiber." I never caught one using the phrase, "threw out him," but if the one is correct the other must also be.

And how are tricks around my old stamping ground, 63d and Halsted streets, which I haven't seen for lo, these nine years? WILBUR THORP BENTLEY.

WHERE ARE THE ALLEY INSPECTORS?

Chicago, June 26.—Our alley, between Ashland and North Clark street and Balmoral to Catalpa, is a terrible mess every time it rains. This alley is about a foot higher than our yards. When it rains the water washes mud into our lots, floods our basements and clogs up the sewers. Where are the alley inspectors?

P. J. OEHLBERG.

THINKS MILK STORES ARE BETTER.

Chicago, June 28.—Answering Mrs. Anna M. Phaneuf, wife of the milk wagon driver:

Let her experience the other side and I am sure her comments would be with more praise for an independent milk store owner than her disgust shows.

The milk store can provide for her family with less work, $6 a month less to the union her husband belongs to, and serve an anxious public with a better product.

The average independent dairy sells a product that rates higher and does not look so thin and blue; thus a good product sells itself and at a price the public can afford to pay.

Every milk wagon driver is forced to sell twice as much as the average milk store sells. Is it not true that two jobs are being taken by one wagon driver? For example, if her husband covers 190 stops, I am sure that equals 300 quarts; five wagon drivers sell 1,500 quarts. The average milk store sells less than 150 quarts; ten stores sell less than 1,500 quarts, and as it requires a truck driver and helpers to make these store deliveries, twelve or more men are employed to distribute the same amount that five high salaried wagon drivers now deliver.

Take these wagon drivers off the streets, put them into stores, and you will take 6,500 people off relief rolls that would be glad to become independent store owners.

The only way such as her husband can help the unemployed is to do as 6,500 others are doing. I mean letting the strong arm boys take $1.50 out of his pay each week to pay pickets to harm our friends of the milk stores and their families. T, B. R.

WHERE IS THE MAN?

Chicago, June 28.—For the last two weeks I have been wondering why it should be so difficult for the county board to find a suitable man for superintendent at the County hospital.

It is an insult to the men of Chicago that in their great city there isn't one to be found among them who would qualify for the position. Let us keep our few good jobs in our own back yard.

Ensign Janney and California Girl Engaged

BY JUDITH CASS.

IN La Jolla, Cal., this afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Karrick P. Collins are entertaining at cocktails to announce the engagement of Mrs. Collins' daughter, Miss Ethel Wanner, to Ensign Frederick E. Janney, son of Mrs. Cornelius Lynde of Winnetka.

Miss Wanner, who visited the Lyndes and her fiancé's sister, Miss Eleanor Janney, in Winnetka last April, attended the Finch school in New York. She and young Mr. Janney, whose father is Laurence A. Janney of Stamford, Conn., will not be married before next June because he was graduated only last year from the United States Naval academy at Annapolis, and marriage is prohibited for two years following graduation. Before entering the academy Mr. Janney was graduated at Lawrenceville. He is stationed on the U. S. S. Detroit at San Diego, Cal.

Mrs. Lynde's other daughter, Mrs. John M. Adams; Mr. Adams, and her daughter, Joan Ruby and the baby,, Peter Adams, arrived by airplane from New York yesterday to spend two weeks with the Lyndes. Peter was born in February and this is his first trip west.

Give Dance Tonight for Margaret Hutchins.

The Robert A. Gardners are giving a dinner-dance tonight at the Shoreacres club for their debutante niece, Miss Margaret Hutchins, younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James C. Hutchins. Miss Hutchins returned recently from a winter abroad.

Mr. and Mrs. Gardner invited only young people to the party. The Gardner and Hutchins families are leaving the week of July 11 for their summer homes at Camden, Me.

Holiday Programs at Arlington.

Arlington Park will be the destination of many seeking recreation and excitement this afternoon and again on Monday when the Stars and Stripes handicap will be the stake race of the holiday. This afternoon the Arlington Matron handicap will be run.

Some of those who are giving luncheon parties today at the Post and Paddock club are the Laurance H. Armours, Charles H. Schweppe, the Chauncey McCormicks, Robert F. Carr, Mr. and Mrs. John E. Hughes, Mrs. Oliver Picher, the Thomas E. Wilsons, Edward F. Wilson, the Carl Leighs, Mrs. William M. Collins, the Britton I. Budds, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Watts, the Joseph T. Ryersons, and the Silas Strawns.

Mr. and Mrs. Armour will be entertaining for Miss Julia Henry of Chestnut Hill, Pa., who is visiting her fiancé, Philip D. Armour IV., and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Philip D. Armour, in Lake Forest. Tomorrow night the Lester Armours' daughter, Miss Betty, will give a supper party at home in Lake Forest for the young easterner who will be married to Miss Armour's cousin.

Knollwood Flooded; Dance Is Canceled.

The dinner-dance that the Knollwood club planned for tonight has been canceled because the club and grounds are flooded. The heavy rains flooded the basements and lawns of the homes on the Knollwood grounds, some to a depth of 3 feet, and the main topic of conversation in that section yesterday, as it was all along the north shore, was Thursday night's downpour.

In Lake Forest, too, many families have been pumping water out of their basements, but none of the many parties planned for tonight and tomorrow has been canceled, although some hostesses will be entertaining under difficulties.

Arrange Parties for Out of Town Guests.

A number of parties have been planned for the week-end for out of town guests. Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Priebe are giving a treasure hunt tonight for Mrs. Christopher Searles of Kansas City, formerly of Lake Forest, who is spending the week-end with the Priebes.

Mr. and Mrs. William A. P. Watkins will give a supper party tomorrow night for their holiday house guest, Mrs. Emma Barnes of Nashville, Tenn.

Mr. and Mrs. Hempstead Washburne are giving a small dinner at home tonight.

Mr. and Mrs. George A. Richardson have as their guests Miss Isabel Eaton and her fiancé, John G. Webb of New York, who are on their way to a western ranch. Mrs. Richardson is leaving next Saturday for California to be away a month. Mr. Richardson will join her later for ten days which they will spend with his mother, Mrs. Charlotte Richardson, in Pasadena.

Miss Margot Reid is giving a picnic tomorrow at the David Dangler house in Lake Forest, which her parents, the Bryar S. Reids, have taken for the summer.

White-Hayward Nuptials Today.

At 4:30 o'clock this afternoon in the Barrington home of her father, Seldon F. White, Miss Wilhelmina White, who always is called Billee, will become the bride of Thomas Zander Hayward. The Rev. George Robinson of the Presbyterian Theological seminary will read the service in the presence of relatives and close friends, and a reception will follow for the same small group.

Miss White, who will wear her mother's wedding gown, will have her sister, Mrs. Robert O. Clark of Glenview, for her only attendant. Karl M. Zander will be his cousin's best man, and ushering will be Henry G. Zander Jr., another cousin, and Mr. Clark. Mr. Hayward and his bride will be at home after Aug. 1 in Barrington.

Two of the First Brides of July

The wedding of Miss Willette Mary Drummond, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Hamilton Drummond of 3240 Lake Shore drive, to Dr. Rudolf William Hack, son of Charles Hack of Momence, Ill., took place yesterday at the home of the bride's parents, with the Rev. Harrison Ray Anderson officiating.

Miss Dorothy Drummond was her sister's only attendant and Dr. James S. Reynolds was best man. Miss Drummond attended Miss Fine's school in Princeton, N. J., and she also attended schools in England and France. She is a member of the Service club and is a Gray Lady of the Red Cross. Dr. Hack was graduated from the University of Illinois. After a brief honeymoon Dr. Hack and his bride will be at home in Kankakee.

Mrs. Bayne O'Brien was Miss Ellen Bull until she was married to the elder son of the Howard Vincent O'Briens in a quiet ceremony at the Winnetka home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Sutton Bull, yesterday afternoon. The Rev. E. Ashley Gerhard of Christ church, Winnetka, officiated, and a reception followed.

The bride wore white tulle with a fingertip length veil and her attendants were in yellow and blue tulle with matching poke bonnets. They carried yellow and blue flowers. Miss Sally Bull, who was her sister's maid of honor, wore yellow, and another sister, Mary Constance Bull, and the other bridesmaids were in blue. After a motor trip around the Great Lakes Mr. O'Brien and his bride will be at home in Chicago.

Looking at Hollywood
By Ed Sullivan

The Subject of Heroes.

Hollywood, Cal., July 1.—What, prithee, is a hero? I know that a heron is a long necked bird with twelve feathers in its tail and with an outer toe as long as the inner toe. I know that heroin is a drug derived from morphine. I know that Herod was the king of Jerusalem who badgered John the Baptist, but what exactly is a hero?

The dictionary says that it is a man distinguished for valor, fortitude, or bold enterprise, or any one who has done deeds showing him to possess these qualities, or the allied qualities of nobility or manliness. In fiction the hero is the male character in whom the principal interest centers.

Heroes? Pardon me for sneering at them all. Does it require a hero to make love to Loy, coo with Crawford, clinch with Colbert, flirt with Faye, yield to Young, gravitate to Carbo, dazzle Dietrich, date Darrieux, devastate De Havilland? Does it call for valor to loll with Lombard, ogle Oberon? Do you have to be noble or manly to relax with Rogers, haunt Henie, day dream with Dunne, or relish Rainer? Heroes, phooey!!

Not, mind you, that these heroes are bad guys. Gable is a two-fisted curser, and he's been around. I've watched Boyer play roulette, and he sends it in and has no squawks to offer when the little man with the stick rakes it away. Ameche didn't learn how to play craps in a Sunday school, of that I'm certain.

Tyrone Power has calluses from riding in day coaches. Spencer Tracy, if he sets his mind to it, can drink you under a table. Errol Flynn is just as much of a dare-devil in real life as "Robin Hood" was in legend. Randy Scott plays a good game of golf and so does Astaire. Pat O'Brien is tougher than his cousin in Milwaukee. Gary Cooper is nobody's chump.

No, taken by and large, these heroes of the screen would make a respectable showing in any knock-down and drag out fight, and they could hold their own in any smoking room session.

They may not be noble creatures, because they're too human; but they are manly. I'll give them that. And lucky, too! I'll certainly give them that.

Take your movie hero's ordinary day, for instance, and contrast it with your own, if you wish to whip yourself into a lather of indignation. You get up at 7 a. m., cut yourself a nasty nick in a hurried shave, slip on the soap in the shower and achieve a slight concussion of the brain, gulp some orange juice, and run hell bent for the 7:45 train to the city, where you will be late at the office. The train will be crowded and you won't get a seat.

Your paper tells you that your favorite ball club has lost a double-header, that Seabiscuit was scratched and War Admiral beaten. In this happy frame of mind you arrive at the office to find the boss grouching over something. [Where do bosses find the things they find to grouch about?] That, my countrymen, is YOUR typical day; and when you go home at night your wife tells you that Junior has measles, that the daughter has whooping cough, and that the man was there and said that unless he got $22 tomorrow he'd have to take the car away.

But the movie heroes!! Jeeves or Jarvis tiptoes into their room in the morning and asks them if they would like to have breakfast. Get that phrasing: "Would you like to have breakfast?" Outside the California sun is shining brightly, birds are singing, and inside Jeeves wants to know if the master would like breakfast. Why shouldn't he like to have breakfast, the big lug?

While Jeeves serves breakfast Jarvis, the second man, prepares the shower so that it will be exactly the right temperature. Jerome, the third man, lays out the razor and the soap and brush. "I have a hard day at the studios," says the movie hero fretfully. "For several hours I will have to make love to Virginia Bruce." At this dire news Jeeves, Jarvis, and Jerome cluck-cluck sympathetically. "I don't know how you stand it, sir," sympathizes Jeeves.

Does the movie hero then rush for a train, as you do? Not at all. He climbs into a $14,000 car and drives down from the hills of Belair. At the studio he makes love to Virginia Bruce and gets through the day on sheer fighting spirit. It is only superb will power that permits him to hold her in his arms and caress her. In the afternoon the jaded hero goes out to Inglewood race track to sit in his box and see the races.

So a hero is a man distinguished for valor, fortitude, or bold enterprize. Sure. A hero is an actor who lives in a mansion, who owns a yacht and a racing stable, who makes love to the most famous beauties of the world, who works only forty weeks a year for $10,000 a week, and who has three dependents, Jeeves, Jarvis, and Jerome.

You feminine readers will say that Sullivan is jealous; that I'd like to make passes at Loy, Crawford, Colbert, Young, De Havilland, Oberon and Dunne. You'll say that I'd like to have the noble brow of a Gable, the honest face of Tracy, the light feet of Astaire, the wavy hair of Gary Grant.

You'll argue that I'd like to get $10,000 a week for squeezing Shearer, stroking Simone, supping with Sothern. You'll argue that this is nothing but envy, and that I'd like to have Jeeves serve breakfast, Jarvis adjust the shower, and Jerome help me into a $14,000 car. Well, you're damn right I would, because that hero business is a soft touch and I'd like to know how to join that union.

Guest Chorus Gives Swedish Jubilee Concert

BY CECIL SMITH.

Because of the happy decision of a small band of their forefathers to settle in the valley of the Delaware river three hundred years ago, a large throng of Chicago residents of Swedish descent filled nearly every seat of the Auditorium theater last night. The more immediate object of their rally was a concert by the Tercentenary Jubilee chorus of Sweden, conducted by Hugo Alfvén, celebrated Swedish nationalist composer and professor at the University of Uppsala.

The chorus is composed of seventy-two male choristers of mature age and solid vocal equipment, chosen in Sweden last winter from a list of some 10,000 applicants. With excellent balance among the parts, and a virile yet flexible tone, the chorus responded fully to Dr. Alfvén's expert and musicianly direction. It would seem that we in the United States must still envy the northern European nations their success in producing whole-hearted, unaffected, vital male chorus singing.

With the exception of a setting of one of Knut Hamsun's lyrics and one other Norwegian song given as an encore, the entire program was devoted to Swedish music, including many folksongs of surpassing beauty. In several of these solos were sung by Einar Beyron, leading tenor of the Stockholm Royal opera. He was received with adulation by the audience, although his rather stentorian voice and abrupt style would probably find less favor with a wider cross section of the American public.

Symbolic ceremonies dotted the program. Both the Norwegian and the Swedish singing groups of Chicago tendered wreaths to Dr. Alfvéen, who was wise enough not to place the huge Swedish wreath around his neck after he discovered how completely the smaller Norwegian wreath obscured his slight frame.

The chorus returns to the east shortly and will sail for Sweden in a fortnight.

Son of African Chief to Be Ordained in Chicago

Jonathan Udo Ekong, son of an Anang African chieftain, will be ordained to the ministry of the Evangelical Lutheran Missouri synod at St. Luke's church, Belmont and Greenview avenues, tomorrow night. He will be commissioned as a missionary to his own people in West Africa. The Rev. Adelbert R. Kretzmann, pastor of St. Luke's church, stated that Ekong was sent to America by his own people for Christian training.

Dodge Heiress Weds Editor of Magazine on "Swing"

Detroit, Mich., July 1.—(AP)—Frances Dodge, 23, heiress and daughter of the late John F. Dodge, auto magnate, was married tonight to James B. Johnson Jr. of Elizabeth, N. J., publisher of a magazine devoted to "swing" music. The private ceremony took place in Meadow Brook hall, Rochester, Mich., home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Alfred G. Wilson.

Park Concerts Retain Their Cheerful Air

Nothing is changed in Grant park. The thousands who assembled before the band shell last night to hear the Chicago Civic Opera orchestra under Henry Weber play the first of a summerlong series of free concerts found countless features which former similar cycles have made familiar.

Lake Michigan and the city's bravura skyline were in their customary places. The concerts still boast that air of cheerful hyperbole, with the announcer referring to every one as a person "who needs no introduction." Everything is handled as biggest and best. Even the puddles in front of the band shell, if occasion arose to refer to them, would doubtless be described as the finest puddles obtainable.

Music students can still profit by the bits of knowledge handed out between pieces. We were told last evening that the "Tristan" prelude and love death were separated by almost the entire action of the drama. That Henry Weber is a great musician and composer as well as a great conductor. That the first movement of Beethoven's Fifth symphony is in minor mode except where the sonata form permits major. But then the orchestra played only the second and fourth movements, a device which emphasized in an unmistakable way the excellence of Beethoven's own arrangement.

But something has changed, come to think of it. In other years a great block of seats was reserved for those who knew the right people, and ordinary folk were rigidly excluded from these desirable locations. Now the reserved seats have been abolished, and the folk can sit wherever they want.

The program began with the overture to "The Flying Dutchman," after which the soloist of the evening, Rosa Raisa, was brought to the platform. In excerpts from "Norma," "Aida," "La Traviata," "Il Trovatore," and "Sicilian Vespers" the celebrated soprano revealed the great Raisa only in momentary flashes. She was definitly not in good voice, with pitch difficulties and a too effortful coloratura marring her work.

Besides the "Flying Dutchman" overture and two movements of the symphony, the concert's purely instrumental offerings included Debussy's "Afternoon of a Faun," the Strauss waltz, "Roses from the South," and the prelude to "Die Meistersinger." The audience applauded in a friendly manner.

It was pleasant in Grant park last evening despite the lowering clouds. Not a single one of our highly publicized thirteen billion mosquitoes showed up for this gala opening and listeners were allowed to enjoy the music and the scene in peace.

Under the sponsorship of the Chicago park district and the Chicago Federation of Musicians these free concerts will continue nightly throughout the summer. Soloists of national and even international reputation are to appear at brief intervals during this period.

Frock with Peasant Styling

FROCK IN JUNIOR SIZES.

Dirndls are definitly peasant, but even more foreign in appearance are the shirred dresses which have corselet treatment in the bodice and at the waistline. Since being peasant is the fashionable thing these days we thought we'd offer you the dernier cri, a sheer frock with contrasting corselet and suspenders.

You young things with streamlined figures will love the way this frock is shirred at the waistline, at the neckline, and in the sleeves. The corselet, with its embroidery motif is slipped on over the frock. The dress may be worn without it, of course.

There's another scheme you can follow. Make a peasant jumper, as shown in the sketch at the left, and have a blouse under it. The jumper may be laced, peasant fashion.

Sheers are especially suitable fabrics, since they may be shirred so beautifully. Checked or striped sheers are nice because they lend color, or you may like a floral print, something with dainty sprigs of color.

The embroidery pattern for the motif on the corselet is No. E-705, and is available for 10 cents extra.

Style No. 2105 is designed for sizes 11, 13, 15, 17, and 19 years. Size 15 requires 3¾ yards of 39 inch material for the dress, with ⅞ yard of 39 inch fabric for the suspender-corselet.

CLOTILDE PATTERNS ARE 10 CENTS EACH

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

We had the great good luck a few weeks ago to come across a rouge we had used and loved years ago. We never dreamed it was still on the market. But it has survived—and done very well for itself, thank you! Its makers are quiet about it, but the beauty-wise manage to seek it out. We were staggered to find that it has a large, faithful following still.

As dry rouges go, this is a honey. The package doesn't have much style to it; it still comes in the fussy little stiff paper container lettered in gilt. The rouge and the box it comes in are just as they always were. No streamlining of container, no change in the quality of the rouge.

This rouge is made in France and, if we're not mistaken, it's handmade. We may be wrong about this, but it is exactly the soft texture of handmade rouges we have seen. One thing we're sure of and that's that there is no coarse binder in it. It's pressed into a cake, but comes off on the puff as quickly and easily as loose face powder.

There are six shades. A unique feature is that you can't tell much about how the shade will be on your face from the shade as it looks in the little container. Some of the most popular shades—the most universally becoming—actually look a little weird until you see them on flesh. Then, as they say out in Hollywood, they're colossally successful.

There is a wonderful cardinal, a lovely raspberry, and a bright pure red that does vivid things for brunettes. There are three other shades on the orange side—really finds for blondes.

The softness of this rouge will get you. It would be impossible to do a bad makeup job with it; a baby could blend it perfectly. If you're on the hunt for a new rouge look up these old and honored friends.

Good Morning!

By Mae Tinée.

Simone Simon, from Paris, France, is finding her way about all right in zis so beeg, wonderful America. In a remarkably short time she learned to comprenez l'Anglais and now she can parle same like nobody's business. AND—her producers have learned with joy that she can sing swing with a peppy demureness that is definitly oo la la. Smart child!

She could not have found a more advantageous show window for the display of her gay, quiet charm than this bright little comedy with music —"Josette."

As a pinch hitting night club wardrobe mistress with a yen to sing, the heroine, Renee, finds herself suddenly faced with the necessity of impersonating a French entertainer, Josette, who, on the night of her opening appearance in the New Orleans café, dashes off to New York with an aged "Angel," David Brossard Sr., whom she believes rich and means to marry. What she doesn't know is that in reality "Angel" is a retired fish packer, not an active one, who receives an allowance of $500 a month from his two handsome sons who efficiently run the business.

They have engineered the trip to New York with the idea of wrenching him from the clutches of Josette, whom he met in Havana and about whom he has wired exuberantly. They wot not that Josette will be on papa's Manhattan bound plane. . . .

Thinking their parent safely out of the way, grave and practical son David and carefree son Pierre hie them to the café to make Josette see reason.

She whom they believe to be the siren appears. And now, with a fully established case of mistaken identity on the boards, much mixup ensues. . . . I shan't tell you how it all comes out, but I think you'll enjoy what the picture has to show you.

Never did a dainty lady have two leading men better serve as foils than do those able and good looking players, Don Ameche and Robert Young. And the supporting cast, with possibly one exception, is admirable. Direction—ditto.

Jonesboro, Ark., July 1.—(AP)—Luther Powell of Jonesboro beat his elder brother, Movie Actor Dick Powell, to fatherhood yesterday by twenty-six minutes and a couple of time zones.

Luther became the father of a 7 pound 7 ounce son, John Edward, at a Jonesboro hospital at 4 p. m., central standard time, yesterday.

Dick became the father of a daughter, to be christened Ellen, at a Hollywood hospital at 4:26 p. m., Pacific standard time.

Actually the difference in time zones makes John Edward two hours and twenty-six minutes older than his cousin, Ellen.

Summer Can Be a Healthy Time for Your Baby

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

With the first week of July upon us it is time for several articles about the baby and his care during the hot weather.

Summer with your baby should be a time of health and pleasure. With the exception, perhaps, of the very hot spells, you can achieve this; and even during those, if properly managed, your baby can be kept comfortable, which is for him usually synonymous with being happy.

A well baby is what you're striving for. Since milk is your baby's food it is vital that his milk be above reproach in actual cleanliness and in purity. First, his milk must come to you clean and pure. Second, you must keep it so.

With the exact work now done in the periodical inspection and testing of cows and the magnificent work done by the dairies in the handling and distribution of pasteurized and raw milk there is no excuse for a mother giving her baby anything but safe milk.

Of course the milk, after it has reached you, must be properly cared for. The bottles, all capped, must be washed thoroughly in warm water and soap before being put in the refrigerator. After a bottle has once been opened it must be protected from flies and it must not be allowed to stand around in a warm kitchen before being put back to keep cool.

Your doctor will tell you whether he wants you to use raw or pasteurized milk—also, how he wants it prepared for the baby.

Here is an important bit of advice: If you are going to take your baby away for the summer or a shorter vacation, keep an eagle eye on his milk.

One last word: Don't overfeed your baby when the weather gets very hot. Some doctors recommend giving the baby about one-quarter less than usual. If you do this be sure you make up the liquid by giving him extra boiled water.

"Caring for the Baby in Summer" is a leaflet of interest to parents. It will be sent on receipt of a large, stamped, self-addressed envelope. Address Mrs. Gladys Bevans, The Chicago Tribune, Chicago, Ill.

SYNOPSIS.

On board the S. S. Panama Queen, sailing from Los Angeles via Panama to New York, are Anne Sydney, who has a part in a Broadway play, and her crippled and embittered sister, Mena; Arnold Vernon, rich English motion picture producer, and his coldly beautiful wife, Claire; Isobel Butler, who has a stateroom next to the Vernons and hopes to get in pictures through him; Alex Reed, young surgeon, returning to work after two years' illness; and gossipy Mrs. Panting. Isobel meets and arouses Vernon's interest. She plans to flirt with Alex to allay suspicion. Anne and Alex are mutually attracted. Mena tries to spoil their romance. Alex promises Anne he'll try to change Mena's unfortunate mental attitude.

INSTALMENT XII.

WOUNDED HEARTS.

Mena's interruption shook Anne with a tangible physical pain. It was as if a delicate melody had been torn with a discord—something precious and irretrievable had been broken. She said: "We were just coming anyway. Let's go——"

Alex must have felt as she did. He left them, saying he had to go back to his room for something he had forgotten on the way down.

"You really must be more independent," Anne reproached Mena gently. "There was nothing to stop you going in alone to dinner. You know I don't care whether I have any or not."

"Not while this is going on, you don't," retorted Mena with violence. "But don't think you're going to collect this one. You won't. I warned him."

Anne gripped Mena by the arm and halted her on the empty stairs. "What do you mean, you 'warned him'?"

Mena looked a little frightened. "Well, I was sorry for him. I thought I'd tell him how you loved to conquer people, especially men—how you ran after them till you did it and then dropped them—so that he could be on his guard—know what to expect."

Anne felt a wave of nausea and horror. She dropped Mena's arm with a gesture of throwing it away from her. "You go in by yourself. I don't want any dinner——"

"But Anne——"

Anne stamped her foot. "Go, I say." She turned then and ran back up the stairs to C deck and shut herself in her room.

"O," she cried aloud in her anguish, "the most beautiful thing that ever happened to me in my life—and Mena has spoiled it."

It was not long before a knock sounded on her door. Anne sat up, her heart jumping. "Yes—who is it?"

"It's I—Alex. What's wrong, Anne?"

"I don't—I mean—O Alex, don't come in—can you please wait a minute——?"

She got up and went to the mirror, dabbed her eyes with cold water, powdered her face and smoothed her hair. He would suspect what had happened if she didn't put a brave face on it. Her poise restored, she opened the door and went down with him. "I was worrying about you," he said tenderly, "is something wrong, Anne?"

Anne felt her cheeks burn. Did he believe what Mena had said. Perhaps he didn't, but the poison was in his mind—and how was she to know?

She said briskly: "No, of course, there isn't."

He paused for a moment outside the door of the dining saloon. "Then you'll meet me up there again—afterwards?"

Anne checked the abrupt no that rose to her lips. She said smilingly: "Yes, of course, I will." She made a pretence of eating, knowing Alex's keenness of observation. But all the time her wounded pride blazed high in her. Yes, she would go up there again, but this time she'd make it clear she wasn't cheap—to be easily had for the asking. Not from her would any man on a ship's cruise receive soon to be forgotten kisses.

Little more than an hour had gone by since Mena had interrupted them on the boat deck, but when they were up there again, Anne felt as if it might have been a year, so remote was now the tingling mood with its anticipation of ecstasy.

She stood quietly at the rail beside Alex waiting for him to speak. He was silent himself for a little, looking out into the star pricked darkness over the ocean. "You were saying you thought you would like Neil Andrews after all, Anne dear?"

Anne drew her arm away lest he should feel her tremble. "Alex, really you mustn't call me Anne dear——"

He caught her hand as if to prevent her from escape. His voice was urgent—afraid. "Why, Anne, is there some one else?"

"No. Not unless you would call a career some one. And in a way it is when it is your master. It certainly makes me feel a slave——"

He sounded genuine and deeply serious even to her ears attuned for sham. "Is that a reason for shutting love out of your life?"

Love? He had not said marriage. Well, she would show him her independence, and also what she thought love should lead to.

"A very good reason, surely. I could hardly be fair to a husband. I have put marriage out of my mind for a very long time—and when I do think of it, if ever, I think it should be some one in the same profession."

His voice was subdued and without life in it. "It sounds very reasonable. Except that you might happen to fall in love with some one outside your profession. What will you do then?"

"It would have to be a devastating love to get as far as consideration at all. Some one who would sweep me off my feet——"

"And, of course, agree not to interfere with your career?"

"But naturally," she said.

Alex felt crushed. She had guessed what was coming and she had taken this way to refuse him. Well, it was considerate and tactful of her, and he would not thrust on her the situation she wanted to avoid by telling her of his feelings for her. "I understand how you feel. Because my own career is the blood of my heart to me."

"And you wouldn't let marriage spoil it, would you?" she asked him. "You should pick your wife carefully, too. A girl with no other interest than promoting your career and being a wife to you."

"That is what I had thought when I thought about it at all. But, like you, marriage for me is something in the distant future."

Then he was only trying to make easy love to me, Anne thought with a wild misery.

She was in a turmoil of emotion. She was thankful now to Mena, for the girl's malice had saved her from making a fool of herself.

FOURTH DAY.

The Panama Queen sailed into a small harbor circled by lush green islands. The water ran smooth as oil. The air laden with tropical smells felt warm as milk. Mena leaned over the rail beside Anne watching the densely green emerald islands as the ship passed close.

The town on the mainland came into view, a huddle of flimsy white houses at the water's edge, a scatter of them up the green hills. A launch was coming out to meet them and take off the passengers. Mena said: "I suppose Dr. Reed is going to take us ashore?"

"You suppose a great deal after what you did," Anne said coldly. "Our adventure in Mexico is going to be just you and me."

Mena was visibly disappointed. Anne said: "You seem to like him."

Her sister's answer surprised her. She said with low voiced intensity: "He has changed my opinion of men. He's the most civilized human being I ever met in my life. He is unselfish and sensitive. He appreciates me—he understands me."

Anne said gently: "I understand you too, Mena. Otherwise I would have taken your behavior very seriously. I would not have spoken to you again——"

Mena did not appreciate Anne's magnanimity. She said acidly: "O, no, you don't, Anne. I'm very complex. You may think you do. But you don't."

Now they saw the first batch of passengers going down the ship's gangway into the launch. Alex was among them, and clinging tightly to him on her way down the stairs was Isobel, giggling and pretending to be afraid of falling in the water. He looked up and saw Anne and Mena as he helped her in. He smiled and waved to them.

The crowded launch had started by the time they got to the lower deck, but it would be back in a few minutes. They sat down to wait.

TIP TO JAM AND JELLY MAKERS: If you are sealing the glasses with paraffin, pour on a thin layer and let it harden. Then place a clean string or narrow ribbon over this layer, having one end out of the glass. Pour another coating of paraffin on the jam or jelly and let it harden. Now you have a handle to pull when removing the paraffin from the preserve, about next Christmas time.

Put the paraffin on as soon as you've poured the fruit mixture, instead of letting the glasses stand until the jelly has set. Or, if you aren't sure that it is going to set, cover the glasses with waxed paper held by rubber bands to prevent dust settling on the fruit, and add the paraffin when you are sure the mixture has set.

Make jams and jellies in small amounts for best results. . . . Cook them rapidly to save color and flavor, and don't overcook. . . . Combine pectinless fruits, such as blueberries, with tart apple or lemon juice for jam or jelly. . . . Mark the recipes which you like best, so that you may use them again next year and the next. . . . And don't misplace them!

The manufacturers of those handy coffee rings about which I spoke in a recent Saturday column tell me I'm wrong in thinking the rings need to be broken for types of coffee makers other than percolators. The rings dissolve the minute hot water touches them, so can be used in the drip and the various glass coffee brewers without being broken. I used my sample rings in a percolator and liked them very well for that.

Try making lemonade with honey instead of sugar next time. By the way, a sugar sirup always is a better sweetener of fruit juice drinks than just sugar. It blends better. Keep a jar of sugar sirup on hand for quick cooling drinks. Equal parts of sugar and water, boiled for 5 to 10 minutes, make it.

Orange Egg Milk Shake.
[Two glasses.]
1 cup orange juice
1 cup milk
1 egg, slightly beaten
1 tablespoon sugar
1 teaspoon shredded orange peel

Seven Million Visit Zoo at Brookfield in 4 Years

The Chicago Zoölogical park of Brookfield, the world's baby zoo from a standpoint of age, has proved itself a lusty infant. Attendance figures released yesterday on the zoo's fourth anniversary by Director Edward H. Bean show that 7,052,229 persons have passed through the zoo's turnstiles since July 1, 1934. Other large zoos of America have shown a decline in attendance.

Gingham Frock Helps Stretch a Slim Budget

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Being down to the last few pennies need not mean a thing to a clothes hungry shopper. Snooping the town for real bargains for those with depleted allowances, we have found some of the snappiest outfits that ever won approval.

If you like the fresh, clean charm of checked gingham you'll fall for these fetching new models as enthusiastically as we have . . . the dresses are made of half inch checked gingham in brown and white, black and blue, and red and white. The tops are square cut; these dresses have no sleeves and the neckline is edged with contrasting rickrack braid. Skirts are gored to flare and the belt is a long tie affair worn either front or back.

The material is sturdy and preshrunk. When you learn that a short white bolero jacket is included in the amazingly low price of around $4 you'll be speechless! For a hot day in town, for vacation, for spectator sports, and general purpose outfits they're tops for cool cotton snap.

With a couple of dollars added you can buy dotted checked gingham dresses made with a tailored shirtwaist top, pleated front skirt, a row of black buttons, and a patent lether belt. This tissue stays crisp and in the original color after weeks of tubbing. Red and white and green and white are especially cool and should be ideal office togs for sultry summer days.

In the same price range are all kinds of green and white dotted material dresses in thin cotton. Slim one piece dresses, all with the briefest of sleeves, give a two piece effect. Some heavenly shades of blue and dusty pink, also dotted with white, complete a mercifully low priced assortment of summer daytime clothes that beat records for smart simplicity, youthful snap, and cool comfort.

The Housewife

One of the most popular polishes on the market is a highly concentrated, creamlike emulsion. It lasts a long time because you dilute it with an equal amount ot water.

This diluting process meant pouring some out in a pan and adding the water, until recently some one had a bright idea. Now you get a quart bottle, half filled with the polish. Fill the bottle with water, shake it, and there you are.

Apply this polish with a cloth or soft brush to the surface you want to clean and before it dries polish lightly with a dry cheesecloth or with old rough toweling.

This liquid cleans varnished or enameled surfaces, automobiles, pianos, furniture, and radios.

Rich and Full Life Story of Fanny Kemble

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"Fanny Kemble," by Margaret Armstrong. [Macmillan, $3.] Published Tuesday. July choice of the Book of the Month club.

A novelist plotting a life story with the extravagant contrasts in background, emotions, and psychology which make "Fanny Kemble" tingle would be scorned for overexaggeration for effect. But "Fanny Kemble" is no work of fiction. It is one of those epic records of truth which are actually stranger than any fiction dare be. It is the life story of "a passionate Victorian," a beautiful and brilliant rebel against the feminine pattern of her day, in action and thought.

Into the great royal family of the theater of England Fanny Kemble was born, niece of the "Tragic Muse," Mrs. Siddons, and "Glorious John," and daughter of Charles, the handsomest man in England. As a child she met the great in her parents' home. At 19, to save her father and Covent Garden from bankruptcy, she played Juliet after three weeks' rehersals [although she had not intended to go on the stage]. She swept London to her feet, became the toast of the English speaking world, with her portrait in every one's pocket and heart; came to America in 1832 with her father, and was an even more devastating success on the stage and in exclusive drawing rooms.

Out of the sardine packing of attendant young men who surrounded her young Pierce Butler emerged and married her, and Fanny Kemble ceased to be the most adored actress on the English speaking stage and became a Philadelphia housewife and mother, and, to her amazement, found herself the wife of a great slave owner. She went with him to his Georgia plantations and became an ardent and passionate and vociferous anti-slavery champion and her "Georgia Journal" published during the civil war is said to have prevented England's espousing the southern cause.

It is to the power to express herself in writing that we owe this minutely detailed record, for she set down in her diaries impressions and conclusions with delicate exactness, which to this day retain their vividness, and which have provided Margaret Armstrong with material for as thorough and colorful a sketch of the north and south of pre-civil-war days as readers have been offered.

Fanny Kemble lived eighty-four years in two worlds . . . which changed in England from the lush and lavish regency to the staidest of Victorian primness, in America from slavery and abolitionist tenseness through a wracking civil war to the slowly healed '80s and early '90s. She knew luxury, and tragic harassment over debts; she was the most acclaimed and the most lonely of women. Such a life, warped and woofed with a rare and vivid personality, fills these fascinating pages.

Kenneth Roberts Looks at His Maine Factually.

"Trending Into Maine," by Kenneth Roberts. [Little-Brown, $4.] Illustrated by N. C. Wyeth.

Kenneth Roberts, author of "Northwest Passage," and "Arundel," and those other fictional glorifications of Maine, here puts aside all of the trickeries of fiction and gets down to glorifying Maine in fact in "Trending Into Maine." He admits in the second paragraph of the book, after declaring in the first that "I don't pretend to know much about the state of Maine," that "what little I DO know about Maine, however, I like," and then for 384 pages tells that "little."

His "liking" is that most honest urge to genius, and he has written this book, obviously, because he loved writing it. It hasn't any set pattern, and it wanders around like a brook on its way out of the mountains. It talks about people and pines, and history and sea serpents, and the originals of some of his famous characters of the past and the present, and what the sea looks and feels like to a Maine man, and records a thousand other Maine induced thoughts, memories of sights and smells and tastes [including some good old Maine recipes for food and grog]. It is one of those nice books that make you like an author sometimes more than his masterpieces do.

This Concoction Has Sinister Ingredients.

"Brighton Rock," by Graham Greene. [Viking, $2.50.]

The author of "Brighton Rock" [a cousin of Robert Louis Stevenson] calls his book "an entertainment," but I am not so sure that Mr. Greene's tongue isn't in his cheek over that phrase, for the book is about dire things—a couple of murders, a suicide and gang warfare, and sinister doings among the bookmakers at the Brighton race track. There is no mystery involved for the reader, for he knows who did the killings.

The hero is a 17 year old boy with little confidence either in crime and a horror of love. The rollicking Ida who "doesn't mind if she does" anything from having another Guinness to walking up to a murderer and telling him off, vies for heroine with 16 year old Rose, who repented not killing herself as she had promised to do, but did not repent of the mortal sin which she had committed.

Greek Drama Classics Finally in a Collection.

"The Complete Greek Drama," edited by Whitney J. Oates and Eugene O'Neill Jr. [Random, $5, 2 vols.]

This collection will win tremendous gratitude from those who have been saying for years: "Why don't they gather together all of the Greek plays that have been preserved? There are collections of everything else, but for those forty-seven masterpieces you have to dig around in nearly forty-seven different volumes."

Well, Prof. Oates of Princeton took the tragedies as his share of the editing, Mr. O'Neill of Yale the comedies, and they selected the best available translation of each play, wrote a scholarly introduction to each one and a fine general introduction, made a useful glossary, and here lucky readers are with "The Complete Greek Drama."

Some Important Recent Books

FICTION.

The Lenient God, by Naomi Jacob [Macmillan, $2.50], portrays a cockney family of present day London.

NONFICTION.

The Voices of the Cathedral, by Sartel' Prentice [Morrow, $3.50], reveals the stories wrought in the stone and glass of European cathedrals.

Our Country, Our People, and Theirs, by M. E. Tracy [Macmillan, $1.75], presents a clear picture of living conditions in Italy, Germany, Russia, and the United States, arranged so that studies of the four countries are comparative.

The New Poland and the Jews, by Simon Segal [Lee Furman, $2], discusses problems facing Poland today.

ABOUT PLACES.

China Fights Back, by Agnes Smedley [Vanguard, $2.50], records the months this American woman spent traveling with China's Eighth Route Army.

Stories Behind World's Great Idea Makers

BY CARL WIEGMAN.

"Architects of Ideas," by Ernest R. Trattner. [Carrick & Evans, $3.75.]

"Isaac Newton," by J. W. N. Sullivan. [Macmillan, $2.50.]

"Heredity and Politics," by J. B. S. Haldane. [Norton, $2.50.]

One of the advantages of the twentieth century man, as he sits in his bombproof shelter listening to the radio speeches of the dictators, is that he can look back smugly at his ancestors, who were so dismally ignorant. Ernest Trattner's "Architects of Ideas," a smoothly done account of fifteen of the world's great idea makers, from Copernicus to Einstein, makes marvelously clear how much we have learned in the last twenty centuries. It is a story of man's search for truth, triumphant over the villains of bigotry, ignorance, and the general cussedness of mankind.

The book is not an "outline of science," but an outline of some of the great theories—the solar system, fire, heat, light, disease, etc. Mr. Trattner tries to pick out one man, out of whose brain each great theory sprang, ripe and ready for consumption. Unfortunately, few ideas were born that way, and by the time Mr. Trattner gets through giving credit to every contributor to a theory, his selection of the No. 1 theorist sometimes seems highly arbitrary.

Oddly enough, Isaac Newton doesn't rate a chapter by himself in "Architects of Ideas," although Mr. Trattner finds it necessary to refer to Sir Isaac twenty-four times in order to explain the work of other theorists. J. W. N. Sullivan's book amply repairs Mr. Trattner's slight to the man whose "Principia" is regarded the greatest work in the history of science.

To those of us without an acquaintance with the "Principia" and with all of Newton's contributions to astronomy and physics, the most interesting thing about him was the paradox, as Mr. Sullivan says, "that he was a genius of the first order at something he did not consider of the first importance." Newton accomplished all his great work before the age of 42, and spent his remaining forty-three years puttering with problems of theology, history, alchemy, and mysticism. Those were the issues which, to a Christian man of his day, were really important.

Prof. J. B. S. Haldane of the University of London is a well known demolisher of the Nazi theories of racial dominance. His "Heredity and Politics," based on lectures given at Birmingham university last year, tells without undue technicality how much is known and, more important, how much is not known about the science of heredity. He assails compulsory sterilization as "a piece of crude Americanism like the complete prohibition of alcoholic beverages" and declares much of the existing eugenic program is due to unscientific application of racial and class prejudice.

Wear Trousers Only When the Figure Permits

"What I can't understand," Mr. Slezak says, "is why women who are built for skirts have taken to trousers. Not well cut, well fitted garments, but those worn regardless of shape or size.

"This fashion, which was started some years ago by some ultra-smart women who could go to a good tailor to have their shorts and slacks made to order, was all right as long as slacks were worn in the proper place. But when you see women wearing slacks that are baggy behind, skimpy in the leg, too loose in the waist and too tight where hips are broadest, you want to run the other way, no matter how lovely the wearer's face."

"Skirts are so graceful and do marvelous things for the feminine figure," continues Slezak, admitting that not for himself alone, but for his entire sex, he speaks.

"Why must a fair one emphasize the breadth of her hips, the thickness of thighs, when with skirts she can give the illusion of graceful lines?" continues the actor.

Sunday Paper to Give List of Party Winners

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

[Activities of the Sally Joy Brown department are sponsored by Tribune Charities, Inc.]

Only one more day to wait, boys and girls! When the SUNDAY TRIBUNE arrives tomorrow morning you'll know.

Since I have invitations for just 100 children some of you are bound to be disappointed. There were a good number who could not be invited because they forgot to include those three little items I requested—name, address, and age.

Other youngsters would simply sign their letter "Jimmy" or "Mary," with no last name and no address.

Some of you children forgot to include your ages.

However, this is just the beginning of the season and you'll all have a chance to try again. Your next opportunity will come tomorrow when you see the good news I have for you in the SUNDAY TRIBUNE. It's our second party announcement, and if you youngsters aren't delighted with it I'll eat my hat, and yours, too!

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1938: By Ely Culbertson.]

"Dear Mr. Culbertson: The game of bridge is a grand medium for I. Q. tests and, in explanation, I submit the following.

"Dr. W. considers himself a pretty good player. [For his patients' sake I hope he's a better doctor!] Last night in a rubber bridge game Dr. W. was sitting East, I South, when this hand was dealt.

"East, dealer.

"Both sides vulnerable.

"East, satisfying his penchant for 'smart' bids, bid one club. South doubled and West and North passed. Doc couldn't 'take it,' so he then bid one no trump, which I [South] now realize was the act of a drowning man grasping at a straw when he could have reached one or two stout planks just as easily. Once again I double, and there the contract was played.

"My opening lead was the heart deuce. Jack in dummy held, North playing the six spot. The nine of diamonds was led and passed. I gathered in the trick with the king, but as I saw the trick coming I knew that my queen would be lost when East would perforce play out his diamond ace as soon as he was on lead. But I was ready to test Doc's I. Q. and immediately played the three of hearts, putting the lead in dummy again. Doc evidently never heard about the Trojan horse or Greek gift bearers, for forthwith he led another diamond to the ten spot in his hand. I played my queen with a chuckle and remarked that I never had been so insulted in my life!

"From then on there wasn't much to it. The heart ace and nine were cashed. Then four club tricks and the ace of spades. Down three! Poor Doc! By his own bad bid he always was set two tricks, but through his lack of respect for my intelligence, or else his own low I. Q. rating, he yielded up an extra 300 points.

"Any comments?

My only comment is that the doctor fell for a gold brick that my 8 year old son would scornfully reject. No matter how little he thought of South's game it still was inconceivable that South would have given him an entry to dummy where none really existed, except for the specific purpose of inducing another diamond finesse. You can insult an opponent only to a certain degree. After that he ups and bites you.

Moving Forward

Marshall Field & Company presents here each day observations and opinions intended to be of interest and value to those it seeks to serve.

VITAL STATISTICS

By CALEB

A GOLF BALL, we are told, leaves the head of a well-swung brassie at a speed of 146 miles an hour while a tennis ball goes driving over the net at something like 80 miles an hour.

The road over the hill beckons to the motorist and welcomes big cars or small. There are breezes on the lake this time of the year—and if all the books, cool hammocks and porch chairs in Chicago were laid end to end, they'd reach to contentment.

These are only a few of the statistics we intend to investigate for ourselves in the weeks to come, for beginning today the several thousand who work in the Marshall Field stores will have Saturday afternoon to use for some first-hand research. We are all looking forward to some good times out-of-doors.

While we are in a statistical mood, it may be of interest that this extra Saturday afternoon from now until August 27th will give our combined forces a total of 244,000 additional hours for pleasure and recreation.

Personality, important in any business, plays a vital part in ours. Personality is the sum total of what a man thinks and is. That in turn must be conditioned by the breadth of his interests, capacity and physical well-being.

Whatever broadens interests, improves physical well-being and engenders constructive thinking is a valuable asset not only to employes but also to the business they represent. Hence, our interest and attention where vacation periods are concerned.

The policy of Saturday afternoon closing is not a new one with us, nor is the long established custom of a two-week vacation with pay for those with the store continuously for a year or more. In a peculiar sense our business is made up of individuals. The elements of initiative, originality and objective thoughtfulness are dominant in every phase of our work.

Since by exercising these qualities an employe may substantially increase his income, we feel that an investment in leisure to replenish his supply of them will be worth while—both for him and for the business of which he is so vital a part.

G. O. P. PRAISED FOR COURSE IN SPECIAL SESSION

Gov. Horner Is Upset by Leaders' Statement.

BY PERCY WOOD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., July 1.—[Special.]—Post-mortem comments praising the work of the Republican minorities in the special legislative sessions which adjourned sine die early this morning drew Gov. Henry Horner's wrath late today.

The joint statement of Senator Earl B. Searcy [R., Springfield] and Representative Elmer J. Schnackenberg [R., Chicago] complimenting their colleague for opposing most of the administration measures brought the charge from the governor that the Republicans were playing politics.

What appeared to roil Mr. Horner most was the paragraph in which Schnackenberg and Searcy lauded the house minority for stopping the constitutional convention resolution and its companion measures.

Block Democratic Trick.

"On two successive occasions," the statement read, "the Republican minority was able to stop the Horner administration from putting over a convention for a new constitution in Illinois by a trick method of counting a cross in the party circle as an affirmative vote for a constitutional convention. The plan which the Republicans defeated obviously was intended to circumvent the wholesome provision in our present constitution requiring that a majority of those voting at a general election shall be necessary in order to call a convention."

"Hypocrisy," says Governor.

Mr. Horner called this attitude "hypocrisy" and then applied a Shakespearean chastisement to his detractors, quoting from "Measure for Measure" as follows:

Dressed in a little brief authority,
Most ignorant of what he's most assur'd,
His glassy essence, like an angry ape,
Plays such fantastic tricks before high heaven,
As make the angels weep.

Besides deserving credit for killing the constitutional convention, the Republicans, their leaders said, disclosed that there was plenty of money in the state treasury for relief without resorting to new taxation; blocked the tax exemption proposed in the housing bills; supported the drivers' license bill as a needed safety measure, rather than as a row over political patronage, and defeated the proposed state school board bill.

Shelby M. Singleton Quits Citizens' Association Post

Shelby M. Singleton announced his resignation yesterday from the Citizens' association which he has served for thirty-five years as secretary. The association is the oldest reform organization in the country and has devoted itself to preventing mismanagement and waste of funds in local government. Mr. Singleton, who is 71 years old, is an attorney and is executive secretary of the Legislative Voters' league. His home is at 1104 Forest avenue, Wilmette.

ARTHUR LAUTERBACH APPOINTED MANAGER OF MILK ASSOCIATION

Arthur H. Lauterbach of Philadelphia, Pa., has been appointed general manager of the Pure Milk association, officials of the organization announced yesterday. He is to take over soon the management of the association, coöperative bargaining agency for 14,500 dairy farmers in the Chicago milk producing territory.

Arthur H. Lauterbach.

Lauterbach has been manager of the Inter-State Milk Producers' association in Philadelphia for three years. He was chief of the dairy section of the Agricultural Adjustment administration in Washington before becoming affiliated with the Philadelphia association.

The new general manager succeeds John P. Case of Naperville, who has handled the affairs of the association for the last two years.

Be Hard On All Criminals, Kelly Tells New Sergeants

Be courteous to citizens but hard on criminals Mayor Kelly told the 155 newly promoted police sergeants yesterday. The sergeants were sworn in in the civil service rooms and then taken to the mayor's office, where Mayor Kelly and Police Commissioner Allman talked to them on their new duties.

EHLER CHARGES 150,000 PHONY VOTERS LISTED

Demands Their Removal; Blames Jarecki.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Theodore F. Ehler, Republican nominee for county judge, charged yesterday that his Democratic opponent, Judge Edmund K. Jarecki, through his control of the election machinery, is responsible for 150,000 fraudulent registrations. He demanded that these be struck from the poll lists.

Ehler, a former judge, addressed a luncheon meeting of the Optimist club in the Hotel La Salle. Carl Buddenbaum introduced the speaker.

"It is a sad state of affairs," said Ehler, "when a county judge seeks reëlection for his fifth consecutive term, not on his record of achievement but on renewed promises to clean up fraudulent elections. It is clearly an admission of incompetence.

Cry for 16 Years.

"Honest elections has been his cry and his chief political issues for sixteen years. During the recent primary he charged there were over 150,000 fraudulent names on the registration books. It is brazen indeed for a public official to seek reëlection upon a series of illegal registrations and fraudulent voting committed under his own supervision.

"I join with him in his own charges. There are still 150,000 or more fraudulent registrations on his books which he will not remove, not because of his inability to do so, but because of his determination to use them for his own reëlection in November. In the name of decency and fair play I demand the removal of these names from the poll lists.

Says Blame Rests on Judge.

"Honest elections can only be assured by employing honest judges and clerks in every precinct. It can be accomplished without further delay. It is simple to understand that with honest judges and clerks there can be no fraudulent registrations, no vote stealing, and no tampering with the ballots."

DUNCAN'S TERM TO STAND, RULES SUPREME COURT

Madison, Wis., July 1.—[Special.]—The Supreme court today upheld, in an unanimous opinion written by Justice Chester A. Fowler, that it is without authority to intervene in the sentence imposed upon Thomas M. Duncan by Circuit Judge Gullick N. Risjord, who found the former secretary of Gov. Phil F. La Follette guilty of first degree manslaughter but sentenced him on a fourth degree manslaughter charge.

Duncan, convicted for drunken driving in the hit and run death of Henry F. Schuette in Milwaukee the night of March 9, is serving a one to two year term in the Milwaukee house of correction.

District Attorney Herbert J. Steffes had petitioned the court to permit him to file a mandamus action against Judge Risjord compelling the judge to resentence Duncan for first degree manslaughter, which carries a penalty of five to ten years in the penitentiary.

A coroner's jury yesterday continued to July 14 an inquest into the death of Harry L. Minor, sheet writer in a handbook at West Madison street and Austin boulevard, after hearing an eyewitness account of the fatal shooting which failed to point to the identity of the slayers. Later in the day a new witness to the murder, Mrs. Ada Floyd, 63 years old, of 3116 North Ashland avenue, told Sheffield avenue police three men were involved.

From the window of her third floor flat, she said, she saw last Wednesday night an automobile containing three men draw up behind Minor's automobile in front of 3110 North Ashland avenue. As Minor was about to enter the car two men emerged, she said, one spoke to him, he turned, and was shot by the man. The gunman then shot Minor twice after he fell.

Mrs. Toby Jean Minor, widow of the slain man, a pretty, slender brunette with auburn hair, attended the inquest with Minor's mother, Mrs. Margaret Minor of 4708 Monroe street. She wept as she testified in a low voice that they were married June 22, 1936, and that she last saw Minor in Channel Lake, Ill., the previous week-end. Mrs. Minnie Kostok, 1441 Oakdale avenue, testified that she saw one man shooting another as he lay on the ground on Ashland avenue, after which a sedan slowly approached and the gunman entered it. The car sped away.

FIVE SENTENCED TO PRISONS FOR $1,000,000 FRAUD

Five officials and agents of the Devon Loan and Finance company, 6354 Broadway, were sentenced to prison terms by Judge J. Leroy Adair in federal court yesterday for using the mails in a $1,000,000 scheme to defraud.

C. Joseph Tamuel, president of the company, and Frank D. Shobe, treasurer, each were sentenced to serve three years in the penitentiary. Earl M. Johnson of Corunna, Ind.; George Reeves, former postmaster of Harris, Ia., and Frank E. Shipley of 6408 Glenwood avenue, agents of the company, each were sentenced to six months in the county jail.

The men were found guilty on May 6 of defrauding 6,000 professional and business men throughout the country in a scheme to collect old accounts. The government charged that many of the accounts were collected, but that the company retained the money.

PRE-PLATFORM STUDY LEADERS NAMED BY G. O. P.

Names of six round table leaders chosen to conduct the discussions at the summer session of the Republican program committee were announced yesterday by Glenn Frank, chairman. The session, which is to be held in the nature of an institute of public problems, is to be held in Chicago on Northwestern university's campus, Aug. 1 to 6, and is to be attended by 150 members of the committee and 25 specialists on various problems.

Reports from Nine Districts.

Subcommittees in the nine geographical regions into which the full committee is divided are to present reports to the round tables. These are to be combined with the results of the round table discussions. This will be the basis of whatever statement the program committee may put out when the session ends.

The round tables, at each of which a separate problem will be discussed, will have the following leaders:

Labor—Spencer Miller Jr., of the social service school of Fordham university, New York. He is a labor consultant and was technical adviser to the international labor conference of 1935.

Social Security—Morris A. Linton, president of the Provident Mutual Life Insurance company of Philadelphia, Pa. Mr. Linton is now a member of the advisory council on social security.

Civil Service and Political Liberty—Earl DeLong, assistant professor of political science at Northwestern university. He is chairman of the Evanston civil service commission.

According to Dr. Thomas H. Reed, director of the summer program, the sessions will be unusual because there will be no speeches by officeholders, candidates, or possible candidates for major office. He said party chiefs such as Herbert Hoover, Alf Landon, Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg, and Col. Frank Knox will not participate.

"The meeting," said Dr. Reed, "will not be political as such, because it will be devoted to 'for and against' discussions of national problems designed to aid in formulating a constructive Republican program well in advance of the 1940 conventions."

Head of Forest Preserves Gets Civil Service Rating

Charles G. Sauers, superintendent of the forest preserve district for the last nine years, was placed under civil service yesterday. Clayton F. Smith, president of the county board, said Sauers ranked highest of four candidates in recent examinations.

Indiana Policeman's Killer Silent as He Is Arraigned

La Porte, Ind., June 1.—[Special.]—Orelle Easton, 25 years old, indicted on a charge of murdering Indiana State Policeman Ray Dixon Sunday, stood mute in Superior court at Michigan City when arraigned today. Easton said he was without counsel and Judge Russell W. Smith said he would appoint one in a few days. Easton was returned to a cell in the county jail here.

FAIR KNIGHTESS DIMS ARRIVAL OF SEABISCUIT

Scheduled to Run in Matron Today.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Old Seabiscuit walked off a special car at Arlington Park yesterday afternoon and was a little surprised to discover that hardly any one paid attention to him.

It was his stable companion, the fashionably bred mare Fair Knightess, which drew the eyes of those in the crowd who gathered to see the famous San Francisco stable of Charles S. Howard unloaded.

There was a reason for this, of course. Fair Knightess is scheduled to try for the $5,000 Arlington Matron stakes to be decided this afternoon, and it is likely that she will go to the post as the favorite at odds of 2 to 1. At least that will be the case if Trainer Tom Smith, now known as the silent man of racing, sends her to the post. Trainer Smith often resorts to strange methods when he trains his horses and surely he is a man of mystery when it comes to starting them.

Appears in Good Condition.

Although his legs were wrapped in heavy bandages, there didn't appear to be anything wrong with Seabiscuit. He didn't take a lame step. Fair Knightess also looked the picture of health after the long trip from Boston. Some wondered if Trainer Smith would care to start her this afternoon. His only comment was "Well, you know an overnight train ride is just like a morning workout for race horses."

"How about Seabiscuit in Monday's Stars and Stripes? he was asked.

"We will have to wait developments," he said. He took a look at the track and remarked, "We need sunshine if Seabiscuit is to run his best race."

Smith is of the old school of trainers. He has been brought up in the belief that it's a man's privilege to run his horse when and where he pleases. No one can deny that Trainer Smith is a pretty good hand with a horse.

Off Track for Matron.

The Matron stakes will be renewed over an off track. It was muddy yesterday. Even lots of sunshine could not improve it much and the weather man doesn't promise much sunshine. The Arlington course dries out faster than most any other in America, so there still is a chance that the going will be fast on Monday.

Idle Miss, another filly shipped here from Suffolk Downs, was next in line for the Matron. The odds against her were 4 to 1. Then came Jewell Dorsett at 6 to 1.

Thomas D. Taggart decided that the 132 pounds assigned his mare, Marica, were entirely too many. He left her in Delaware, where she will try for a $10,000 prize one week from this afternoon. This also means that she will be missing from the Stars and Stripes handicap.

Dolly Val Draws Attention.

Dolly Val, which scored a surprise victory in the $10,000 Frontier handicap at Detroit, came in for quite a lot of attention late yesterday after she worked three furlongs over the muddy track in 39 seconds.

Another Matron candidate to work over the sloppy track was Mrs. John Hertz's Annie Reigh, which went a fast three furlongs in :35 2-5 on the main oval. Hertz silks have flown high in the Matron, with Valenciennes winning the first running in 1930 and Risque taking the 1931 renewal for the Chicago sportswoman. The great Maryland mare, Tred Avon, won the 1932 Matron.

The Matron is supported by the best racing card offered in Chicago this season. Six of the fleetest 2 year olds at the track meet in the Palatine purse at 5½ furlongs. In the field is the French Lick Springs stable's Yale o' Nine, winner of the Joliet stakes at Lincoln Fields; Light Spur, a fast one from the barn of John Marsch of Chicago; the Texas colt, Range Dust; American Byrd, winner of his last two races in convincing fashion, and the Louisville favorite, Hello Cap.

SCHMELING GOES ABOARD BREMEN; DEPARTS TONIGHT

New York, July 1.—[Special.]—Max Schmeling tonight left Polyclinic hospital, where he had been a patient since his bout with Joe Louis June 22. At 10:15 a private ambulance took him to the Bremen of the North German Lloyd Line and he went on board at 10:30.

He was taken to his stateroom on the boat, which will leave for Germany at midnight tomorrow. Accompanying him were his trainer, Max Machon, and his manager, Joe Jacobs. The former heavyweight champion boarded the boat twenty-four hours before he had planned to avoid the last minute rush and photographers.

C. Y. O. WASTES NO TIME IN ITS DRILL FOR IRISH

BY HOWARD BARRY.

The Catholic Youth organization's boxers went through their first sparring sessions yesterday in their training camp near Lockport, where they are preparing for a series of matches with the amateur champions of Ireland. The international bouts are to be held July 13 in Soldiers' field.

Yesterday was the first day in camp so most of the boys were restricted to one round of boxing. However, three of the veterans—Walter Cavalieri, Frank Kainrath, and Jimmy O'Malley — went two rounds, facing two opponents.

Bishop Bernard J. Sheil, director of the C. Y. O., was at the ringside to see the sparring begin. So was F. J. Lewis, after whom the site of the training camp—the Lewis Holy Name School of Aeronautics—is named.

Two rings have been set up in one of the school's hangars. Here the boys will report every day until they've convinced Coaches Paddy Kane and Dick Fitzpatrick that they've had enough boxing to get themselves on edge for the bouts with Ireland's champions.

O'Malley, Cavalieri, and Kainrath were permitted to go the extra round yesterday because they've been keeping themselves in good shape recently in preparation for the battle for places on the international team.

O'Malley Has Strong Incentive.

O'Malley is particularly eager to convince the coaches that he is back in top form because he has to live down a knockout he suffered in the International Golden Gloves matches. However, he has a Chicago Golden Gloves title, an intercity Golden Gloves victory, and a national A. A. U. title to support the theory that he just had an off night when he ran into the fists of Antoni Kolczynski of Poland during the bouts with the champions of Europe.

Even if he is in top form, O'Malley is in for trouble, because his division —the welterweight—will see some of the toughest intrasquad competition before the coaches name the man who will fight against the Irish.

Trouble for Invaders.

In the lightweight and light heavyweight classes the coaches are brewing more trouble for Ernie Smith and Dick Hearns, Irish fighters who were defeated in an earlier appearance against a Chicago squad. Those defeats were incurred in the International Golden Gloves matches of 1933. Since that time, however, both of these boys have increased their ability and experience, so the C. Y. O. coaches are preparing for rough going in these divisions.

SHUTE 3 UP ON GULDAHL AT 18TH IN 36 HOLE MATCH

Newton, Mass., July 1.—(AP)—A two under par round of 71 on Brae Burn, his home course, today gave Denny Shute, Professional Golfers' association champion the last two years, a three hole lead over Ralph Guldhal, national open title holder, at the half way point of their 36 hole match.

The two champions will resume their challenge competition tomorrow on the neutral South Shore course in Hingham.

Shute sank a 30 foot putt on the ninth for a birdie three that sent him out in 35, one under par, and one up on Guldhal. Shute went two up by half-stymying the open champion on the twelfth green, but Guldahl then put together his two best shots of the round to take the 13th with an eagle three.

Shute regained his two hole lead on the long 14th, but Guldhal birdied the par 4 15th to cut Shute's margin to one up, then used three strokes to reach each of the next two greens to go three down.

The cards:

PHILS MOVE INTO SHIBE PARK, A'S FIELD, ON MONDAY

Philadelphia, Pa., July 1.—[Special.]—The Philadelphia Phillies will abandon their home grounds, Baker bowl, on Monday. The National league club today signed an agreement to use Shibe park, home of the Athletics, for all its games.

The Phillies used Baker bowl for 51 years and won only one pennant in that time, capturing the National league title in 1915.

BUDGE DEFEATS AUSTIN; RETAINS WIMBLEDON TITLE

American Whips Briton, 6-1, 6-0, 6-3.

WIMBLEDON, England, July 1.—(AP)—Don Budge played phenomenal tennis for twenty-two minutes on Wimbledon's center court today and thrashed Henry Wilfred [Bunny] Austin for the all-England championship, 6-1, 6-0, 6-3.

In these twenty-two minutes, before a hushed and strangely baffled capacity crowd, Budge won fourteen consecutive games. After that he just toyed with his opponent until the end.

Queen Mother Mary and the duke and duchess of Kent were in the crowd that saw Budge become the first foreigner since 1921 to defend the Wimbledon title successfully.

With one title thus secure, the United States has the two finalists in the women's division, Helen Wills Moody and Helen Jacobs, and seven of the twelve players left in the three doubles finals tomorrow.

Americans May Sweep Titles.

Budge and Gene Mako and Budge and Alice Marble are favorites to retain their men's doubles and mixed doubles crowns, and Miss Marble and Mrs. Sarah Palfrey Fabyan to win the women's doubles. If all the favorites prevail it will be the first time in the history of the tournament that all five titles have been taken by one country.

Budge won the first 2 points of his match with Austin with a terrific service, a kangaroo leap to the net, and a smash. But he was left stranded at the net by three glorious passing shots on the next 3 points, and the crowd moved up to the edge of its seats.

This sort of thing went back and forth, with both storming the net, and the game went to deuce four times before Budge finally put it away. Austin followed this with a love game on his own service.

Runs 14 Straight.

Then started Budge's string of 14 straight. The Californian said later that he never remembered having played such perfect "forcing tennis." For these twenty-two minutes, bounding forward after every scorcher and anticipating every move Bunny made, he was simply terrific.

First event on the closing program tomorrow will be the women's doubles final, with Miss Marble and Mrs. Fabyan meeting the defending champions, Mme. René Mathieu of France and Adeline [Billy] Yorke of England. The American girls today defeated the South American duo of Mrs. Bobbie Heine-Miller and Margaret Morphew, 7-5, 6-4, while Mme. Mathieu and her partner eliminated Mrs. Dorothy Andrus of New York and Mme. Sylvia Henrotin of France, 3-6, 6-3, 6-4.

After the Moody-Jacobs duel, Budge and Mako will take the court against the new German Davis cup combination of Henner Henkel and Georg von Metaxa, who reached the title round with a 7-5, 6-2, 6-4 conquest of Franz Kukuljevic and Josip Pallada of Yugoslavia.

Budge and Miss Marble Win.

The final match of the day will send Budge and Miss Marble out after their second mixed doubles triumph against Henkel and Mrs. Fabyan. The defending champions today whipped Ronald Shayes and Joan Saunders of England, 6-4, 6-2, while Henkel and Mrs. Fabyan turned back Alejod Russell of the Argentine and Freda James of England, 6-3, 1-6, 6-3.

STYDAHAR AND BAUSCH ACCEPT BEAR CONTRACTS

Joe Stydahar, tackle, and Frank Bausch, center, have signed with the Chicago Bears for the 1938 season, President George Halas said yesterday.

Stydahar, from West Virginia, will be playing his third season with the Bears. He was named on the first all-league eleven last year.

Bausch, who came to the Bears from the Redskins last season and who was named on the second all-league team, is associated with the General Tire company in Wichita.

In the Wake of the News

BY ARCH WARD.

THE decision of Joe Louis to do no more fighting in 1938 is a good move not only for Louis but for the sport. . . . His smashing victory over Max Schmeling put him so far ahead of the heavyweight field there was no match in sight that would attract widespread interest. . . . While THE TRIBUNE yesterday was announcing Louis' retirement for the rest of the year, Mike Jacobs was reported to be planning a Louis-Baer match in September for Madison Square Garden bowl, the arena in which no champion has successfully defended his title. . . . He figured the jinx that trails champions in the bowl would serve as good ballyhoo. . . . If there had to be a Louis-Baer match next fall, Madison Square Garden bowl would have been as good a site as any. . . . Any spot outside Chicago would have been okay and the farther away the better. . . . Pitchers for the Portland team in the Pacific Coast league use an electric pad sewed into the sleeves of their windbreakers to keep their arms warm. . . . SOX AND INDIANS ARE RAINED OUT; TRY AGAIN TODAY

Whitehead to Pitch in Bid for Home Victory.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The Chicago White Sox, one of baseball's greatest road teams, are back home. And if it can just keep on raining until the lads take the road!

Nevertheless plans must be made for Comiskey park, poisonous as the acreage has been to the occupants. These plans call for a single game this afternoon with the league leading Cleveland Indians, the fellows who were to have opened here yesterday. And tomorrow, due to yesterday's rain, there will be a doubleheader, which in view of the pitching prospects, should be about the best baseball attraction of the year so far on the south side. Today, incidentally, will be ladies' day.

Twelve Behind Schedule.

The Sox, by virtue of their great doings away from home, combined with reversals in the east, will enter their labors this afternoon only a half game behind the sixth place Philadelphia Athletics. Moreover, the Sox have lost the same number of games as the fourth place Tigers and one fewer than the fifth place Washington Senators, who are in a percentage tie with the Tigers.

The A's also have lost one more game than the Sox. The rating of the Chicagoans, therefore, is partly attributable to their inability to play games which they still have a chance to win. With yesterday's rainout the Sox fell an even dozen games behind their schedule.

Getting around to the crack earlier in this piece about the Sox being one of the game's greatest road teams, it may be said the Sox have won nine of their last eleven road games. They have lost twelve of their last fourteen games in Comiskey park. Is that turning things upside down, or is it?

Johnny Whitehead, scheduled to pitch yesterday, will pitch this afternoon. There was rejoicing in John's behalf because of weather forecasts that the sun will do little shining today. It has become hazardous for John to get out in the sun on hot days because of his physical condition. On cloudy and cool days, however, the large man is very skilled. Manager Dykes uses an almanac in making his plans for his fat right-hander, but the weather has been so fluctuating this spring and summer.

Johnny Humphries, youthful right-hander to whom Cleveland scriveners recently have referred as "amazing," will seek to amaze the Sox and keep the Indians apace in their leadership of the now rampant Yankees.

MAN MOUNTAIN DEAN JR. JUST WRESTLER'S HOAX

Los Angeles, Cal., July 1.—[Special.] — Man Mountain Dean, the heavyweight wrestler, who passed around the cigars after informing the California State Athletic commission and newspapers that he had become a proud father, today admitted it was just a hoax.

Dean confessed that he thought the story would induce the commission to release a purse held up after one of his matches last Wednesday night. Dean's wife, who resides on a farm near Norcross, Ga., denied the story.

MRS. DONOHUE, FORMER GOLF CHAMPION, DIES

Verona, N. J., July 1.—[Special.]—Mrs. Francis A. Cronin Donohue, former women's golf champion, died today at the age of 67 years. Mrs. Donohue won the western women's golf title in Evanston, Ill., in 1904. Her favorite caddy was Chick Evans, to whom she gave his first golf club. Mrs. Donohue also was president of the Metropolitan women's golf association in 1923.

BRYANT YIELDS ONLY SIX HITS; FIVE IN NINTH

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cincinnati, O., July 1.—The Cubs finally have caught up with their No. 1 tormentor, Paul Derringer. They closed in on him under the glare of the electric lights tonight and battered him out of shape. They also battered some other pitchers and with this amazing display of power slaughtered the pennant minded Reds, 11 to 4, before 19,731 Cincinnati partisans.

The Cubs' murderous attack was only half of their winning technique. The other half was Clay Bryant, the speed baller who for quite a stretch gave promise of improving on his last start in which he blanked the Giants on three hits. For eight innings under the lights he held the Reds to one hit, a feat which made the crowd forget itself to the extent of applauding every move he made. But in the ninth he encountered difficulties, and a one hit masterpiece was suddenly turned into a six hit affair.

Two Big Innings.

Derringer, who for years has been taking the Cubs apart, worked his evil influence for only three innings. In the fourth they showered him with four hits, a deluge so shocking to the Reds that they collapsed defensively. Four runs grew from this piece of hitting enterprise. In the next inning Derringer had to quit under pressure, and his successor, Big Jim Weaver, was peppered so effectively that four more runs seeped home before the inning closed. After this the Cubs were a bit more gentle, scoring two in the sixth off Lloyd Moore and one in the ninth against Gene Schott.

The power the Cubs haven't been able to show in daylight came from every one of the nine men in action. For distance Joe Marty led the pack with a two bagger and a homer. Stanley Hack had a sorry start, fanning his first two times up, but he finished in front in the way of hits. He uncorked four in a row, two of them doubles. Crowding Hack was Phil Cavarretta, who tore off a pair of singles and a two bagger. Even Bryant shared to the extent of a single, which was highly important because it drove home two of the four runs in the fourth.

Cavarretta Starts Hitting.

If Bryant had been able to sustain his reputation as a hitter the Cubs could have crashed Derringer for a run as early as the second inning. After Marty had fouled to Goodman and Demaree had rolled to Frey, Cavarretta singled to right for the first hit of the battle. Jurges refused to nibble at any of Derringer's pitches and walked. Bryant then bounced to Riggs, who tagged Cavarretta before he arrived at third. The Cubs also had a chance to make progress in the third. With two out, Reynolds singled to right and stole second, but O'Dea popped to Frey.

Bryant started his evening of pitching by walking Frey, the Reds' leadoff man. If the Reds figured this was going to blossom into a run they were quickly disillusioned. Bryant struck out Berger, and Frey was doubled stealing. The next Red to reach base was Craft, who struck out with two gone in the second. O'Dea dropped the third strike and after recovering

MUD RUNNING OPERA STAR IS HANDY WINNER

Morris Vehon's gray filly, Opera Star, daughter of Victorian-Song Bird, demonstrated in the Diamond Lake purse yesterday that she is one of the best mud runners at Arlington Park. She scored a handy victory by a length and a quarter after leading all the way. Jocky Charley Rollins, who is riding in brilliant form, was in the saddle.

Eagle Pass, warming up for the Stars and Stripes handicap on Monday, showed a fine effort to finish second over a track which he did not particularly fancy. Visigoth was third. Eagle Pass had been the favorite.

Jocky Basil James, after trying desperately for a week, got a winner home yesterday when he piloted Mrs. Ethel V. Mars' colt, Giles County, to victory in the first race. Giles County won easily and may be one of the stars in the Milky Way farm band.

With the arrival of Seabiscuit and the remainder of Charles S. Howard's horses from Boston, Arlington Park fans will see for the first time the California sportsman's famous red and white silks, a white jacket with an inverted triangle enclosing an "H." This was the old Howard cattlebrand in the far west.

Jocky George Woolf, veteran stake rider, will arrive in Chicago today to ride Seabiscuit, Fair Knightess, and other Charles S. Howard horses. He came from New York.

Delay Action in Mikel Case Until July 15

Mikel was suspended by the Illinois commission on charges of having entered the horse My Bane in a race for 2 year olds at Lincoln Fields, the commission alleging the horse was 3 years old at the time. George Foster, secretary of the racing commission, identified a transcript of the commission's action in the case.

Mikel told the investigation committee that Dr. L. A. Merrilatt, a veterinarian, will present evidence July 15 that the horse was a 2 year old at the time of the race in question.

Members of the investigating committee include Simon Lance, Coopersville, chairman; Richard J. Barr, Joliet; Melvin Thomas, Charleston, and Joseph Mendel and William Connors, both of Chicago.

Dogs and Fishing! Lake Geneva Has Both Tomorrow

BY BOB BECKER.

Residents of Chicagoland who drive up to Lake Geneva tomorrow will find fishing and other outdoor sports in competition with dogs as Lake Geneva will hold its annual dog show. This event, for both Wisconsin and Illinois dog fanciers, will start at 10 a. m. and continue through the evening. The show program calls for final judging of the variety groups to start at 6 o'clock in the evening. After that will come the selection of the best dog in the show.

The all breed dog show being held tomorrow in Lake Geneva [Nordenholt's picnic grounds] is the second that has been sponsored by the Southern Wisconsin Kennel Club, Inc. of which James W. Menhall, well known spaniel breeder, is the president.

This year's event is of especial interest to Chicagoland owners of show dogs because local dog authorities will be among the judges. J. A. Blow of Deerfield, Ill., cocker spaniel breeder, will pick the winning dogs of that breed. J. C. Henry of Chicago has accepted the judging assignment in springer spaniels. Horace G. Lepman, another Chicagoan, will do all terriers in group four and also the collies.

A. W. Brockway, also a member of the Chicago judging group, has most of the sporting breeds, all hounds in group two, Bostons and several other breeds. The best dog in the show also will be chosen by a Chicagoan, Harold Florsheim, whose airedales have appeared and won in many shows in the United States. John W. Curry of Hinsdale, Ill., [bulldogs, John C Zimmerman of Birmingham, Mich., and Mrs. Stanley Ferguson of Lake Geneva complete the judging slate for the regular classes. Children classes will be judged by Jimmie Sullivan of Chicago.

With this show being held in Lake Geneva an outdoor fan who divides his interest between fishing and dogs can get fun out of both this week-end in the course of the trip to the southern Wisconsin lake. There is good bass fishing in the lake as it has been stocked heavily for a number of years.

BOB SEEDS HITS HOMER; GIANTS BEAT DODGERS

Drives In All of His Team's Runs in 3-1 Victory.

Brooklyn, N. Y., July 1.—(AP)—Bob Seeds, fresh from the International league, hit a home run with two on base in the fifth inning today to give the New York Giants a 3 to 1 victory over the Dodgers.

The victory stretched the Giants' winning streak to five straight games. It was the seventh triumph in a row for the Giants over the Dodgers this season. Brooklyn has yet to beat the Giants in 1938.

Harry Gumbert yielded eight hits in winning his seventh victory of the year against five defeats. For the Dodgers, the game became a double loss. Babe Phelps, hard hitting catcher and scheduled to play on the National league's All-Star squad in next Wednesday's game, fractured his right thumb in trying to handle a foul tip. He may be out for six weeks.

Dickey Drives In 7 Runs as Yankees Win

New York, July 1.—(AP)—Bill Dickey took charge of keeping the Yankees' winning streak alive today, hitting two homers, good for seven runs, to lead the world champions to an 8 to 0 victory over the Washington Senators. Dickey's slugging, a homer by Frankie Crosetti, and the fine six hit pitching of Spurgeon Chandler, made it easy for the Yankees to stretch their winning streak to six straight games.

Cubs Win 11-4 Night Contest in Cincinnati

Big Fourth Rumpus.

The big rumpus in the fourth began with Marty hoisting a double into the vacant temporary seats in left center. Demaree grounded to Myers, who heaved the ball to the grand stand, Marty going to third. Cavarretta singled to right to send Marty home. Jurges assisted with a sacrifice. Bryant lined a single into center, Demaree and Cavarretta counting. The outfielders were a bit hesitant about returning the ball, so Bryant sprinted for second, arriving safely when Myers dropped the belated throw. Bryant went to third on a passed ball and scored the fourth run on Hack's double into the right field seats. Herman and Reynolds then flied out.

Bryant amused himself in the third by fanning Myers and Derringer before getting the third out on Frey's fly to Marty. Berger opened the fourth with a pop to Herman and Bryant's no hit performance ended a moment later. Goodman sailed his two bagger into the left center field seats. The remainder of the inning was simple for Bryant. He threw out McCormick and Lombardi.

Out Goes Derringer.

The ouster of Derringer came quickly in the fifth. O'Dea led off with a single, went to second on Marty's infield out and to third on Demaree's single through short. That was the end of Derringer. Weaver went in and his first pitch to Cavarretta was turned into a two bagger to right, O'Dea scoring. Jurges fouled out, and the inning should have ended on Bryant's tap to Riggs, but the latter heaved the ball far away, Demaree and Cavarretta scoring and Bryant taking second. Hack singled to send Bryant home. The bases then became loaded on passes to Herman and Reynolds, but O'Dea, who started the trouble, concluded it with a roller to Frey.

Moore was in service for the Reds when the sixth opened, and the Cubs didn't hesitate about a fitting welcome. Marty blew his homer over the left field fence. Demaree struck out and Cavarretta, having produced three hits in a row, was treated to a pass. Just to make it good Cavarretta stole second. He charged across the plate a moment later on Jurges' single to right. Bryant then fanned and Jurges didn't get away with an attempt to steal second.

Reds Break Through.

After retiring nine men in succession Bryant walked Goodman and McCormick to open the seventh. Lombardi poked a slow roller toward third, but Hack threw him out, the two runners advancing. Craft grounded to Jurges and Goodman was permitted to score unmolested. Riggs popped to Hack.

Schott had two Cubs out of the way in the ninth before encountering his share of the evening's abuse. Hack doubled over third for his fourth hit. Herman doubled to left center for his first safe blow, and Hack scored the eleventh run.

Track Is Wet; Cancel Final Toledo Grand Circuit Races

Toledo, O., July 1.—(AP)—A wet track forced cancellation of tonight's final session of Grand circuit racing at Fort Miami, and more than 300 horses were shipped to Cleveland, where circuit warfare will be renewed Monday at North Randall. The Cleveland meet, second of the season, was scheduled to open tomorrow but rain caused a postponement.

Cubs Idle Today; Lee, Vander Meer Pitch Tomorrow

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cincinnati, O., July 1.—The Cubs and Reds have until Sunday afternoon to recover from the effects of tonight's toil. Bill Lee will pitch for the Cubs and the Reds will offer Johnny Vander Meer, whose recent pair of consecutive no hit games made him the No. 1 citizen of Rhineland.

Rain throughout today put a crimp in attendance. Several thousand temporary seats were placed along the outfield wall. They were empty. Unreserved portions of the grandstand were only partly filled.

When the Reds arrived at 8 o'clock this morning there was a large delegation of fans awaiting them at the depot. The Cubs came in at the same time, but nobody gave them a tumble.

Diz Dean, who remained in Chicago to continue heat treatments for his maimed arm, wanted to run down to St. Louis for next Monday's double-header, but Manager Grimm vetoed the suggestion. The less Dean handles a baseball the quicker his arm will show improvement, it is said.

Cuban Polo Team Holds Indoor Drill

By way of tuning up for their game tomorrow night at Soldiers' field, the Cuban and 124th Field Artillery polo teams practiced indoors yesterday in the arena of the Steve Healy farm, near Hinsdale. Tomorrow night's game, which will be held in connection with the American Legion Independence day show, will be played according to indoor polo rules. There will be three men on a side and an inflated ball will be used, due to the fact that the field is considerably smaller than the regulation outdoor field.

The international series between the two teams is to get under way Monday afternoon on the Oak Brook Polo club stadium field, York road and 22d street. Starting time has been set for 4 o'clock for all three games of the series, the second being scheduled for July 7, and the third for July 10.

Calhoun to Officiate.

Arrangements for bus service between the Westchester branch of the Rapid Transit Lines at Roosevelt road and the polo field were announced yesterday. Transportation will also be provided from the Burlington railroad's Hinsdale station and the interurban station at Elmhurst.

The starting lineup of the Cubans will be selected from among Aurelio Collazo, Lieut. José Capote, Eduardo Hardie-Brown, Capt. Manuel Larrubia, Capt. Belasario Hernandez, and Eduardo Hernandez.

Fergus Is Captain.

For the 124th Field artillery, the lineup will be picked from among Lieut. William D. Fergus, team captain; Capt. Romeo E. Mura, Leon Mandel, Lieut. Don Rice, Steve Hammond, and Capt. William S. Everett.

CHICAGO TRANSIT GROUP INSPECTS SUBWAYS IN N. Y.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 1.—[Special.]—Alderman James R. Quinn, chairman of the local transportation committee of the Chicago city council, and a party of experts today wound up a tour of the New York subways in which they gathered data to aid toward mapping out plans for the proposed $31,840,000 loop subway system in Chicago.

The mission of the two day visit here, according to Quinn, was to learn at first hand how the latest subways were built with the end in view of making Chicago's proposed system the finest in the world.

The party spent the bulk of the time in the diggings of the new city subway being constructed under Sixth avenue in Manhattan. The visitors talked to the "sandhogs," the workmen, and dodged behind pillars to escape occasional rock showers when dynamiting occurred underground.

Others in Party.

With Quinn on the tour were Alderman John Healy, vice chairman of the committee, and Philip Harrington, traction engineer. Others in the party included: Maj. R. F. Kelker, engineer for the committee; Charles E. De Leuw, consulting engineer; Alfred Shaw, architect, and Frank Randall, structural engineer.

"We came down to get information that would be helpful in building the Chicago subways if we get the grant from the PWA in Washington," said Alderman Quinn. "We have gleaned a great deal of valuable data that will help us avoid mistakes made here and construct a most efficient and safe transportation system."

Plans for State Street Tube.

Quinn said he and the rest of the party had been interested principally in the manner in which the 6th avenue subway was being constructed for it is proposed to put the same plans into effect for the State street tube in Chicago. The concrete street for surface trafic was replaced with a thoroughfare of wood planking with the digging going on underneath.

Harrington and the other engineers made analyses of details such as the followng:

Entrances, exits, the use of stairways and escalators, proper toilet facilities, arrangement of turnstiles and change booths, construction of platforms, ventilation and construction methods. Materials also were inspected by the engineering group.

Would Eliminate Hoods.

The visitors said they hoped Chicago could provide a different arrangement than the kiosks or hoods placed over many of the subway entrances and exits here in New York. These openings, they suggested, should be placed off the sidewalks in buildings where they would not disturb the flow of pedestrian trafic or be an eyesore for the community.

Dirt will fly on the Chicago subways before fall if PWA approves in the next few weeks the city's financial plans for raising its share of the funds for the project, Harrington declared.

91, AND ON WAY TO CELL, SAYS HE IS JESSE JAMES

At 91 years of age, John James is on his way back to prison. But shucks, he said last night at the detective bureau, that shouldn't be a surprise to any one. The real surprise about him, he said, is that he's the original Jesse James.

James—that is, John James—shot and killed a man in Murphysboro, Ill., in 1926, and was sentenced to the Southern Illinois prison for a year to life on a manslaughter charge. He was paroled after 16 months to a merchant in Fulton, Ky. The merchant died and James just forgot thereafter to report. He was arrested a few days ago in Charleston, W. Va., and brought to Chicago.

As for the Jesse James business, said James, who was born in Kentucky, he'd like to clear it up. The man thought to be Jesse James, the railroad bandit, who was killed in 1882 by Robert Ford, wasn't really Jesse James, he said. In fact he wasn't killed, and furthermore, Jesse James, meaning himself, wasn't a railroad bandit. "For more than 50 years I've kept secret that I'm the real Jesse James," he said.

"L"-WEST TOWNS TRANSFERS RUN ANOTHER MONTH

The Illinois commerce commission yesterday made a 30 day extension of its order requiring interline transfers between the Chicago Rapid Transit company [elevated lines] and the Chicago and West Towns railways. The transfer system, inaugurated for a six months' trial period, would have ended July 16. It allows riders using both lines to pay a single 15 cent fare instead of two 10 cent fares.

James M. Slattery, commission chairman, said the volume of trafic resulting from the transfer system has been disappointing. He said the extension was granted so that the commission would have an opportunity to study interline riding for the full six months before determining whether the arrangement should be continued or abandoned.

Find Body of Ex-Employe of Bank in Mississippi

The body of Clarence Stoltz, former employe of the Northern Trust company of Chicago, was recovered from the Mississippi river near Dubuque, Ia., yesterday, according to word received here. Stoltz, who was 40 years old, disappeared Wednesday while visiting his brother. Later his coat and a note addressed to his wife, Bessie, were found near the river bank.

WRITES A NOTE DESCRIBING HOW IT FEELS TO DIE

Julius Winnside, 29 years old, of Geneva, was found dead of exhaust fumes in his automobile yesterday on the outskirts of the town. The car radio was on and the motor had run dry. Clasped in his hand was a note. It read:

"The situation is terrible . . . your eyes get watery . . . there is an awful pressure on your ears . . . you can't breathe . . ."

Then came several illegible words as Winnside apparently lapsed into unconsciousness. His widow, Eleanor, could give no motive for his act. Winnside was a butcher.

Kessler, Lecturer at Yale, Joins U. of C. Law Staf

Friedrich Kessler, lecturer in law at Yale university and an authority on negotiable instruments, has been appointed associate professor of law at the University of Chicago. Dr. Kessler will take over his new duties in the fall. A German, Dr. Kessler was graduated from the University of Marburg in 1922. He was offered the appointment as professor in the University of Gottingen, but the appointment was later held up by the Nazi government.

ORDER ALDERMAN TO RETURN $5,500 IN FEES TO ESTATE

Judge John Prystalski ruled yesterday that Ald. Z. H. Kadow [33d] is entitled to only $4,500 instead of the $10,000 paid him in fees a attorney for the last six years for the estate of Joseph Korzeniewski. Kadow was ordered to return $5,500 difference to the estate.

On May 17 the court held that the two trustees—Mrs. Irene Kadow, wife of the alderman, and Harry Korzeniewski—were not liable for alleged negligence in failing to dispose of assets of the estate which shrank in value from $111,000 in 1929 to $11,000 in 1937.

The two trustees had been named in an accounting suit brought by Mrs. Susan Klarkowski, wife of Judge Stanley Klarkowski, and Raymond E. Korzeniewski. All are children of Joseph Korzeniewski, flour dealer, who died on Feb. 17, 1929.

DEMANDS REFUND OF PAYMENT FOR STOLEN POWER

Claiming that she paid $200 to the Commonwealth Edison company under duress in a case involving theft of electric current, Mrs. Nouritza Ezmerlian, who runs a rooming house at 924-926 Lawrence avenue, yesterday asked the Illinois commerce commission to force the company to return the money. Mrs. Ezmerlian's son, Nazar, 32 years old, was convicted several weeks ago of stealing electric current at the rooming house by "jumping" the meter and was sentenced to a year in the Bridewell. Mrs. Ezmerlian said the $200 was part of $1,500 she had agreed to pay the utility under threats of having her son sent to jail.

GETS 90 DAYS FOR FORGERY.

Peru, Ill., July 1.—[Special.]—Merritt Wilkey, 28 years old, an employé of a local dry cleaning firm, was fined $31 and given a 90 day term on state penal farm when found guilty of check forgery by Mayor William H. Long in the City court here.

OBITUARIES

John Kragerud.

Policeman John Kragerud, 53 years old, of the Racine avenue station, died in the Swedish Covenant hospital last night from an abdominal ailment after an illness of seven weeks. He lived at 2642 Argyle street. Blood transfusions, for which his fellow policemen volunteered, were given in a vain effort to save his life. Policeman Kragerud had been on the police force for twenty-three years and was assigned in recent years to the stolen automobile detail. He was born in Oslo, Norway. His widow, Karen; a daughter, Inger, and a son, Edward, survive. Services will be held at 2 p. m. Tuesday in the chapel at 4338 Fullerton avenue.

Dr. Najib Nassif Sallume.

Toledo, O., July 1.—[Special.]—Dr. Najib Nassiff Sallume, 69 years old, surgeon, scientist, and author, died last night. He came here from Turkey in 1897 and was naturalized in 1900. Educated in European universities he had been a military attaché of Turkey and was decorated several times by Sultan Abdul Hamid II., though a Christian. He had rejected an offer to become secretary of state of Persia. He had led numerous scientific expeditions across the great Arabian desert and was the author of textbooks and scientific volumes.

Alcaeus Hoofer.

Baltimore, Md., July 1.—[Special.]—Alcaeus Hoofer, former mayor of Baltimore, died today. He was 78 years old. He retired from public life more than twenty years ago, and for several years had been in failing health. The campaign in which he was elected mayor of Baltimore on the Republican ticket, in 1895, was as stormy as any in the history of this city.

Vetalis H. Kling.

Marion, O., July 1.—(AP)—Vetalis H. Kling, 73 years old, brother of the late Mrs. Warren G. Harding, wife of the late President Harding, died today. He was the last surviving member of Mrs. Harding's immediate family.

William Gentleman Sr.

Funeral services for William Gentleman Sr., 81 years old, a commission merchant at the stockyards for 55 years, will be held at 4 p. m. today in the chapel at 63d street and Harvard avenue. He died Thursday night. Mr. Gentleman was born in Falkirk, Scotland, and came to this country in 1880. He opened his commission house here in 1883 and in later years took his four sons into the business. The widow, Mrs. Eliza W. Gentleman, the sons, and two daughters survive. The family home is at 10210 South Leavitt street.

Miss Anna H. Wagner.

Miss Anna H. Wagner, 64 years old, a south side business woman for many years, died yesterday in her home, 7246 Woodlawn avenue, after a long illness. She was a daughter of the late Frederick and Frances Wagner and had lived in Chicago since coming here as a child from Germany. Surviving are four sisters and two brothers. Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Monday in the Brookline Presbyterian church, 73d street and Maryland avenue, with burial in St. Mary's cemetery.

Eyler Newton Simpson.

Princeton, N. J., July 1.—[Special.]—Eyler Newton Simpson, 37 years old, associate professor of public and international affairs at Princeton university, died today. Prof. Simpson was a member of the faculty of the University of Chicago from 1924 to 1927, serving in the final year as dean of the colleges of art, literature, and science. From 1927 to 1935 he was senior associate in Mexico of the Institute of Current World Affairs. He had been at Princeton since that time.

MINERS TRAPPED BY FALL OF ROCK; 5 KNOWN DEAD

Birmingham, Ala., July 1.—(AP)—Rescue workers won a desperate race with time tonight for the lives of three miners entombed 3,000 feet underground in the Praco coal mine by the collapse of a rock wall and brought them to the surface.

Five others were dead, either crushed by the rock or suffocated, while the ninth, workers hoped, still was alive and near rescue.

The first man reached alive, Carl Shackleford, was seriously injured, while Willard Elmore and Gurlis Hyche were suffering from bruises and lacerations.

Still sought was J. D. Painter. He was slightly back of the others when the 350 foot wall gave way. Lloyd Painter, brother of J. D., died after his arm was amputated by physicians to free him from the debris.

Other known dead were: J. I. Wingard, assistant mine superintendent, who was buried by rock; Leonard Docking, Howard Morgan, and G. Pheffer.

Dr. Ludvig Hektoen, Famed Pathologist, Is in Hospital

Dr. Ludvig Hektoen, famous pathologist, is recovering in Michael Reese hospital from a leg ailment. He entered the hospital several days ago. Dr. Milton M. Portis, his physician, said last night that his condition is not serious, and that he probably will leave the hospital within a few days. Dr. Hektoen will be 75 years old today. His home is at 5650 Dorchester avenue.

Capt. Cartan Elected Head of Police Benevolent Unit

Capt. John Cartan of the Pekin station was elected president of the Policemen's Annuity and Benevolent Fund association at the annual election yesterday. He succeeds Patrolman Patrick Dwyer, who has been president for many years. Other officers elected are Patrolman John R. O'Malley, vice president; Sergt. Matthew J. Murphy, secretary, and Sergt. James A. Coughlin, treasurer.

U. OF I. TO GET $105,000 ESTATE LEFT BY DOCTOR

The University of Illinois Foundation will ultimately receive most of the $105,000 estate of Dr. Annetta Ayers Saunders under terms of her will admitted to probate yesterday. Dr. Saunders, a practicing physician in Chicago for many years, died June 20. She lived at 919 North La Salle street. After bequests of $15,000 to four friends, the will provides that the estate be placed in trust for the only surviving relative, Chalton Ayers Powers of Hollywood, Cal. At his death the trust will go to the foundation. Dr. Saunders' medical library and two paintings are left to the university.

FAMILY OF FOUR WILL TRY AGAIN FOR MINNEAPOLIS

The Noreika family will leave for Minneapolis again today, and this time Anthony Noreika, a Detroit street car conductor, will seek to keep one eye on the road and one on his daughters, Edna, 19 years old, and Frances, 15.

Noreika left Detroit Wednesday to drive to Minneapolis, where he has a sister. With him were the two girls, and a son, George, 18. All went well until the Noreika car pulled into Walworth, Wis., Thursday night. There George discovered that his sisters were no longer asleep in the back seat. They had, in fact, been missing for some time.

Noreika retraced his route. In Mt. Prospect, 40 miles back, he found that the girls had stepped from the car when he stopped for gas. At the police station, the sergeant was sorry. He had driven the girls into Chicago to the home of a cousin. When Noreika got there both girls were asleep. Noreika went to sleep. George went to sleep. Today they hope they'll get to Minneapolis.

WIDOW OF PASTOR WHO FOUNDED ST. LUKE'S DIES

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Monday in the Evangelical Lutheran church of St. Luke's at Belmont and Greenview avenues for Mrs. Fredericka Mueller, widow of the Rev. J. E. A. Mueller, who died Thursday in Carrollton, Mo., where she was visiting a son.

The Rev. Mr. Mueller, who died in 1917, founded St. Luke's church, the largest Evangelical Lutheran church in Chicago. In 1882 Mrs. Mueller aided him in establishing the parish school. It was the first school of any kind in the area.

Mrs. Mueller was born in Kendallville, Ind., in 1861. She is survived by ten children, among them three sons who are ministers, and two daughters who were married to ministers. When in Chicago since the death of her husband, Mrs. Mueller lived at the home of a daughter, Mrs. Lydia Diener, 4019 North Keystone avenue.

T. J. M'MAHON, 49, DIES; REALTY MAN ONCE CERMAK AID

Thomas J. McMahon, 49 years old, 8040 South Paulina street, prominent for a number of years in real estate and insurance fields in Chicago, died yesterday in his home. Funeral services will be held at 10 a. m. Monday in the Little Flower Catholic church. Mr. McMahon, a native of Chicago, was a senior member of the real estate firm of McMahon and Hoban, was active in the management of real estate for the Catholic church in Chicago, and aided in the development of the church property at Mundelein. When the late Mayor Anton J. Cermak was head of the county board and the forest preserves district Mr. McMahon was chief of the real estate division of the forest preserves. His widow, Myrtle, and five children survive.

DISMISSED G-MAN STRIKES BACK AT J. EDGAR HOOVER

New York, July 1.—[Special.]—After the department of justice announced he had been dismissed for violating a Federal Bureau of Investigation oath of secrecy, Leon G. Turrou, former ace G-man, attacked J. Edgar Hoover, director of the bureau, today for writing articles himself.

Turrou asserted he had no recollection of signing a statement in which he had promised not to write anything or give out information about FBI. He submitted his resignation from the bureau June 20 to write a series of articles about the government's current spy investigation, in which he had played a prominent part. The department of justice, however, refused to accept it and dismissed him with prejudice instead, depriving him of pay for accumulated leave and retirement benefits.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK EARNINGS UNDER YEAR AGO

Half Year's Profits About $1,546,000.

Earnings of approximately $1,546,000 for the first six months of 1938 were indicated in the semi-annual statement of the First National Bank of Chicago, issued yesterday. Indicated earnings in the corresponding 1937 period were $1,820,981.

Statements issued by other banks also indicated decreased earnings for the half year as a result of shrinkage in the demand for loans and low yields available on investments suitable for bank funds.

The First National statement, issued on the seventy-fifth anniversary of the bank's founding, showed an increase in undivided profits of $646,382 compared with Dec. 31, 1937. In addition, the bank paid $900,000 in dividends, indicating a total of $1,546,000 accuring to stockholders, not considering adustments in reserve funds.

Assets Close to Billion.

Total assets of the First National stood at $999,273,282 on June 30, compared with $940,025,308 on Dec. 31. Included in the anniversary statement was a reproduction of the bank's first report, dated Sept. 30, 1863, in which total assets were listed at $481,849.

The June 30 statement of the American National Bank and Trust company indicated earnings for the first six months of the year of $116,612. The bank paid $49,000 in dividends on preferred and common stocks, and added $100,000 to surplus. Undivided profits were down $32,318 from Dec. 31. Earnings for the corresponding 1937 period are not available.

The Metropolitan Trust company reported earnings for the first six months of 1938 of $85,000. This was an increase over the comparable 1937 period, Barnet L. Rosset, president, said. The company does not do a deposit business.

Other Banks Delay Reports.

The Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company and a number of other Chicago banks will not issue detailed semi-annual statements until the regular calls issued by the controler of currency and the state auditor, which are expected in a few days.

The Bank of America [of California] issued a six months statement in which it listed earnings of $12,321,000, compared with $10,007,000 in the corresponding 1937 period. The method used by the bank in arriving at earnings differs from that used by many banks. The statement indicated that the reported earnings included funds set aside for amortization of bond premiums, depreciation in banking quarters, reserves for contingencies, and for other purposes.

New York Banks Earn Less.

Dow-Jones & Co. reported that June 30 figures issued by New York banks indicated second quarter earnings below last year in most cases. Indicated second quarter earnings of the Manufacturers' Trust company amounted to 50 cents a share on the common stock, compared with $1.12 a share last year. The New York Trust company's indicated second quarter profit was $1.32 a share, against $1.96 in the corresponding 1937 period.

Per share earnings of other New York banks for the second quarter, reported by Dow-Jones, follow: Commercial National, $2.36, against $2.30; Bank of New York, $5.01, against $5.01; Empire Trust, 23 cents, against 38 cents; Marine Midland Trust, 44 cents, against 74 cents; Chemical Bank and Trust, 58 cents, against 46 cents.

The statement of condition as of June 30 of J. P. Morgan & Co. and Drexel & Co., its Philadelphia branch, showed total deposits of $415,070,629 and total assets of $479,869,888, compared, respectively, with $388,137,607 and $448,656,163 on March 31, last. Capital was unchanged at $25,000,000.

United Corp. May Write Off $427,613,027

New York, July 1.—[Special.]—Plans for writing down the investment account of the United corporation, utility investing company sponsored by Morgan-Bonbright interests, from $580,049,445 to $152,436,018, were disclosed today by George H. Howard, president. He said stockholders are being advised to authorize revaluation of the corporation's investment holdings to market values on June 30.

George H. Howard.

Holdings of the corporation consist principally of common stocks of utility companies. Howard said one reason for the proposed writedown is to place the corporation in a position where it will not be in conflict with the provisions of the public utilities act, which restricts an investment trust as to the amount of stock it may hold in one utility company.

Hope to Resume Dividend.

Another reason for the action, Howard said, is to effect changes in the corporate structure necessary for resumption of dividends on the corporation's $3 cumulative preferred stock. The corporation paid 75 cents on the shares on Jan. 3.

The corporation, which was organized in 1929, is stated to have a 26 per cent interest in United Gas Improvement common stock; 23.4 per cent in Niagara Hudson Power common stock; 19.6 per cent in Columbia Gas and Electric stock, and 13.9 per cent in Public Service of New Jersey stock.

Although the public utility act of 1935 makes a 10 per cent interest in a utility presumptive evidence of control, the United corporation argues that it should be exempted on the ground that it is an investing company and not a managerial company.

May Reduce Utility Holdings.

However, it has been reported that the corporation has been contemplating the scaling down of its utility investments in order to avoid any contingency under the act. It has further been suggested that the company might in the future extend its investment to other than utility companies, although Howard asserted that at the present time United has no such intention.

Stockholders of the corporation will vote on the proposed writedown at a special meeting to be held on Aug. 11 in Wilmington, Del.

Settle Dispute Over Austrian Debt.

LONDON, July 1.—(AP)—Germany assumed responsibility today for the principal loans of annexed Austria in a broad settlement of Greater Germany's obligations to Great Britain.

Sir John Simon negotiates debt agreement.

The agreement was on a strictly two nation basis, excluding all other countries holding both German and Austrian bonds, and followed threats that Britain would commandeer German commercial credits here to pay interest on the debts if Germany continued to disavow Austrian obligations.

The status of debts owed the United States remained unchanged. The United States is not in the same favorable bargaining position as Great Britain toward Germany.

U. S. Lacks Trade Lever.

Germany buys more from the United States than she sells—just the opposite of the Anglo-German relations—and consequently the United States lacks the same trade lever to force a setlement.

[Since April 6 the state department has sent three communications to Germany seeking settlement of the Austrian debts to the United States, amounting to $20,000,000. Germany has not replied.]

Included in the Anglo-German agreement were reductions for British interest rates on two loans floated to help Germany's reparations settlements. The 1924 Dawes loan was cut from 7 per cent interest to 5 per cent and a 2 per cent cumulative sinking fund. A similar arrangement was made for the Austrian 7 per cent loan of 1930.

1930 Loan Interest Cut.

Interest on the 1930 Young loan was reduced from 5½ per cent to 4½ per cent and 1 per cent cumulative sinking fund beginning after two years. The Saarbruecken loan was similarly handled. Germany also agreed to pay interest on provincial loans in sterling instead of blocked marks.

The two countries undertook safeguards to prevent an upset in Anglo-German trade as a result of the financial understanding which Sir John Simon, chancellor of the exchequer, outlined before the house of commons, and which leaves British bondholders practically where they were before Germany's annexation of Austria March 13.

Make Trade Agreement.

"As regards trade," Sir John said, "an agreement has been reached for revision of the allocation for United Kingdom exports out of sterling proceeds of German exports to the United Kingdom on a sliding scale which would enable the level of United Kingdom exports to the greater reich [Germany with Austria] to be maintained as heretofore."

Germany agreed to use more of this allocation for British goods, but the quota could be changed by negotiation if sterling proceeds from German exports remaining to Germany fall too low to enable her to meet financial obligations to the United Kingdom.

Hull Hopes for Reply.

Washington, D. C., July 1.—[Special.]—Secretary of State Hull said at his press conference today that this government is hoping at any time to hear from the German government concerning the Austrian loans, but that no reply has been received from the notes sent to the German government.

Germans Sail to Seek Oil Deal with Mexico

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, July 1.—A delegation of German officials and industrialists sailed for Mexico yesterday to complete final details of a deal for the exchange of German finished goods for oil from the $400,000,000 American and British oil properties which were expropriated by the Mexican government. The delegation includes representatives of Germany's machine industry as well as representatives of the air ministry.

Germany hopes that if it succeeds in completing the deal, with the help of Davis & Co. of New York, agents for Mexico, its shortage of oil will be relieved. The Nazis expect to close a long term contract and are preparing to build a new fleet of tank ships for transportation of oil.

Oil Hard to Obtain.

Germany has experienced great difficulty in obtaining oil. The Nazis have endeavered to get it from have endeavored to get it from Rumania, but that country has insisted upon payment partly in cash and would not be satisfied with the promised delivery in goods.

Until a few weeks ago the Nazi press described Mexico as a "soviet-istic state run by Moscow." No such references have appeared in the press since negotiations for the big oil barter started.

The entire Nazi press today denounced reports that Nazis and Fascists are agitating in Latin America. Under the headline, "Armored Monroe Doctrin," the Berliner Tageblatt said that "many signs show that the Pan-American world is on the eve of its war era."

Plans Foreign Trade Control.

[Copyright: 1938: By the New York Times.]

MEXICO CITY, July 1.—The Mexican government announced today it plans to put a 12 per cent tax on all exports, including raw materials, and to establish a quasi permanent limitation on imports, which come largely from the United States, by establishing a double exchange rate.

Treasury department officials informed industrialists that tentative plans call for pegging the peso, for the moment at least, at five to the dollar for exports and four to the dollar for imports, thus, apparently, establishing central bank control.

The objects of the plan are to make up the budget deficit caused by the loss of petroleum taxes and the economic collapse, to subsidize exports, and maintain imports at a minimum.

STOCKS RESUME UPWARD MARCH, LED BY UTILITIES

Viewed with Suspicion

Johnsonburg, N. J., July 1.—[Special.]—The current rise in the stock market is viewed with suspicion by James D. Mooney, president of the General Motors Export corporation. "Such a rapid rise in so short a time has implications that something may be going on behind the scenes about changing the price tags; that is, the paper money situation," Mooney said in an interview tonight. "Either something is going on, or a lot of people think there is." He advised the public not to entertain "extravagant expectations" because of the recent upturn and to "look out that you don't loose your shirt." He added, however, that there was ground for encouragement and optimism.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 1.—Giving further proof of a strong underlying position, the stock market today forgot yesterday's slightly reactionary session and resumed its upward march under the lead of power and light shares. Net gains ranged from 1 to 3 points in the "regulars" and somewhat higher in the volatile issues as the market shook off early hesitancy by virtue of a fresh buying wave that poured in from all sides. Scores of issues were lifted to new tops for the year and longer.

The demand was especially pronounced in the last hour, although many traders cashed in during the last minutes. Closing prices were around the day's best quotations. The activity of copper shares was outstanding in this period.

Sales Total Is Smaller.

Sales decreased to 2,024,820 shares from 2,581,350 yesterday. However, the ticker occasionally failed to keep pace with floor transactions.

Opening mixed under the cooling effects of the realizing of the preceding session, stocks pointed higher in short order as demand for utility issues appeared. It was said that traders turned their attention to these stocks because they had been neglected in the recent rise.

Stimulated by buying orders of 1,000 to 5,000 shares, utility shares ran forward briskly. Among the leaders were Consolidated Edison and American Waterworks, each up 1¼ points.

The late demand for copper stocks lifted the prices of pivotal shares fractions to 2 points. Anaconda was leader, with American Smelting, International Nickel, and Kennecott close behind.

Aviations Are Bid Up.

On the announcement that the war department had awarded the largest peace time order for airplanes, aircraft issues were bid up impressively shortly before midday. Douglas and Boeing, chief recipients of the awards, were strong spots.

Carrier shares were brought to the fore when utility issues showed signs of lagging and under the lead of New York Central registered substantial gains. That stock gained nearly 1 point. Santa Fe rose 2⅝ points.

U. S. Steel common closed on its best price of the day, 59, for a gain of 2⅝ points. Bethlehem made a similar gain. Chrysler and General Motors were active in the motors, adding 3⅛ and 1⅛ points, respectively. Standard of New Jersey and Texas corporation, up 2⅛ and 1⅞ points respectively, were features in the oil division. Chemicals advanced up to 2 points.

O'Mahoney Is Named Head of Monopoly Quiz

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 1.—[Special.]—Senator Joseph C. O'Mahoney [D., Wyo.] was elected chairman of the 12 man joint congressional and executive committee created to investigate monopoly and the concentration of economic power at its first meeting today.

Representative Hatton W. Sumners [D., Tex.], chairman of the house judiciary committee, was elected vice chairman, and Leon Henderson, economist for the WPA who is not a member of the committee, was elected executive secretary.

Henderson, it was explained, will have no policymaking authority, but will coördinate the work of the various departments and administrative agencies represented on the committee and collate their reports. Henderson, former NRA official, also is expected to serve as a liaison officer between the committee and President Roosevelt, since he is one of the President's closest economic advisors.

Attitude Not Yet Revealed.

Congressional members of the committee said the closed meeting today did not progress far enough to reveal the attitude of administration representatives on the nature of the inquiry. The congressional members have made it clear they want a constructive, fact-finding investigation for the purpose of formulating effective anti-trust legislation, and do not want a witch burning inquisition, the primary object of which would be to smear business.

Altogether, apart from any influence which Henderson may exercise, the administration representatives will be in a position to control the course of the investigation if one member of the congressional group votes with them, and Representative Edward C. Eicher [D., Ia.] is an administration yes-man. Moreover, President Roosevelt has authority to allocate as he sees fit $400,000 of the committee's expense money, only $100,000 having been appropriated directly by the committee.

Other Congressional Members.

The administration representatives are Thurman Arnold, assistant attorney general in charge of the anti-trust division; William O. Douglas, chairman of the Securities and Exchange commission; Richard Patterson, assistant secretary of commerce; Isidor Lubin, commissioner of labor statistics; Herman Oliphant, general counsel of the treasury department, and Garland S. Ferguson, chairman of the federal trade commission.

The committee will meet again next Thursday, but public hearings are not expected to start before September.

COST OF 2 BIG FEDERAL SPENDERS WON'T BE IN TREASURY STATEMENT

Washington, D. C., July 1.—(AP)—Under a new system of borrowing and bookkeeping, the costs of two large lending agencies will not show in the treasury's statements of budgetary spending during the fiscal year which began today.

Officials said that the Reconstruction Finance corporation and the Commodity Credit corporation had arranged to finance themselves independently of the treasury, and that their names consequently would be stricken from the daily tabulation of federal spending.

Formerly, both agencies obtained their funds by borrowing from the treasury, which got its money from the public. Now, when they need money they will borrow direct from the public by selling their own securities. These debts although guaranteed by the treasury, are to be considered only contingent liabilities and will not show in the public debt of the treasury.

Lawyer Fees Cut; Will Get Part in Stock

A 75 per cent reduction in fees of attorneys who handled reorganization of the 168 West Adams Building corporation and payment of a major part of the fees in preferred stock of the reorganized company were ordered yesterday in a precedent breaking opinion by President Justice Evan A. Evans of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals.

Judge Evan A. Evans.

The building corporation, which owns the Midland club, was recently reorganized before Judge Evans, sitting as a District court judge, under section 77B of the amended bankruptcy law.

Big Fee is Slashed.

The principal reductions were in the big fees of Attorney Arthur Hughes and the law firm of Taylor, Miller, Busch & Boyden from $100,000 to $25,500, of which $10,500 has already been paid. Of the remainder, $3,000 is to be paid in cash and $12,000 in preferred stock. Hughes and the law firm had been allowed the $100,000 joint fee in the state court in connection with foreclosure proceedings before the case was taken to the federal courts.

Corresponding reductions were made in fees of other attorneys and all were ordered to take the major part of the fees allowed in stock.

Judge Evans also denounced the practices of promotors who financed and constructed the building. The property was mortgaged for $5,000,000, although its present value for reorganization purposes was placed at $1,700,000.

Owes $800,000 in Taxes.

After asserting that there is $800,000 in back taxes due against the property and that the corporation is in a desperate situation, Judge Evans continued in his opinion as follows:

"The first mortgage [there was also a second mortgage for $1,800,000] far exceeds the value of the property. It was a very difficult task which confronted these lawyers. The debtor had forfeited its charter. The stockholders of the debtor refused to cooperate. The trustees of said stock were equally indifferent to the plight of the creditors.

"Having promoted a hopeless enterprise and distributed their bonds among an innocent, gullible investing public, they seemingly took delight in adding to the confusion by losing the corporation franchise.

Raps Irresponsible Promoters.

"It is to be hoped that such enterprises and the irresponsibility of those who brought them into existence are of a day and age which is gone forever, and that in the future there may be both a civil and a criminal liability for those who use a corporation as an instrument for the practice of their fraud and deceit, and inflict losses on a public who fail to understand that 'a first mortgage gold bond' may still be worth little more than the paper upon which it is written, with its big gold seal."

The reorganization plan for the property calls for issuance of 340,000 shares of common and 15,000 shares of preferred stock. About 96 per cent of the common stock will be given the first mortgage bondholders and about 4 per cent to second mortgage bondholders and other creditors. Most of the preferred stock will be distributed to the various attorneys in the reorganization and foreclosure proceedings.

NEW BUILDING IN JUNE SHOWS GAIN OVER MAY

June building construction in Chicago increased in both number of permits and cost over May, Richard Schmidt, building commissioner, announced yesterday. A total of 198 permits was issued for structures costing $1,833,150, compared with 163 permits for $1,535,660 in May. This was a gain of thirty-five permits and $297,490 in cost. A comparison with June of last year shows a slight gain in number of projects but a decrease of $757,565 in cost.

Home building made a decided gain last month over both the preceding month and June of last year. Permits for 151 single family dwellings were issued. In May there were 110 permits and in June last year eighty permits.

In the first six months this year permits were taken out for 768 buildings, costing $9,007,660. During the first half of last year there were 954 projects, valued at $14,303,814.

Illinois State Penitentiary Quarry Gets Safety Trophy

Washington, D. C., July 1.—(AP)—The bureau of mines announced today that the Illinois state penitentiary limestone quarry, Menard, Ill., had been awarded a "Sentinels of Safety" trophy donated by an engineering magazine. The bureau said 318 mines and quarries participated in the national safety competition for 1937.

WEEK'S FREIGHT TRAFIC MAKES SLIGHT UPTURN

Larger shipments of grain and coal in the week ended June 25 caused a moderate increase in freight trafic over that of the preceding week, the Association of American Railroads reported yesterday. Other classes of feight were moved in smaller quantities or showed minor gains, and total car loadings were farther below those of a year ago than in the week ended June 18.

A total of 553,937 revenue freight cars was loaded, an increase of 3,368 cars over the preceding week. This, however, was 211,008 cars, or 27.4 per cent, fewer than a year ago and 154,651 cars, or 21.7 per cent fewer than in the corresponding week of 1936.

STANDARD GAS ELECTS BOARD OF DIRECTORS

Stockholders of the Standard Gas and Electric company elected a new board of directors at a special meeting yesterday in Wilmington, Del. The election was held in pursuance of the order of the federal court in Wilmington which recently confirmed the reorganization of the company under section 77b of the bankruptcy act.

The new board members had represented various classes of security holders during the reorganization proceedings. They are: Notes and debentures, Hamilton Bell; prior preference stock, George N. Armsby and Thomas J. Walker; common stock, James Bruce, Georges F. Doriot, Bernard W. Lynch, and Thomas A. O'Hara. Two additional directors are to be named July 26 by the holders of the $4 preference stock. The nominees are Benjamin L. Allen and John K. MacGowan.

President Lynch said that on completion of the election directors will meet to elect officers.

WEEK'S OUTPUT OF AUTOS STEADY AT 40,945 UNITS

Production of automobiles this week, 40,945 units, held steady with last week's output, Ward's Automotive Reports said yesterday. The market for automobiles, especially higher priced cars, is being helped by the upturn in the stock market, it said.

New passenger car registrations in America in May totaled 178,060 against 192,243 in April and 391,697 in May, 1937, R. L. Polk & Co. reported. For the first five months registrations totaled 817,652 units against 1,636,120 in the like 1937 period.

Treasury Pays Slightly More for Latest Loan

The treasury department has sold $100,001,000 of 91 day treasury bills at an average price of 99.994, to yield an average of 0.023 per cent, Secretary Morgenthau announced yesterday. The treasury earlier this week sold an issue at a price to yield an average of 0.011 per cent. Last week an issue was sold at a price to yield an average of 0.016 per cent.

Department Store Sales 10 Pct. Below Year Ago

Department store sales in the week ended June 25 were 10 per cent lower than a year ago, the federal reserve board reported yesterday. In the four weeks ended June 25 they were 13 per cent lower. Gains were reported in two federal reserve districts, 9 per cent in Boston and 8 per cent in Minneapolis.

Banks and Markets Will Close Monday

Banks and leading security and commodity markets will be closed Monday in observance of the July 4 holiday. Stock exchanges, Chicago Board of Trade, and cotton futures markets will be open today, but the Chicago Mercantile exchange and New York commodity markets, except cotton, will be closed in accordance with Saturday summer trading suspension. Canadian markets, which were closed for Dominion day yesterday, will extend the holiday through today and will reopen Monday.

CHICAGO TRANSIT AGENCIES SHOW TRAFIC DECLINE

Decreased trafic volume during June, compared with the same month in 1937, was reported yesterday by the Chicago Surface Lines, the Chicago Motor Coach company, and the Chicago Rapid Transit company [elevated].

Preliminary statements of the surface lines indicate a decrease of 8.31 per cent in revenue passengers carried during June compared with June, 1937. Officials said that this is the largest monthly decline in 1938. The elevated announced a 6.97 per cent decrease in June against June, last year. Neither of the two companies had figures available for the first six months of 1938.

The motor coach system showed a decline of 3.5 per cent in June, compared with a year ago, but a gain of 0.2 per cent for the first six months of 1938, compared with the corresponding period in 1937.

Chicago Customs Receipts Sharply Below Year Ago

Joseph A. Ziemba, United States collector of customs, reported yesterday that customs receipts in the Chicago district totaled $730,548 in June compared with $2,479,913 in the same month last year. Receipts for the first six months of 1938 were $4,884,525, compared with $10,473,240 in the corresponding period in 1937. Ziemba said grain importations in 1937 were unusually heavy.

WALGREEN WILL PAY DIVIDEND AT 25 CENT RATE

The Walgreen company yesterday declared a dividend of 25 cents on its common stock, continuing the reduced rate placed in effect in the last quarter. The current dividend is payable Aug. 1. The stock had been on a 50 cent quarterly basis until the May 2 payment of 25 cents, the higher rate being continued for some time after earnings failed to cover it. A 50 per cent stock dividend was paid in March, 1937. The company also ordered the regular preferred dividend yesterday.

Only one dividend reduction and no omissions were announced yesterday. Eureka Pipe Line company will pay 50 cents a share on Aug. 1. It paid $4 during 1937 and continued its $1 quarterly rate through May 2.

FRENCH SUSPEND IMPORTATION OF JAP QUOTA GOODS

PARIS, July 1.—(AP)—France tonight suspended importation of Japanese quota merchandise, or approximately 25 per cent of all Japanese goods purchased in France. The order, which commercial quarters said was "the most drastic of its kind ever taken against any country," was in retaliation for Tokio's failure to live up to an agreement to import in 1938 as much or more French goods as two years ago.

These sources said the apparent reason for Japan's failure to keep her side of the bargain was that she lacked foreign exchange to finance imports because of heavy purchases of war materials.

256 RAIL ISSUES TAKEN FROM N. Y. SAVINGS LISTS

New York, July 1.—[Special.]—Effective today, 256 railroad security issues involving a total of $3,163,931,000 were stricken from the list of eligible investments for savings banks in New York state. This is said to be the largest amount of securities of any one industry ever to be taken from the list of legal investment for banks in this state.

William R. White, state banking superintendent, explained that the railroad issues were stricken from the eligible list because of changes in the banking law with respect to the railroad moratorium statute, which waived certain requirements relating to the ratio of earnings to fixed charges. The moratorium was amended at the last session of the legislature.

New Financing Declines from Week and Year Ago

New York, July 1.—(AP)—New financing dropped sharply in the week ended June 30 from the previous period and totaled less than one-tenth the comparable week last year. A compilation by Poor's Publishing company today placed new issues at $15,540,693 compared with $77,144,700 a week ago and $182,789,613 in 1937. Municipal financing accounted for the bulk of recent offerings. The breakdown of new financing follows:

	Latest wk.	Prev. wk.	Year ago.

HANES, MEMBER OF SEC, BECOMES TREASURY AID

Washington, D. C., July 1.—(AP)—Secretary Morgenthau inducted John W. Hanes into the office of assistant secretary of the treasury today and assigned him to supervise the administration's tax program. He said Roswell Magill, undersecretary for the last year and a half, had decided to return to teaching law at Columbia university in September and would transfer his tax work to Hanes.

Hanes has been on the Securities and Exchange commission since January. He rose in the securities business from a messenger to senior member of the New York Stock exchange firm of Charles D. Barney & Co. Officials look to him to try to harmonize the revenue needs of the government with the needs of business, it was said.

Announcing Magill's decision to retire, Morgenthau said he did so with "deep regret." He said Magill had "rendered a great service."

Federal Housing Grants Boosted to 427 Millions

Washington, D. C., July 1.—(AP)—The United States Housing administration earmarked an additional $68,925,000 for seventeen local housing authorities today. Its action raised total commitments so far to $427,299,000 for 110 localities. Los Angeles headed the list with $25,000,000, followed by the District of Columbia with $15,000,000. Among the others was Hammond, Ind., $1,800,000.

Commodity Indices.

Certain indices are used commonly to measure the trend of commodity price levels, both for cash [spot] and futures quotations. One of these is the Dow-Jones commodity futures index, compiled daily to measure fluctuations in the level of futures prices. It is made up of the futures quotations for eleven actively traded commodities.

In computing the index, the 1924-'26 average price for each commodity futures is taken as 100. Each commodity is then assigned a "weight" based on the average value of the total production in the five years 1927 to 1931 and on its relative activity in futures trading. The commodities used and the weights assigned to each of them:

Coffee	5.0	Oats	4.0	Sugar	12.5
Corn	8.0	Rubber	6.0	Wheat	19.5
Cotton	23.0	Rye	4.0

If the index stands at 49, for example, this indicates that the level of commodity futures prices is 49 per cent of the average for the years 1924-'26.

The futures contract selected is the one calling for delivery nearest to five months from the date of calculation. These actual quotations are then adjusted to arrive at quotations which are theoretically those for delivery exactly five months away.

EXCHANGE HEAD SEES RETURN TO NORMAL TIMES

St. Louis, Mo., July 1.—(AP)—William McChesney Martin Jr., newly appointed president of the New York Stock exchange, said today that he believed the current rise in the stock market presaged a return to "normal times." The 31 year old native St. Louisan defined "normal times" as economic conditions similar to those which prevailed in 1926, before the "new era" days and the sharp decline of October, 1929.

Martin, first paid head of the nation's oldest and largest securities market, expressed his opinion and discussed his policy as president of the exchange in an interview at the home of his parents here. His father is president of the St. Louis Federal Reserve bank.

"I think the stock exchange is a public and not a private institution," Martin said, "and, as such, should try to obtain a clear understanding of its functions and be worthy of the patronage of the public."

Lee Rubber & Tire Corporation

The Board of Directors has this day declared a dividend of Twenty-five Cents (25 cts.) per share on the outstanding capital stock of this Corporation, payable August 1st, 1938, to stockholders of record at the close of business July 15th, 1938. Books will not be closed.

Stocks, Bonds

Chicago Stocks.

Chicago stocks advanced fractions to 3 points yesterday. Trading was heavy, on a turnover of 52,000 shares.

THE TRIBUNE average of 20 stocks advanced 0.31 to 10.73, highest closing average since Jan. 17. Sixty-eight of the 106 issues traded advanced, 16 declined, and 22 were unchanged. Fifteen new highs for the year were established.

Middle West gained ½ to close at 7¼, new top for 1938, on a turnover of 4,900 shares. Marshall Field, after reaching a new high of 11¼, finished ¾ higher at 11. Zenith Radio closed a full point higher at 18⅜. National Battery advanced 3 points to a new peak of 25, the closing quotation.

The exchange announced that trading will start today in the capital stock of Container Coporation of America, the first corporation to be admitted to trading under the plan whereby New York stocks may be listed at Chicago without paying a listing fee. Admitted to trading are 781,253 shares of $20 par value stock. Commonwealth Edison company's $39,113,600 of 3½ per cent convertible debentures of 1958, and $33,000,000 3½ per cent first mortgage bonds, series I., due 1968, also will be admitted to trading today.

New York Bonds.

New York, July 1.—(AP)—Bonds put on a Fourth of July exhibition seventy-two hours in advance today and skyrocketed to the highest levels for the "June-July bull market."

Rails, industrials, utilities and foreign issues all joined in the display of strength. Advances averaged fractions to 3 or more generally, with some adding 5 to 7. The carrier division turned in gains of 1 to around 3 points.

Allied Stores 4½s of '50 rose 7 points on sale of two bonds. Allegheny 5s of '50 advanced 3¾ and the 5s of '49 were up 1½.

United States government issues were quiet, ending 3-32ds of a point higher to 4-32ds lower.

Bank Stocks.

Quotations on First National bank stock advanced $14 more a share yesterday, mostly on a spurt late in the afternoon, to bring its gain so far this week to $34 a share. Quotations have risen $65 a share in the last two weeks. The stock closed at $228 bid, $233 asked yesterday.

Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company stock was marked up $3.50 a share to $72 bid, $73 asked. Northern Trust shares advanced $10 to $510 bid, $525 asked. Chicago Title and Trust company stock was up $4 at $148 bid, $153 asked. Other principal Chicago bank stocks were unchanged.

ESTIMATE WHEAT CROP JUST UNDER BILLION BUSHELS

Chicago Experts Give Out July 1 Forecasts.

An American wheat crop of 979,000,000 bushels, the second largest on record, was forecast yesterday by Chicago statisticians based on prospective yield on July 1. This compared with 874,000,000 bushels secured in 1937, and the record harvest of 1,008,000,000 bushels in 1915.

The winter wheat crop was estimated at 716,000,000 bushels, or 45,000,000 bushels less than the department of agriculture's June 1 forecast. The reduction reflected unfavorable weather during the last month and losses as the result of black rust and freezing temperatures in April and May.

June 1 Estimate Reduced.

The full effect of freezing now is being revealed in smaller yields per acre than anticipated from the condition figures a month ago. The private estimates on June 1 indicated a yield of 810,000,000 bushels.

Recent rains in the American northwest checked deterioration in the spring wheat crop and a yield of 263,000,000 bushels is forecast, or somewhat more than indicated on June 1, and the largest since 1932, when the harvest aggregated 267,000,000 bushels.

Final returns on the 1938 spring wheat crop, according to the reports, will be largely determined by weather conditions during the next few weeks, with black stem rust regarded as likely to result in some damage.

Expect Larger Canadian Crop.

The spring wheat crop of the three Canadian provinces was estimated at 363,000,000 bushels, the largest since 1932 and comparing with 189,000,000 bushels harvested in 1937.

The corn crop was placed at 2,498,000,000 bushels, or 147,000,000 bushels less than harvested in 1937 and 57,000,000 bushels less than the 1928-'32 average. An oats crop of 1,139,000,000 bushels showed little change as compared with the final returns last year.

The department of agriculture's July report will be issued on July 11 at 3 p. m., Chicago time.

WHEAT PRICES FIRMER

American grain markets showed an increase in activity yesterday. Although reduced estimates on the domestic winter wheat crop failed to attract much attention, aggressive buying developed late in the session in sympathy with strength in securities and an early decline was more than recovered.

Wheat futures on the Chicago Board of Trade closed unchanged to ¼ cent higher. Corn was ⅛ cent lower to ¼ cent a bushel higher. Oats showed independent strength for the first time in a number of weeks and closed ⅞ to 1¼ cents a bushel higher. Rye closed as much as 2 cents a bushel higher, light offerings being a factor.

Trading in grain futures on the Chicago Board of Trade during June was the heaviest for any month since November, 1937, aggregating 899,448,000 bushels, compared with 579,280,000 bushels in May and with 1,798,386,000 bushels in June, 1937.

Aggregate sales of all grain futures on the exchange during the first six months of 1938 at 3,835,675,000 bushels were 3,979,744,000 bushels less than during the corresponding period in 1937.

Chicago Postal Savings Deposits Lower in June

Postal savings deposits in Chicago declined to $101,951,414 at the end June from $102,310,578 a month earlier, Ernest J. Kreutgen, postmaster, reported yesterday. A total of 4,937 new accounts was opened during the month and 5,870 accounts were closed.

MORE COMPANIES ANNOUNCE CUTS IN STEEL PRICES

Rise in Scrap Quotations Is Reported.

A few additional announcements of price reductions in the steel industry were made yesterday, including cuts by the Acme Steel company, Chicago; American Rolling Mill company, Middletown, O., and Pittsburgh Screw and Bolt company.

Acme's new prices, effective yesterday, and based on Chicago, are $3.05 for cold rolled strip per hundredweight, and $2.15 for hot rolled strip, plus 3 cents per hundred pounds for delivery in the Chicago switching area in carload lots.

American Rolling Mill established Middletown as a basing point for hot and cold rolled strip and galvanized sheets at the same prices as at Pittsburgh and other basing points established by the steel producers.

New Scale of Prices.

Prices were set at $2.15 a hundredweight for hot rolled strip; $3.50 for galvanized sheets; $2.15 for hot rolled sheets; $3.20 for cold rolled sheets, and $3.35 for enameled sheets.

Pittsburgh Screw and Bolt announced a price reduction of $4 a ton for rivets, effective immediately for current orders and for contracts up to Sept. 30.

The Dow-Jones average price of eight important iron and steel products has been reduced to $53.80 a gross ton from $55.96 in effect at Pittsburgh a week ago.

Prices of heavy melting steel scrap—one of the materials going into the manufacture of steel—were increased 25 cents a ton at Pittsburgh, reaching $13.25 a ton, a new high for the present movement. The new quotations are $12.75 to $13.25 a ton, an advance of $2.50 a ton in this grade of scrap since the middle of June.

PAY ROLLS DIP 3 PER CENT.

New York, July 1.—(AP)—Pay rolls in the steel industry in May amounted to $46,757,000, about 2 per cent less than in April, the American Iron and Steel Institute reported today. A total of 436,000 employés was on the pay rolls, compared with 445,000 in April, the smallest decline in any month since last October.

More Telephones in Use in Chicago than Year Ago

The Illinois Bell Telephone company announced yesterday that on June 29 943,999 telephones were in service in Chicago, compared with 926,174 on the same day last year.

Peoples Gas Light and Coke.

Investors' Guide: In view of the fact that I am considering the purchase of Peoples Gas Light and Coke company stock, your comments on this company would be appreciated. —C. A. S.

Answer: The Peoples Gas Light and Coke company, one of the largest gas utility enterprises in the world, has supplied the entire gas requirements of the city of Chicago for more than eighty years. Population served is now in excess of 3,500,000, and the company had approximately 840,000 customers at the end of 1937.

Five gas manufacturing plants having total daily capacity of 787,760 therms of coke oven and water gas are maintained by the company, but about 90 per cent of the gas manufactured by the company is made at the Crawford avenue plant, which has a daily capacity of 394.500 therms. A therm has a heating value of 100,000 British thermal units.

Affiliated pipeline companies also bring natural gas to Chicago from the Texas panhandle, the gas being acquired under a contract expiring in 1946. The natural gas is mixed with manufactured gas in the proportion of 55 per cent natural gas to 45 per cent manufactured gas. Distribution in the Chicago area is accomplished through 3,353 miles of mains. Because the supply of natural gas exceeds normal requirements, the company has arranged to dispose of large quantities of this product on an interruptible supply oasis at very low rates.

After being denied a $3,000,000 annual rate increase by the Illinois commerce commission, the company obtained a ruling from the Cook county Superior court granting the boost. The commission has appealed the ruling to the state Supreme court and the company has agreed to impound the additional revenues pending outcome of the appeal.

Net income for the first quarter of this year declined to $699,700, or $1.05 a share, from $1,140,294, or $1.72 a share, in the corresponding 1937 period.

Net income was $2,424,725, or $3.65 a share, in all of 1937, compared with $2,133,280, or $3.21 a share, in 1936, and a depression low of $862,145, or $1.28 a share, in 1934. Total assets were $196,107,911 at the end of 1937. Current assets were $17,321,884, against current liabilities of $11,358,050.

The company had funded debt of $78,287,100 at the end of 1937. There are 664,425 $100 shares of capital stock outstanding. Dividends last year were $2 a share. No payments have been made so far this year.
